PETITION: Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker as an Alien of Extraordinary Ability Pursuant to Section 203(b)(1)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(1)(A)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

SELF-REPRESENTED

INSTRUCTIONS:

Enclosed please find the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All of the documents related to this matter have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Please be advised that any further inquiry that you might have concerning your case must be made to that office.

If you believe the AAO inappropriately applied the law in reaching its decision, or you have additional information that you wish to have considered, you may file a motion to reconsider or a motion to reopen in accordance with the instructions on Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, with a fee of $630. The specific requirements for filing such a motion can be found at 8 C.F.R. § 103.5. Do not file any motion directly with the AAO. Please be aware that 8 C.F.R. § 103.5(a)(1)(i) requires any motion to be filed within 30 days of the decision that the motion seeks to reconsider or reopen.

Thank you,

Ron Rosenberg
Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, Texas Service Center, denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition, which is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner seeks classification as an "alien of extraordinary ability," in athletics pursuant to section 203(b)(1)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(1)(A). The director determined the petitioner had not established the sustained national or international acclaim necessary to qualify for classification as an alien of extraordinary ability.

Congress set a very high benchmark for aliens of extraordinary ability by requiring through the statute that the petitioner demonstrate the alien's "sustained national or international acclaim" and present "extensive documentation" of the alien's achievements. See section 203(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3). The implementing regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3) states that an alien can establish sustained national or international acclaim through evidence of a one-time achievement of a major, internationally recognized award. Absent the receipt of such an award, the regulation outlines ten categories of specific objective evidence. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(i) through (x). The petitioner must submit qualifying evidence under at least three of the ten regulatory categories of evidence to establish the basic eligibility requirements.

The petitioner's priority date established by the petition filing date is July 28, 2011. On October 19, 2011, the director served the petitioner with a request for evidence (RFE). After receiving the petitioner's response to the RFE, the director issued his decision on March 29, 2012. On appeal, the petitioner submits a statement with no new documentary evidence. For the reasons discussed below, the AAO upholds the director's ultimate determination that the petitioner has not established his eligibility for the classification sought.

I. LAW

Section 203(b) of the Act states, in pertinent part, that:

> (1) Priority workers. -- Visas shall first be made available . . . to qualified immigrants who are aliens described in any of the following subparagraphs (A) through (C):
> (A) Aliens with extraordinary ability. -- An alien is described in this subparagraph if --
> (i) the alien has extraordinary ability in the sciences, arts, education, business, or athletics which has been demonstrated by sustained national or international acclaim and whose achievements have been recognized in the field through extensive documentation,
> (ii) the alien seeks to enter the United States to continue work in the area of extraordinary ability, and

(iii) the alien's entry into the United States will substantially benefit prospectively the United States.

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) and legacy Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) have consistently recognized that Congress intended to set a very high standard for individuals seeking immigrant visas as aliens of extraordinary ability. See H.R. 723 101st Cong., 2d Sess. 59 (1990); 56 Fed. Reg. 60897, 60898-99 (Nov. 29, 1991). The term "extraordinary ability" refers only to those individuals in that small percentage who have risen to the very top of the field of endeavor. Id.; 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(2).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3) requires that the petitioner demonstrate the alien's sustained acclaim and the recognition of his or her achievements in the field. Such acclaim must be established either through evidence of a one-time achievement (that is, a major, international recognized award) or through the submission of qualifying evidence under at least three of the ten categories of evidence listed at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(i)-(x).

In 2010, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit (Ninth Circuit) reviewed the denial of a petition filed under this classification. Kazarian v. USCIS, 596 F.3d 1115 (9th Cir. 2010). Although the court upheld the AAO's decision to deny the petition, the court took issue with the AAO's evaluation of evidence submitted to meet a given evidentiary criterion.[1] With respect to the criteria at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(iv) and (vi), the court concluded that while USCIS may have raised legitimate concerns about the significance of the evidence submitted to meet those two criteria, those concerns should have been raised in a subsequent "final merits determination." Id. at 1121-22.

The court stated that the AAO's evaluation rested on an improper understanding of the regulations. Instead of parsing the significance of evidence as part of the initial inquiry, the court stated that "the proper procedure is to count the types of evidence provided (which the AAO did)," and if the petitioner failed to submit sufficient evidence, "the proper conclusion is that the applicant has failed to satisfy the regulatory requirement of three types of evidence (as the AAO concluded)." Id. at 1122 (citing to 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)).

