Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status pursuant to the terms of the settlement agreements reached in Catholic Social Services, Inc., et al., v. Ridge, et al., CIV. NO. S-86-1343-LKK (E.D. Cal) January 23, 2004, and Felicity Mary Newman, et al., v. United States Immigration and Citizenship Services, et al., CIV. NO. 87-4757-WDK (C.D. Cal) February 17, 2004, (CSS/Newman Settlement Agreements) was denied by the Director, New York, New York, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant submitted a Form I-687, Application for Status as a Temporary Resident under Section 245A of the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act), and a Form I-687 Supplement, CSS/Newman Class Membership Worksheet. The director determined that the applicant had not established by a preponderance of the evidence that he had continuously resided in the United States in an unlawful status for the duration of the requisite period. The director denied the application, finding that the applicant had not met his burden of proof and was, therefore, not eligible to adjust to temporary resident status pursuant to the terms of the CSS/Newman Settlement Agreements.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the applicant has submitted substantial proof which evidences beyond a reasonable doubt that he maintained continuous residence in the United States during the requisite period.

An applicant for temporary resident status must establish entry into the United States before January 1, 1982, and continuous residence in the United States in an unlawful status since such date and through the date the application is filed. Section 245A(a)(2) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1255a(a)(2).

The applicant must also establish that he or she has been continuously physically present in the United States since November 6, 1986. Section 245A(a)(3) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1255a(a)(3). The regulations clarify that the applicant must have been physically present in the United States from November 6, 1986 until the date of filing the application. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(b)(1).

For purposes of establishing residence and presence in accordance with the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(b), "until the date of filing" shall mean until the date the alien attempted to file a completed Form I-687 application and fee or was caused not to timely file, consistent with the class member definitions set forth in the CSS/Newman Settlement Agreements. Paragraph 11, page 6 of the CSS Settlement Agreement and paragraph 11, page 10 of the Newman Settlement Agreement.

An alien applying for adjustment of status has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that he or she has resided in the United States for the requisite periods, is admissible to the United States under the provisions of section 245A of the Act, and is otherwise eligible for adjustment of status. The inference to be drawn from the documentation provided shall depend on the extent of the documentation, its credibility and amenability to verification. See 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(5).

Although the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(3) provides an illustrative list of contemporaneous documents that an applicant may submit in support of his or her claim of continuous residence in the United States in an unlawful status since prior to January 1, 1982, the submission of any other relevant document including affidavits is permitted pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(3)(vi)(L).

The “preponderance of the evidence” standard requires that the evidence demonstrate that the applicant's claim is “probably true,” where the determination of “truth” is made based on the factual circumstances of each individual case. Matter of E-M-, 20 I&N Dec. 77, 79-80 (Comm. 1989). In evaluating the evidence, Matter of E-M- also stated that “[t]ruth is to be determined not by the quantity of evidence alone but by its quality.” Id. Thus, in adjudicating the application pursuant to the preponderance of the evidence standard, the director must examine each piece of evidence for relevance, probative value, and credibility, both individually and within the context of the totality of the evidence, to determine whether the fact to be proven is probably true.

Even if the director has some doubt as to the truth, if the petitioner submits relevant, probative, and credible evidence that leads the director to believe that the claim is “probably true” or “more likely than not,” the applicant or petitioner has satisfied the standard of proof. See U.S. v. Cardozo-Fonseca, 480 U.S. 421 (1987) (defining “more likely than not” as a greater than 50 percent probability of something occurring). If the director can articulate a material doubt, it is appropriate for the director to either request additional evidence or, if that doubt leads the director to believe that the claim is probably not true, deny the application or petition.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(3)(i) states that letters from employers attesting to an applicant's employment must: provide the applicant's address at the time of employment; identify the exact period of employment; show periods of layoff; state the applicant's duties; declare whether the information was taken from company records; and identify the location of such company records and state whether such records are accessible or in the alternative state the reason why such records are unavailable.

At the time the applicant filed his Form I-687 application, he provided no documentation to establish continuous residence and physical presence in the United States during the requisite period. In response to a Notice of Intent to Deny dated November 22, 2005, the applicant, in an attempt to establish continuous unlawful residence since prior to January 1, 1982 through the date he attempted to file his application, submitted:

- Affidavits from [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] who indicated that they have known the applicant since 1982, and attested to the applicant's moral character.
- An affidavit from [REDACTED] who indicated that he has known the applicant since 1981 and attested to the applicant's moral character.

