Perry Rhew
Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status pursuant to the terms of the settlement agreements reached in Catholic Social Services, Inc., et al., v. Ridge, et al., CIV. NO. S-86-1343-LKK (E.D. Cal) January 23, 2004, and Felicity Mary Newman, et al., v. United States Immigration and Citizenship Services, et al., CIV. NO. 87-4757-WDK (C.D. Cal) February 17, 2004 (CSS/Newman Settlement Agreements), was denied by the director of the National Benefits Center. The decision is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director erroneously denied the I-687 application, finding that the applicant abandoned the application, pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13), by failing to respond to a notice of intent to deny (NOID) the application.<sup>1</sup> Because the director erred in denying the application based on abandonment, on October 12, 2010, the director issued a notice advising the applicant of the right to appeal to the AAO. On October 13, 2011, the AAO withdrew the director's decision. The matter is now before the AAO on appeal.

On October 13, 2011, the AAO issued a NOID regarding the I-687 application, informing the applicant of deficiencies in the record and providing him with an opportunity to respond.<sup>2</sup> Specifically, the AAO requested that the applicant provide evidence that he entered the United States before January 1, 1982, and that he continuously resided in the United States in an unlawful status since such date for the duration of the requisite period. In addition, since the applicant was born on January 19, 1971, and was, therefore, very young during the requisite statutory period, the NOID requested that the applicant provide evidence of school attendance and vaccinations in the United States, as well as evidence of being cared for by an adult during that period. The applicant has not submitted any additional evidence in response to the AAO's request.

As stated previously, to meet his or her burden of proof, an applicant must provide evidence of eligibility apart from the applicant's own testimony, and the sufficiency of all the evidence produced by the applicant will be judged according to its probative value and credibility. 8 C.F.R. § 245a.2(d)(6). Here, the applicant has failed to provide probative and credible evidence of his continuous residence in the United States for the duration of the requisite period.

<sup>1</sup> On December 14, 2009, the United States District Court for the Eastern District of California ruled that United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) may not apply its abandonment regulation, 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13), in adjudicating legalization applications filed by CSS class members. See, CSS v. Michael Chertoff, Case 2:86-cv-01343-LKK-JFM.

<sup>2</sup> The NOID noted that, at the time of completing the I-687 application, the applicant listed residences in Illinois from December 1981 through the end of the requisite period, and self-employment in Illinois from August 1985 through the end of the requisite period. He listed one absence from the United States during the requisite period, from November to December 1987. The applicant submitted, as proof of his asserted date of entry into the United States and continuous residence in the United States during the requisite period, a witness statement from [REDACTED]. However, the witness statement lacks sufficient detail, because it fails to provide concrete information specific to the applicant which would demonstrate that the witness has a sufficient basis for reliable knowledge about his residence in the United States during the requisite period.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. §103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed. Given the paucity of credible evidence contained in the record and the applicant's failure to respond to the NOID, the appeal will be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
