Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The termination of the applicant's temporary resident status by the Director, Western Service Center, came before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The case was subsequently reopened and remanded by AAO, and the applicant's temporary resident status was terminated by the Director, California Service Center. The case is again before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The Director, California Service Center, finally terminated the applicant's status as a temporary resident because the applicant failed to appear for fingerprinting.

On May 25, 2004, the applicant was requested to appear at the Citizenship and Immigration Services or CIS office in South Los Angeles-Gardena, California in order to be fingerprinted on June 18, 2004. The record shows that this request was mailed to the applicant at her address of record and that such request was not returned by the United States Postal Service as either unclaimed or undeliverable. The director subsequently terminated the applicant's temporary resident status on September 25, 2004, because the applicant failed to appear for the required fingerprinting.

As of March 29, 1998, applicants for temporary resident status under section 245A of the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1255a, are required to be fingerprinted at a Immigration and Naturalization Service (Service) or its successor CIS Application Support Center or an approved Designated Law Enforcement Agency.

Declarations by an applicant that he or she has not had a criminal record are subject to a verification of facts by the Service or its successor CIS. The applicant must agree to fully cooperate in the verification process. Failure to assist the Service or its successor CIS in verifying information necessary for the adjudication of the application may result in a denial of the application or a termination of temporary resident status. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(k)(5).

An alien applying for adjustment of status has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she has resided in the United States for the requisite periods, is admissible to the United States under the provisions of section 245A of the Act, and is otherwise eligible for adjustment of status. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(5). The applicant has failed to meet this burden by not providing necessary evidence to establish that she is admissible under the provisions of section 245A of the Act. The applicant is, therefore, ineligible for temporary resident status under section 245A of the Act.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