On October 6, 2006, the director issued a Notice of Intent to Deny, which advised the applicant that the affidavits submitted were not credible and that no evidence was submitted demonstrating that the affiants had direct personal knowledge of the events testified to in their respective affidavits. The applicant was also advised that at the time he claimed to have entered the United States he was 12 years of age at the time; however, he provided no credible evidence from any adult who would have been responsible for his care and financial support or school records, which would have been easy to attain.

The applicant, in response, indicated that he has submitted sufficient evidence to establish his continuous residence in the United States since November 1981. The applicant submitted:

- An affidavit from [REDACTED], who indicated that the applicant resided with him in New York at [REDACTED] for approximately seven years since 1981. The affiant indicated that he supported the applicant with room and board including necessities.
- An affidavit from [REDACTED] president of Forest Park Realty in Ozone Park, New York, who indicated that the applicant was in his employ as a messenger from 1987 to October 1989.
- An affidavit from [REDACTED] who indicated to have known the applicant since 1981 and attested to the applicant's moral character.

The director determined that the applicant had failed to submit sufficient credible evidence establishing his continuous residence in this country since prior to January 1, 1982, and, therefore, denied the application on December 27, 2006.

The statements issued by counsel have been considered. However, the AAO does not view the affidavits discussed above as substantive enough to support a finding that the applicant entered the United States prior to January 1, 1982, and resided since that date through the date he attempted to file his application.

As previously noted, the applicant was only 12 years old in 1981 when he claimed to have entered the United States, but he provides no evidence such as school, medical or immunization records. Neither counsel nor the applicant has provided an explanation why such records have not been provided.

The employment affidavit from [REDACTED] failed to include the applicant's address at the time of employment as required under 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(3)(i). Under the same regulations, the affiant also failed to declare whether the information was taken from company records, and identify the location of such company records and state whether such records are accessible or in the alternative state the reason why such records are unavailable. Furthermore, the affidavit raises questions to its authenticity as the applicant, on his Form I-687 application, did not claim employment with [REDACTED] during the requisite period.

Except for [REDACTED], the remaining affiants all indicate to have known the applicant since 1981 or 1982, but failed to state the applicant's place of residence during the requisite period, provide details regarding the nature or origin of his relationship with the applicant or the basis for his continuing awareness of the applicant's residence.

Doubt cast on any aspect of an applicant's proof may lead to a reevaluation of the reliability and sufficiency of the remaining evidence. It is incumbent upon an applicant to resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent objective evidence, and attempts to explain or reconcile such inconsistencies, absent competent objective evidence pointing to where the truth, in fact, lies, will not suffice. Matter of Ho, 19 I. & N. Dec. 582 (BIA 1988).

The evidence must be evaluated not by the quantity of evidence alone but by its quality. The affiants' statements do not provide detailed evidence establishing how they knew the applicant, the details of their association or relationship, or detailed accounts of an ongoing association establishing a relationship under which the affiants could be reasonably expected to have personal knowledge of the applicant's residence, activities and whereabouts during the requisite period. To be considered probative, an affiant's affidavit must do more than simply state that an affiant knows an applicant and that the applicant has lived in the United States for a specific time period. The affidavit must contain sufficient detail, generated by the asserted contact with the applicant, to establish that a relationship does in fact exist, how the relationship was established and sustained, and that the affiant does, by virtue of that relationship, have knowledge of the facts asserted. The affidavits from the affiants do not provide sufficient detail to establish that they had an ongoing relationship with the applicant for the duration of the requisite period that would permit them to know of the applicant's whereabouts and activities throughout the requisite period.

The absence of sufficiently detailed documentation to corroborate the applicant's claim of continuous residence for the entire requisite period seriously detracts from the credibility of his claim. Pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(5), the inference to be drawn from the documentation provided shall depend on the extent of the documentation, its credibility and amenability to verification. Given the applicant's reliance upon documents with minimal probative value, it is concluded that the evidence submitted fails to establish continuous residence in an unlawful status in the United States during the requisite period.

Therefore, based upon the foregoing, the applicant has failed to establish by a preponderance of the evidence that he has continuously resided in an unlawful status in the United States for the requisite period as required under both 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(5) and Matter of E- M--, supra. The applicant is, therefore, ineligible for temporary resident status under section 245A of the Act on this basis.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
