John F. Grissom
Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Field Office Director, Atlanta, Georgia, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The record reflects that the applicant was born on August 6, 1999 in Iran. The applicant's parents are [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. The applicant was born out of wedlock. The applicant's father became a U.S. citizen on December 22, 2003, when the applicant was four years old. The applicant was admitted to the United States as a lawful permanent resident on March 19, 2008, when she was eight years old. The applicant seeks a certificate of citizenship pursuant to section 320 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1431, based on the claim that she acquired U.S. citizenship through her father.

The field office director concluded, in relevant part, that the applicant did not acquire U.S. citizenship under section 320 of the Act because her father's paternity had not been established by legitimation. On appeal, the applicant, through her father, maintains that she was legitimated in Iran and that she has been in her father's legal and physical custody.

Section 320 of the Act was amended by the Child Citizenship Act of 2000 (CCA), and took effect on February 27, 2001. The CCA benefits all persons who had not yet reached their 18th birthdays as of February 27, 2001. Because the applicant was under 18 years old on February 27, 2001, she meets the age requirement for benefits under the CCA.

Section 320 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1431, states in pertinent part that:

- (a) A child born outside of the United States automatically becomes a citizen of the United States when all of the following conditions have been fulfilled:
  - (1) At least one parent of the child is a citizen of the United States, whether by birth or naturalization.
  - (2) The child is under the age of eighteen years.
  - (3) The child is residing in the United States in the legal and physical custody of the citizen parent pursuant to a lawful admission for permanent residence.

Section 101(c) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(c) states, in pertinent part, that for Title III naturalization and citizenship purposes:

The term "child" means an unmarried person under twenty-one years of age and includes a child legitimated under the law of the child's residence or domicile, or under the law of the father's residence or domicile, whether in the United States or elsewhere . . . if such legitimation . . . takes place before the child reaches the age of 16 years . . . and the child is in the legal custody of the legitimating . . . parent or parents at the time of such legitimation

The record reflects that the applicant was admitted to the United States as a lawful permanent resident in 2008, and that the applicant's father naturalized in 2003. The applicant is under the age of 18. The question remains whether the applicant falls within the definition of "child," specifically, whether she was legitimated under the laws of her (or her father's) residence or domicile.

The AAO finds that the applicant was not legitimated under Georgia law, her father's state of residence. See 7 FAM 1133.4-2 (citing to Code of Georgia §§ 74-101 and 74-103). The AAO further finds that the applicant has not established that she was legitimated under Iranian law. Article 1167 of the Iranian Civil Law states that "[a] child born out of wedlock cannot be attributed to the adulterer or male violator." See www.unicef.org/iran/IRN\_resources\_BR\_eng-word.doc. The applicant therefore does not meet the definition of "child" found in section 101(c) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(c), and thus did not automatically acquire U.S. citizenship pursuant to section 320 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1431.

Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 341.2(c), the burden of proof shall be on the claimant to establish the claimed citizenship by a preponderance of the evidence. In order to meet this burden, the applicant must submit relevant, probative and credible evidence to establish that the claim is "probably true" or "more likely than not." Matter of E-M-, 20 I&N Dec. 77, 79-80 (Comm. 1989). The applicant has not met her burden and the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
