DISCUSSION: The Director of the Nebraska Service Center (the director) denied the Application for Replacement Naturalization/Citizenship Document (Form N-565), and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

Pertinent Facts and Procedural History

The applicant is a native of Afghanistan, and a naturalized citizen of the United States. He seeks to have his certificate of naturalization corrected under section 338 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1449, to reflect a change in his date of birth from June 1, 1981 to September 2, 1978.

The director reviewed the applicant's record and determined that a correction to his certificate of naturalization was not justified. Specifically, the director noted that the applicant had claimed the date of birth on the certificate at the time of naturalization. The application was denied accordingly.

On appeal, the applicant requests that his certificate of naturalization be changed to conform to his correct date of birth, September 2, 1978. The applicant submits an identification card issued by the Ministry of Interior indicating that his date of birth is September 2, 1978, and states that he arrived in the United States without the required documents because of the war in Afghanistan. See Statement of the Applicant in Support of Appeal. He further states that he obtained the identification card when he visited Afghanistan in 2007. Id.

Applicable Law

Section 338 of the Act provides the statutory authority relating to the contents of a certificate of naturalization. In addition, the regulations regarding the execution and issuance of certificates of naturalization are contained in 8 C.F.R. § 338.5, and provide, in part, that:

- (a) Application. Whenever a Certificate of Naturalization has been delivered which does not conform to the facts shown on the application for naturalization, or a clerical error was made in preparing the certificate, an application for issuance of a corrected certificate may be filed, without fee, in accordance with the form instructions.

- (e) Data change. The correction will not be deemed to be justified where the naturalized person later alleges that the name or date of birth which the applicant stated to be his or her correct name or date of birth at the time of naturalization was not in fact his or her name or date of birth at the time of the naturalization.

Analysis

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The applicant's administrative record contains the following documents listing the applicant's date of birth as June 1, 1981:

- The applicant's N-400, Application to File Petition for Naturalization;
- The applicant's U.S. passport;
- The applicant's California driver's license;
- The applicant's selective service registration;
- A Memorandum of Creation of Record of Lawful Permanent Residence (Form I-181);
- The applicant's Permanent Resident Card;
- The applicant's Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status;
- The applicant's Form I-693, Medical Examination of Aliens Seeking Adjustment of Status, and Immunization Supplement;
- A Biographic Information Form (G-325A);
- The applicant's Form I-94, Arrival/Departure Form, indicating his refugee admission;
- The Applicant's Form I-590, Registration for Classification as Refugee; and
- The Applicant's Form OF-157, Medical Examination of Applicants for United States Visas.

Based on the evidence in the record, the applicant has not established that his certificate of naturalization, which states that his date of birth is June 1, 1981, contains clerical errors attributable to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). As noted above, the June 1, 1981 birth date was listed as the applicant's date of birth in his Application for Naturalization (Form N-400) and his immigration record.¹

The applicant now claims that his date of birth is September 2, 1978, as indicated in an identification card and an affidavit submitted in support of his claim. Nevertheless, the applicant stated on his naturalization application that his date of birth is June 1, 1981. No redlined changes were made by the adjudicator to change the applicant's date of birth at the time of the applicant's naturalization interview. When signing the Form N-400 at the conclusion of the interview, the applicant attested to knowing the contents of his application.

As provided at 8 C.F.R. § 338.5(e): “[A] correction will not be deemed to be justified where the naturalized person later alleges that the . . . date of birth which the applicant stated to be his or her . . . date of birth at the time of naturalization was not in fact his or her . . . date of birth at the time of the naturalization.” The totality of the relevant evidence in the applicant's administrative record does not support a finding that USCIS made a clerical error when placing the June 1, 1981 date of birth on the applicant's certificate of naturalization. At the time of his naturalization, the applicant's record contained several documents supporting the June 1, 1981 date of birth, and the applicant's attested to this fact during the naturalization process. Neither the statute nor the regulations allows USCIS to correct a date of birth for any reason but clerical error attributable to USCIS. See 8 C.F.R. § 338.5(a).

Conclusion

In application proceedings, it is the applicant's burden to establish eligibility for the immigration benefit sought. See Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. The application remains denied.