Thus, Kazarian sets forth a two-part approach where the evidence is first counted and then considered in the context of a final merits determination. In this matter, the AAO will review the evidence under the plain language requirements of each criterion claimed. As the petitioner did not submit qualifying evidence under at least three criteria, the proper conclusion is that the petitioner has failed to satisfy the regulatory requirement of three types of evidence. Id.

[1] Specifically, the court stated that the AAO had unilaterally imposed novel substantive or evidentiary requirements beyond those set forth in the regulations at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(iv) and 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(vi).

II. ANALYSIS

A. Previously approved O-1 Nonimmigrant Petition

While U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has approved at least one O-1 nonimmigrant visa petition filed on behalf of the petitioner, the prior approval does not preclude USCIS from denying an immigrant visa petition based on a different, if similarly phrased, standard. It must be noted that many I-140 immigrant petitions are denied after USCIS approves prior nonimmigrant petitions. See, e.g., Q Data Consulting, Inc. v. INS, 293 F. Supp. 2d 25 (D.D.C. 2003); IKEA US v. US Dept. of Justice, 48 F. Supp. 2d 22 (D.D.C. 1999); Fedin Brothers Co. Ltd. v. Sava, 724 F. Supp. 1103 (E.D.N.Y. 1989). Because USCIS spends less time reviewing I-129 nonimmigrant petitions than I-140 immigrant petitions, some nonimmigrant petitions are simply approved in error. Q Data Consulting, Inc. v. INS, 293 F. Supp. 2d at 29-30; see also Texas A&M Univ. v. Upchurch, 99 Fed. Appx. 556, 2004 WL 1240482 (5th Cir. 2004) (finding that prior approvals do not preclude USCIS from denying an extension of the original visa based on a reassessment of petitioner's qualifications).

The AAO is not required to approve applications or petitions where eligibility has not been demonstrated, merely because of prior approvals that may have been erroneous. See, e.g., Matter of Church Scientology International, 19 I&N Dec. 593, 597 (Comm'r 1988). It would be absurd to suggest that USCIS or any agency must treat acknowledged errors as binding precedent. Sussex Engg. Ltd. v. Montgomery, 825 F.2d 1084, 1090 (6th Cir. 1987), cert. denied, 485 U.S. 1008 (1988).

Furthermore, the AAO's authority over the service centers is comparable to the relationship between a court of appeals and a district court. Even if a service center director had approved the nonimmigrant petitions on behalf of the beneficiary, the AAO would not be bound to follow the contradictory decision of a service center as the law is clear that an agency is not bound to follow an earlier determination as to a visa applicant where that initial determination was based on a misapplication of the law. Glara Fashion, Inc. v. Holder, 11 CIV. 889 PAE, 2012 WL 352309 *7 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 3, 2012); Royal Siam v. Chertoff, 484 F.3d 139, 148 (1st Cir.2007); Tapis Int'l v. INS, 94 F.Supp.2d 172, 177 (D.Mass.2000)) (Dkt.10); Louisiana Philharmonic Orchestra v. INS, 44 F.Supp.2d 800, 803 (E.D.La.1999), aff'd, 248 F.3d 1139 (5th Cir. 2001), cert. denied, 122 S.Ct. 51 (2001).

B. One-time Achievement

The director discussed the evidence submitted for the petitioner's claim of a one-time achievement and found that the petitioner failed to establish his eligibility. On appeal, the petitioner does not contest the director's findings or offer additional arguments. The AAO, therefore, considers this issue to be abandoned. Sepulveda v. U.S. Att'y Gen., 401 F.3d 1226, 1228 n. 2 (11th Cir. 2005); Hristov v. Roark, No. 09–CV–27312011, 2011 WL 4711885 at *1, 9 (E.D.N.Y. Sept. 30, 2011) (the court found the plaintiff's claims to be abandoned as he failed to raise them on appeal to the AAO). Accordingly, the petitioner has not submitted qualifying evidence under claim of a one-time achievement.

C. Evidentiary Criteria[2]

Documentation of the alien's receipt of lesser nationally or internationally recognized prizes or awards for excellence in the field of endeavor.

This criterion contains several evidentiary elements the petitioner must satisfy. According to the plain language of the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(i), the evidence must establish that the alien is the recipient of the prizes or the awards (in the plural). The clear regulatory language requires that the prizes or the awards are nationally or internationally recognized. The plain language of the regulation also requires the petitioner to submit evidence that each prize or award is one for excellence in the field of endeavor rather than simply for participating in or contributing to an event or to a group. The petitioner must satisfy all of these elements to meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

The petitioner provided several website printouts reflecting the finishing position for himself and his dance partner, and two certificates. The director determined that the petitioner met the requirements of this criterion. The AAO departs from the director's favorable eligibility determination related to this criterion for the reasons outlined below.

