DISCUSSION: The service center director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition. The matter is now on appeal before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO). The appeal will be dismissed. The petition will be denied.

On the Form I-129 visa petition, the petitioner describes itself as a photography studio established in 2010. In order to employ the beneficiary in what it designates as an art director position, the petitioner seeks to classify her as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b). The director denied the petition on the grounds that the petitioner failed to establish that the proffered position qualifies for classification as a specialty occupation.

On [REDACTED] 2012, the AAO sent a Request for Evidence (RFE) to the petitioner, requesting it to (1) explain the discrepancy between its website and the petition regarding the proffered position; (2) provide evidence that the beneficiary is authorized to work in the United States; (3) provide evidence to establish that its photographers have a baccalaureate or higher degree in a specific specialty, or its equivalent; and (4) provide any other evidence to establish that the position of photographer requires a baccalaureate or higher degree in a specific specialty, or its equivalent. The petitioner was afforded 33 days to respond to the RFE.

The petitioner did not respond within the 33-day period allowed in the RFE, or any time since then. If a petitioner fails to respond to a request for evidence by the required date, the petition may be summarily denied as abandoned, denied based on the record, or denied for both reasons. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13)(i). As further provided in 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14), the failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition.

As the petitioner has not responded to the [REDACTED] 2012 RFE, the petition is deniable under the regulatory provisions cited above. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed, and the petition will be summarily denied as abandoned and denied due to the failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry, making any remaining issues in this proceeding moot.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. The petition is summarily denied as abandoned and denied due to the failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry.
