

Since Yoko expects to continue her professional career as well as to raise our expected child, and since both her career and the child's upbringing require that they remain in the United States, my departure would necessarily separate our family unit, deprive Yoko of my companionship and me of hers, and deprive our child of the love and companionship of its father. The separation of our family unit would therefore cause severe hardship to us both.

EFFECT ON MY CAREER

It is a well-known fact that New York is a mecca of the music industry and the arts. Through the associations and contacts I have developed here with musicians and other talented people involved in all aspects of the music industry, I have been able to continue growing and producing as an artist. All my professional interests are now here in the United States, and naturally, my business holdings and financial interests have been transferred to the United States as well. It has been, I believe, a very satisfactory relationship which I have had professionally with this country. I have gained and benefited from its rich musical environment and have in return generated whatever music I am capable of creating. I trust that there has also been financial and business benefit to the country which flow from the producing and marketing of my music. To expel me from the United States (and from New York in particular) would be like removing a fish from water, as it would uproot me from the environment which I believe most contributes to my life and work as an artist.

CONCLUSION

In view of the above, I respectfully request that non-priority status be granted in my case.

JOHN WINSTON ONO LENNON

poses of a child custody proceeding over a nomad is illuminated in the record before us.¹⁶ That plight demonstrates the wisdom of a rule of law that affords continuing in personam jurisdiction in the original divorce court as a sort of home base to which, for purposes of child custody, child support and alimony, the parties may on reasonable notice be required to resort.

Thus we hold that under 16 V.I.C. §110 the district court had in personam jurisdiction over Mr. Cox for the purpose of the custody decree by virtue of the fact that he was a party to the 1969 divorce action.

16. The record discloses that following the 1969 divorce decree Mr. Cox had possession of Kyoko, residing in Spring Valley, Idaho, but that the parties had an understanding that both parties would take care of her. In the Spring of 1969 Mr. Cox left the child with Mrs. Lennon in England for a time. Thereafter Mr. Cox asked for the child for a temporary visit. He took Kyoko out of England, probably to Canada. Mrs. Lennon eventually located them in Voorst, Denmark and went there in an unsuccessful effort to have the child returned to England. While she was in Voorst, Mr. Cox moved Kyoko, so that Mrs. Lennon was unable to visit her. Mr. Cox agreed to a visit in London provided Mrs. Lennon pay transportation for the child, Mr. Cox and his girlfriend. Thereafter Mr. Cox took the child to Hawaii and Mrs. Lennon, when she learned of this location, went there. Mr. Cox permitted a one day visit on this occasion. Thereafter at Mrs. Lennon's expense Mr. Cox, the child and the new Mrs. Cox travelled from Hawaii to Los Angeles where Mr. Cox permitted a four day visit. Next he travelled to San Francisco, but by the time Mrs. Lennon learned of his San Francisco location he had left for New York. He would not permit visitation in New York. From New York he went to Montreal, and from Montreal to Voorst. From Voorst he went to the Spanish Island of Ibiza where he stayed about three months. When Mrs. Lennon learned he was in Ibiza, he went to Majorca. She eventually found out about this location and went there. She found Mr. Cox living in a Makarashi Center and the child living with the new Mrs. Cox, from whom he had separated. Mr. Cox permitted a one day visit. When Mrs. Lennon and her husband attempted a more prolonged visit by self help, Mr. Cox charged them with abduction. These charges were eventually dismissed. Mrs. Lennon later heard a rumor that the child was in New York. She tried to obtain relief in New York by a habeas corpus proceeding but succeeded only in learning that Kyoko was not in that state. Thereafter she commenced the instant proceeding.

Decision reserved on Lennon

NEW YORK — A federal appeals court Thursday reserved decision on a bid by former Beatle John Lennon to overturn an April 1974 deportation order.

Chief Judge Irving R. Kaufman did not indicate how soon the court would rule. The U. S. Board of Immigration Appeals ordered Lennon deported as an undesirable because of a 1968 marijuana conviction in England.

The court was asked by Lennon's attorney, Nathan Lewin, to direct the board to hold a new hearing for the rock star so he could gain permanent alien status similar to that of his wife, Yoko Ono.

SPECIAL ASST. U.S. Atty. Mary P. Maguire, contending Lennon's case was a "selective political prosecution" because of his political views, argued Lennon overstayed his visitor's permit and was ineligible for permanent alien status because of his conviction.

If the court rules in favor of Lennon, he would have to be able to deport Lennon. He has a civil suit pending against the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

U.S. District Judge Richard Owen, who is the court's chief judge, said he would hear the case.
