What is the USRAP?

Refugees access resettlement through a referral process that is part of the U.S. Refugee Admissions Program (USRAP).

Pre-event slide. We will begin our presentation at 2 p.m. Eastern time.
What are Priority Categories?

All refugees admitted to the United States must be designated “of special humanitarian concern” to the U.S. government.

Those who enter the program do so through one of three priority categories: P-1, P-2, and P-3.

Note: These priorities allow a refugee applicant to gain access to the USRAP and obtain an interview with a USCIS officer to determine their eligibility and admissibility.

Once a refugee applicant has access to the USRAP, they go through the same process, regardless of their priority category.

Pre-event slide. We will begin our presentation at 2 p.m. Eastern time.
An Overview of the Priority Categories

Priority 1
Cases identified and referred to the program by UNHCR, a U.S. embassy, or a designated nongovernmental organization (NGO).

Priority 2
Specific groups whose members need resettlement as identified by the Department of State in consultation with USCIS, NGOs, UNHCR, and other experts.

Priority 3
Family reunification cases for spouses, children or parents of individuals lawfully admitted to the United States as refugees or asylees as well as certain Afghans and Iraqis who entered on Special Immigrant Visas.

Pre-event slide. We will begin our presentation at 2 p.m. Eastern time.
Highly trained USCIS officers conduct extensive in-person, overseas interviews with all refugee applicants. During the interview, the officer:

- Confirms the basic biographic data of the applicant;
- Verifies that the applicant was properly given access to the USRAP;
- Determines whether the principal applicant has suffered past persecution or has a well-founded fear of future persecution on the basis of race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group, or political opinion in his or her home country;
- Determines whether the applicant is admissible to the United States and have not participated in persecution of others;
- Determines whether the principal applicant has been firmly resettled in another country – the finding of which would make him or her ineligible for resettlement through the USRAP; and
- Determines whether discretion should be exercised favorably to approve the application.
Did You Know?

IN FY 2022

USCIS sent staff to 47 circuit ride locations and conducted initial interviews for over 44,000 refugee applicants in 61 countries.

This includes in person and video-teleconference interviews. Approximately 9% of initial interviews and re-interviews were conducted by video-teleconference.

Pre-event slide. We will begin our presentation at 2 p.m. Eastern time.
What are the FY 2023 Regional Allocations?

Last September, the President signed a new Presidential Determination on Refugee Admissions setting the ceiling for FY 2023 at 125,000 refugee admissions. This chart shows the regional allocations.