The petitioner failed to provide evidence to demonstrate that any of the prizes or awards are nationally or internationally recognized for excellence in the field. National and international recognition results, not from the individual who signed the prize or the award, but through the awareness of the accolade in the eyes of the field nationally or internationally. This can occur through several means; for example, through media coverage. A national or international level competition may issue lesser awards that merely receive local or regional recognition, which do not meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

The two certificates submitted relate to the [redacted] to the World Professional Rising Star International Latin Competition from the United States Dance Championships (USDC), and winning the [redacted] Championship from the British Dance Council. The certificate from the USDC does not constitute a prize or an award as contemplated by the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(i). The certificate states: "This certificate is awarded in recognition of your achievement as a finalist of the [redacted] United States Open to the World Professional Rising Star International Latin Competition." (Emphasis added). This certificate fails to identify the petitioner's final position within the competition. Additionally, a letter from [redacted] of the USDC also failed to identify the petitioner's overall position in the competition. Moreover, the record lacks evidence that this certificate is a nationally or internationally recognized prize or award for excellence in the petitioner's field.

The certificate related to the [redacted] Suffolk Open Latin Amateur Championship demonstrates that the petitioner won the competition; however, he failed to provide evidence that this is a nationally or internationally recognized prize or award for excellence in the petitioner's field. As a result, this award fails to meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

[2] The petitioner does not claim to meet or submit evidence relating to the regulatory categories of evidence not discussed in this decision.

As the petitioner failed to establish that his prizes or awards are nationally or internationally recognized in the field, he has not satisfied the plain language requirements of this criterion. Therefore, the AAO withdraws the director's favorable determination related to this criterion.

> Documentation of the alien's membership in associations in the field for which classification is sought, which require outstanding achievements of their members, as judged by recognized national or international experts in their disciplines or fields.

This criterion contains several evidentiary elements the petitioner must satisfy. First, the petitioner must demonstrate that he is a member of more than one association in his field. Second, the petitioner must demonstrate both of the following: (1) that the associations utilize nationally or internationally recognized experts to judge the achievements (in the plural) of prospective members to determine if the achievements are outstanding, and (2) that the associations use this outstanding determination as a condition of eligibility for prospective membership. It is insufficient for the association itself to determine if the achievements were outstanding, unless nationally or internationally recognized experts in the petitioner's field, who represent the association, render this determination. The petitioner must satisfy all of these elements to meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

The director determined that the petitioner failed to meet the requirements of this criterion. On appeal, the petitioner only contests the director's determination relating to his membership in the United Kingdom Alliance (UKA).

The petitioner established his membership in the UKA through a certificate as a licentiate in the association and through his membership card. The licentiate certificate certifies only the petitioner's "ability and knowledge as a teacher of dancing." The petitioner also provided a letter from [redacted], Chief Executive Officer of UKA. The petitioner's appellate statement asserts that each member is approved by [redacted] after taking an exam and that not everyone who takes the exam will pass. While [redacted] letter confirms this information, the letter does not verify the petitioner's claim that [redacted] personally "accepted [the petitioner's] membership based on [his] outstanding achievements." The letter from [redacted] does not mention outstanding achievements as the petitioner claimed. The AAO will not presume that passing a qualifying exam is an outstanding achievement in the competitive field of dancesport rather than simply certification as a qualified teacher and eligibility to compete. As such, the petitioner has not demonstrated that the UKA is an association that has satisfied the plain language requirements of this criterion. Additionally, the UKA is but a single association while the plain language of the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(ii) requires evidence of membership in "associations" in the plural, consistent with the statutory requirement for extensive documentation. See section 203(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Act.

Therefore, the petitioner has not submitted evidence that meets the plain language requirements of this criterion.

Published material about the alien in professional or major trade publications or other major media, relating to the alien's work in the field for which classification is sought. Such evidence shall include the title, date, and author of the material, and any necessary translation.

The director discussed the evidence submitted for this criterion and found that the petitioner failed to establish his eligibility. On appeal, the petitioner does not contest the director's findings for this criterion or offer additional arguments. The AAO, therefore, considers this issue to be abandoned. Sepulveda 401 F.3d at 1228 n.2; Hristov, 2011 WL 4711885, at *9. Accordingly, the petitioner has not submitted qualifying evidence under this criterion.

