PETITION: Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker Pursuant to Section 101(a)(H)(ii)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(b)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

for Michael T. Kelly
Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a restaurant, and it desires to employ the beneficiary in the position of Indo-Pak cuisine trainer cook pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(H)(ii)(b) from July 24, 2006 until July 23, 2007. The Department of Labor (DOL) determined that a temporary labor certification by the Secretary of Labor could not be granted. The director determined that the petitioner had not overcome the objections addressed in the DOL's decision and denied the petition.

On appeal, counsel made four statements on the Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal. Counsel's general objections to the denial of the petition, without specifically identifying any errors on the part of the director or providing new evidence to support that the beneficiary will be employed for a temporary period, are simply insufficient to overcome the well-founded and logical conclusions the director reached based on the evidence submitted by the petitioner. Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I & N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm. 1998)(citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg. Comm. 1972)). The assertions of counsel do not constitute evidence. Matter of Obaighena, 19 I & N Dec. 1 (BIA 1983); Matter of Ramirez-Sanchez, 17 I & N Dec. 503, 506 (BIA 1980). Upon review, the AAO concurs with the director's decision and affirms the denial of the petition.

Section 101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(ii)(b), defines an H-2B temporary worker as:

an alien having a residence in a foreign country which he has no intention of abandoning, who is coming temporarily to the United States to perform other temporary service or labor if unemployed persons capable of performing such service or labor cannot be found in this country . . . .

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(6)(iii) states in pertinent part:

(C) The petitioner may not file an H-2B petition unless the United States petitioner has applied for a labor certification with the Secretary of Labor . . . within the time limits prescribed or accepted by each, and has obtained a labor certification determination as required by paragraph (h)(6)(iv). . . .

The regulations stipulate that an H-2B petition for temporary employment in the United States shall be accompanied by a labor certification determination that is either: (1) a certification from the Secretary of Labor stating that qualified workers in the United States are not available and that the alien's employment will not adversely affect wages and working conditions of similarly employed United States workers; or (2) a notice detailing the reasons why such certification cannot be made. 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(6)(iv)(A).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h) provides, in part:

(6) Petition for alien to perform temporary nonagricultural services or labor (H-2B):

(i) General. An H-2B nonagricultural temporary worker is an alien who is coming temporarily to the United States to perform temporary services or labor, is not displacing United States workers capable of performing such services or labor, and whose employment is not adversely affecting the wages and working conditions of United States workers.

(ii) Temporary services or labor:

(A) Definition. Temporary services or labor under the H-2B classification refers to any job in which the petitioner's need for the duties to be performed by the employee(s) is temporary, whether or not the underlying job can be described as permanent or temporary.

(B) Nature of petitioner's need. As a general rule, the period of the petitioner's need must be a year or less, although there may be extraordinary circumstances where the temporary services or labor might last longer than one year. The petitioner's need for the services or labor shall be a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need:

(1) One-time occurrence. The petitioner must establish that it has not employed workers to perform the services or labor in the past and that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future, or that it has an employment situation that is otherwise permanent, but a temporary event of short duration has created the need for a temporary worker.

(2) Seasonal need. The petitioner must establish that the services or labor is traditionally tied to a season of the year by an event or pattern and is of a recurring nature. The petitioner shall specify the period(s) of time during each year in which it does not need the services or labor. The employment is not seasonal if the period during which the services or labor is not needed is unpredictable or subject to change or is considered a vacation period for the petitioner's permanent employees.

(3) Peakload need. The petitioner must establish that it regularly employs permanent workers to perform the services or labor at the place of employment and that it needs to supplement its permanent staff at the place of employment on a temporary basis due to a seasonal or short-term demand and that the temporary additions to staff will not become a part of the petitioner's regular operation.

(4) Intermittent need. The petitioner must establish that it has not employed permanent or full-time workers to perform the services or labor, but occasionally or intermittently needs temporary workers to perform services or labor for short periods.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(6)(iv) states the following with regard to H-2B petitions filed after the DOL has denied temporary labor certification:

(D) Attachment to petition. If the petitioner receives a notice from the Secretary of Labor that certification cannot be made, a petition containing countervailing evidence may be filed with the director. The evidence must show that qualified workers in the United States are not available, and that the terms and conditions of employment are consistent with the nature of the occupation, activity, and industry in the United States. All such evidence submitted will be considered in adjudicating the petition.

