Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, California Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant claims to be a citizen of Haiti who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The applicant filed the current Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, on January 31, 2013, and indicated that it was her first application to register for TPS.

The director determined that the applicant was filing a re-registration application and denied the application because the applicant's initial TPS application [REDACTED] had been denied on September 13, 2011<sup>1</sup> and the applicant was not eligible to apply for re-registration for TPS.

On appeal, the applicant does not address the basis for the denial of her current application. The applicant states, in pertinent part, “[a]s a single mother of a US citizen child, I don’t have any legal status to take care of my kid and myself....”

Filing an application for TPS during a designated re-registration period does not render all individuals eligible for the benefit sought. The re-registration period is limited to individuals: 1) whose applications have been granted; 2) whose applications remain pending; or 3) who did not file during the initial registration period and meet any of the criteria under the late initial registration provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2).

At the time the current TPS application was filed, the applicant did not have a TPS application that was granted and did not have a TPS application that remained pending. Therefore, she was not eligible to re-register for TPS or renew for temporary treatment benefits. Therefore, the director's decision to deny the application will be affirmed.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004) (noting that the AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis).

The director's decision, however, did not explore the possibility of treating the current application as a late initial filing under provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2).

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2, provide that an applicant who is a national of a foreign state is eligible for TPS only if such alien establishes that he or she:

- (a) Is a national of a state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;

<sup>1</sup> The application was denied due to the applicant's felony conviction in violation of Title 18, U.S.C. § 1544, misuse of a passport. No appeal was filed from the denial of that application.

- (b) Has been continuously physically present in the United States since the effective date of the most recent designation of that foreign state;
- (c) Has continuously resided in the United States since such date as the Secretary may designate;
- (d) Is admissible as an immigrant except as provided under section 244.3;
- (e) Is not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 244.4; and
- (f)
  - (1) Registers for TPS during the initial registration period announced by public notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, or
  - (2) During any subsequent extension of such designation if at the time of the initial registration period:
    - (i) The applicant is a nonimmigrant or has been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
    - (ii) The applicant has an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal which is pending or subject to further review or appeal;
    - (iii) The applicant is a parolee or has a pending request for reparole; or
    - (iv) The applicant is a spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant.
- (g) Has filed an application for late registration with the appropriate Service director within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of conditions described in paragraph (f)(2) of this section.

To qualify for late registration, the applicant must provide evidence that during the initial registration period (May 19, 2011 through November 15, 2011) she fell within at least one of the provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2) above. If the qualifying condition or application has expired or been terminated, the individual must file within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of the qualifying condition in order to be considered for the late initial registration. 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(g).

The burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that he or she meets the above requirements. Applicants shall submit all documentation as required in the instructions or requested by U.S.

Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a). The sufficiency of all evidence will be judged according to its relevancy, consistency, credibility, and probative value. To meet his or her burden of proof, the applicant must provide supporting documentary evidence of eligibility apart from his or her own statements. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(b).

On appeal, the applicant submits a copy of her child's birth certificate born December 2, 2010 in Florida, affidavits from acquaintances requesting TPS approval for the applicant, and a copy of her Form I-220B, Order of Supervision, issued on May 21, 2010.

These documents do not establish that this application should be accepted as a late initial registration under 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). Therefore, the application also must be denied for this reason.

The application will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. An alien applying for temporary protected status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

Finally, it is noted that on May 14, 2013, the applicant had filed a Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, and indicated at Part 2 that she was appealing the denial decision from the current application. A decision from the initial Form I-290B will be addressed under separate cover.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
