S Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center, denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained and the petition will be approved.

The petitioner is the mother church of the Church of Scientology. It seeks to classify the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as a member of the Sea Organization (Sea Org), a religious order of the Church of Scientology. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that the beneficiary's position qualifies as either a religious occupation or a religious vocation. The director also questioned the authenticity of a key document reproduced in the record.

Section 203(b)(4) of the Act provides classification to qualified special immigrant religious workers as described in section 101(a)(27)(C) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C), which pertains to an immigrant who:

(i) for at least 2 years immediately preceding the time of application for admission, has been a member of a religious denomination having a bona fide nonprofit, religious organization in the United States;

(ii) seeks to enter the United States--

(I) solely for the purpose of carrying on the vocation of a minister of that religious denomination,

(II) before October 1, 2008, in order to work for the organization at the request of the organization in a professional capacity in a religious vocation or occupation, or

(III) before October 1, 2008, in order to work for the organization (or for a bona fide organization which is affiliated with the religious denomination and is exempt from taxation as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) at the request of the organization in a religious vocation or occupation; and

(iii) has been carrying on such vocation, professional work, or other work continuously for at least the 2-year period described in clause (i).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(m)(2) offers the following pertinent definitions:

Religious occupation means an activity which relates to a traditional religious function. Examples of individuals in religious occupations include, but are not limited to, liturgical workers, religious instructors, religious counselors, cantors, catechists, workers in religious hospitals or religious health care facilities, missionaries, religious translators, or religious broadcasters. This group does not include janitors, maintenance workers, clerks, fund raisers, or persons solely involved in the solicitation of donations.

Religious vocation means a calling to religious life evidenced by the demonstration of commitment practiced in the religious denomination, such as the taking of vows. Examples of individuals with a religious vocation include, but are not limited to, nuns, monks, and religious brothers and sisters.

The regulation reflects that positions whose duties are primarily administrative or secular in nature do not qualify as religious occupations. Citizenship and Immigration Services therefore interprets the term “traditional religious function” to require a demonstration that the duties of the position are directly related to the religious creed of the denomination, that the position is defined and recognized by the governing body of the denomination, and that the position is traditionally a permanent, full-time, salaried occupation within the denomination.

In a letter dated September 10, 2003, [REDACTED] a personnel official with the petitioning entity, states:

[The beneficiary] became a Sea Organization member in August 1990. . . . [I]n 1998 he began working in the area that dealt with public affairs, religious missions, and Church programs. He came to Los Angeles in July 2000 and took on the position which has the similar functions to what he was working on in the United Kingdom. . . .

[The petitioner] has staff qualifications requiring Sea Organization membership. . . .

Sea Organization members devote their lives to their religion; they live in community with other Sea Organization members and wear specific uniforms. Their meals, housing, clothes, medical and dental care are provided by the Church. Each member additionally receives a small weekly allowance, currently $50.00 per week and occasional small bonuses.

The director concluded that the petitioner did not adequately describe the beneficiary’s duties, and that the petitioner has failed “to show that the Sea Organization has a governing structure, a formal legal organizing instrument, set theological education standards, or operates with its own budget and assets.” The director did not explain the source of these requirements. The director acknowledged the members’ “life-long commitment to their faith,” but determined that there is insufficient evidence to conclude that the Sea Org is a religious order, whose members qualify as workers in a religious vocation.

The Church of Scientology has provided various documents and affidavits discussing the Sea Org. Upon careful consideration of these materials, the AAO is satisfied that the Sea Org qualifies as a religious order, and that its members practice a religious vocation. Because a discussion of specific duties is germane to religious occupations, but not religious vocations, we need not analyze those duties in any detail.

Having concluded that the Sea Org is a religious order, we must now determine whether or not the beneficiary has been a full member of that order since at least two years prior to the petition’s September 12, 2003 filing date, as required by section 101(a)(27)(C)(iii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C)(iii), and 8 C.F.R. §§ 204.5(m)(1) and (3)(ii)(A).

The record contains copies of several certificates, including a "Sea Organization Contract of Employment," which reads, in part, "I contract myself to the Sea Organization for the next billion years," signed by the beneficiary and dated August 12, 1990. The contract contains a separate section for signatures to show that the "Swearing In Ceremony" has taken place; the beneficiary signed under this section, but there is no recruiter's signature to verify that the oath had been administered. The petitioner explained: "There was no swearing in ceremony done at the time [the beneficiary] joined the Sea Organization, thus there is no signature on that line."

The director, in denying the petition, observed that the Sea Org "Contract of Employment" is not a decisive instrument of membership in the Sea Org, and that "[t]he petitioner submitted no documentary evidence to show that the beneficiary is in fact a full member" of the Sea Org. The director also found that the petitioner's explanation regarding the contract was not persuasive, because "[i]t is unclear why the beneficiary would sign for a Swearing In Ceremony that never took place."

On appeal, the petitioner submits materials concerning the various steps required to join the Sea Org, such as completion of the Estates Project Force (EPF) and review by a Fitness Board. From materials made available to us, we have concluded that an individual who has successfully passed review by the Fitness Board can be considered a member of the Sea Org (as opposed to a recruit, who is not a full member). Therefore, the petitioner can establish that the beneficiary possesses the relevant experience by submitting church records showing that the beneficiary passed the Fitness Board at least two years before September 12, 2003 and continuously engaged in the vocation during that time.

In a supplement to the appeal, the petitioner submits copies of contemporaneous church documents, indicating that the beneficiary passed the Fitness Board in September 1990. This indicates that the beneficiary was a full member of the Sea Org for 13 years prior to the petition's September 2003 filing date. The director cites no contradictory evidence that would cast doubt on the information shown on the documents submitted on appeal, or show that the beneficiary engaged in disqualifying outside employment during the relevant two-year period.

While it is puzzling that the beneficiary would sign the "Swearing In Ceremony" line of the contract if he was not actually sworn in, this anomaly does not facially discredit the authenticity of the document. If the beneficiary's signature was fraudulently applied, then it would be an equally simple matter to apply a fraudulent recruiter's signature as well. It seems plausible that the beneficiary, seeing two different lines designated for his signature, signed both of them without close attention to the print between the two lines. As noted above, the record contains other evidence from various periods in the 1990s that refers to the beneficiary as a full Sea Org member.

Pursuant to the above discussion, the petitioner has overcome the stated grounds for denial. Upon review of the record, we see no readily apparent obstacle to the approval of the petition. The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has sustained that burden. Accordingly, the decision of the director denying the petition will be withdrawn and the petition will be approved.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained and the petition is approved.