(E) Countervailing evidence. The countervailing evidence presented by the petitioner shall be in writing and shall address availability of U.S. workers, the prevailing wage rate for the occupation of the United States, and each of the reasons why the Secretary of Labor could not grant a labor certification. The petitioner may also submit other appropriate information in support of the petition. The director, at his or her discretion, may require additional supporting evidence.

The precedent decision Matter of Artee Corp., 18 I&N Dec. 366 (Comm. 1982), states the test for determining whether an alien is coming "temporarily" to the United States to "perform temporary services or labor" is whether the need of the petitioner for the duties to be performed is temporary. Matter of Artee holds that it is the nature of the need, not the nature of the duties, that is controlling.

The petitioner seeks approval of the proffered position as a one-time occurrence.

As a general rule, the period of the petitioner's need must be a year or less, although there may be extraordinary circumstances where the temporary services or labor might last longer than one year. The petitioner's need for the services or labor shall be a one-time occurrence, a seasonal need, a peakload need, or an intermittent need. 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B). The petition asserts that the employment is a one-time occurrence and that the temporary need is unpredictable.

To establish that the nature of the need is a "one-time occurrence," the petitioner must demonstrate that it has not employed workers to perform the services or labor in the past and that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future, or that it has an employment situation that is otherwise permanent, but a temporary event of short duration has created the need for a temporary worker. 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(h)(6)(ii)(B)(1).

The nontechnical description of the job on the Application for Alien Employment Certification (Form ETA 750) reads:

Train cooks in preparation of Ind-Pak specialties using Northern, Southern, Indian and Mughlai methods.

In addition, the Application for Alien Employment Certification (Form ETA 750) at Part A indicates that the minimum amount of experience in the job offered is three years.

In determining whether an employer has demonstrated a temporary need for an H-2B worker, it must be determined whether the job duties, which are the subject of the temporary application, are permanent or temporary. If the duties are permanent in nature, the petitioner must clearly show that the need for the beneficiary's services or labor is of a short, identified length, limited by an identified event. Based on the evidence presented, a claim that a temporary need exists cannot be justified.

In order for the petitioner's need to be a one-time occurrence, the petitioner must demonstrate that it has not employed workers to perform the services or labor in the past and that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future, or that it has an employment situation that is otherwise permanent, but a temporary event of short duration has created the need for a temporary worker. On the Form I-129, the petitioner explains the temporary need and one-time occurrence as "due to shortage of speciality cooks, I am having a lot of problem in meeting the ever increasing demand for such food. It is in this regard that I want two trainer cooks to come to US and train my cooks their methods." However, the petitioner has not demonstrated that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future. The petitioner claims that the workers are needed to train the chefs of the restaurant, however, the petitioner did not submit supporting documentation evidencing that the chefs do not already have training in the specialty cuisine. In addition, a restaurant may have a high turn over and thus the needs of a trainer in the specialty cuisine may continue beyond the one time need in order for the business to succeed. Thus it does not appear that the need of an Indo-Pak Cuisine Trainer Cook is a one-time occurrence. The petitioner's need for an Indo-Pak Cuisine Trainer Cook to perform the duties described on Form ETA 750 may occur in the future since the company is a restaurant and is engaged in providing Indo-Pak cuisine.

The petitioner has not demonstrated that it will not need workers to perform the services or labor in the future or that it has an employment situation that it otherwise permanent, but a temporary event of short duration has created the need for a temporary workers. That petitioner has not established that its need for the beneficiaries' services is a one-time occurrence and temporary. In particular, as the director's decision indicated in its excerpt from Matter of Golden Dragon Chinese Restaurant, 19 I&N Dec. 238 (Comm. 1984), the petition has failed to provide evidence establishing that the beneficiary would function as a trainer rather than in a production capacity, as a cook. As indicated in Matter of Golden Dragon, such evidence should include documentation showing the framework and content of the training program, and evidence that the petitioner can viably employ a full-time instructor and viably operate the training program and its commercial enterprise simultaneously. Simply going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm. 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg. Comm. 1972)).

If the petitioner is experiencing a severe labor shortage, it can be alleviated through the issuance of immigrant visas. Absent evidence of the petitioner's "one-time occurrence" situation to justify its need for the beneficiaries' services, this petition cannot be approved.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Dor v. INS, 891 F.2d 997, 1002 n. 9 (2d Cir. 1989)(noting that the AAO reviews appeals on a de novo basis).

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, the petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