Evidence of the alien's participation, either individually or on a panel, as a judge of the work of others in the same or an allied field of specification for which classification is sought.

The director discussed the evidence submitted for this criterion and found that the petitioner failed to establish his eligibility. On appeal, the petitioner does not contest the director's findings for this criterion or offer additional arguments. The AAO, therefore, considers this issue to be abandoned. Sepulveda 401 F.3d at 1228 n.2; Hristov, 2011 WL 4711885, at *9. Accordingly, the petitioner has not submitted qualifying evidence under this criterion.

Evidence of the alien's original scientific, scholarly, artistic, athletic, or business-related contributions of major significance in the field.

The plain language of this regulatory criterion contains multiple evidentiary elements that the petitioner must satisfy. The first is evidence of the petitioner's contributions (in the plural) in his field. These contributions must have already been realized rather than being potential, future contributions. The petitioner must also demonstrate that his contributions are original. The evidence must establish that the contributions are scientific, scholarly, artistic, athletic, or business-related in nature. The final requirement is that the contributions rise to the level of major significance in the field as a whole, rather than to a project or to an organization. The phrase "major significance" is not superfluous and, thus, it has some meaning. Silverman v. Eastrich Multiple Investor Fund, L.P., 51 F. 3d 28, 31 (3rd Cir. 1995) quoted in APWU v. Potter, 343 F.3d 619, 626 (2nd Cir. Sep 15, 2003). Contributions of major significance connotes that the petitioner's work has significantly impacted the field. The petitioner must submit evidence satisfying all of these elements to meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

The petitioner provided several letters from experts in his field. The director determined that the petitioner failed to meet the requirements of this criterion.

Within the initial filing statement, the petitioner's former counsel asserted the petitioner's original contributions to his field are exhibited through letters from industry experts. Counsel explained the petitioner's claim of contributions in his field by asserting that his "unique approach to ballroom dancing and coaching is widely recognized and touted among other dance experts and sets him apart from other experts in the field." After requesting additional evidence under this criterion and considering the additional letters the petitioner provided in response to that request, the director determined that all of the petitioner's evidence failed to demonstrate his eligibility under this criterion. Within the appellate statement the petitioner expresses his dissatisfaction with his former attorney's performance representing his eligibility under this criterion.

The petitioner now asserts that his contribution of major significance in his field consists of "bringing standardization to American dancesport techniques which will lead to objective judging standards on par with the rest of the world, and thereby bringing legitimacy and respect for USA dancesport competitions." The petitioner also describes the dancesport industry as consisting of two entities; one in the Unites States and another in Europe. The petitioner asserts that the European entity bases its judging on written dance techniques, while the U.S. entity lacks such written standards and bases its determinations on the subjectivity of the judges. He also explains that it is this lack of a written technique that results in the competitions from the U.S. entity not being recognized by those in Europe.

[redacted] claims to be a four-time U.S. National Champion in Ballroom Dancesport and to have founded a dance studio. Within his letter, [redacted] indicated that he and [redacted] "have started writing our own American-standard pedagogue book," and that the petitioner's "enthusiasm, ideas, and technical training were the final ingredients we needed to start writing" the standardized technique book that will allegedly bring respect for the American style of dancing to entities outside of the United States. [redacted] references this book of standardized techniques in the future tense as this book has yet to be completed or to have had any impact within the petitioner's field. [redacted] does not identify how the petitioner has already made a significant impact in his field, which is required by this regulatory criterion.

[redacted] is the Organizer of the Ohio Star Ball, a long-standing dance competition. [redacted] confirms that he is working with the petitioner, and [redacted] "to create the first in-depth technical dance manual for American-style dance." While [redacted] claims the men are making progress on the manual, he did not indicate that the manual was complete, nor that it has already impacted the petitioner's field, which is required by the regulation. A petitioner must establish the elements for the approval of the petition at the time of filing. See 8 C.F.R. §§ 103.2(b)(1), (12). A petition may not be approved if the beneficiary was not qualified at the priority date, but expects to become eligible at a subsequent time. See Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Reg'l Comm'r 1971). The evidence relating to the technique book and manual does not establish that, as of the priority date, the petitioner had contributed to his field in a significant manner as required by the regulation.

The remaining letters speak to the petitioner's mastery of both the American and the international style, in addition to his achievements and ability as a dancer and as an instructor. These letters failed to identify contributions in the petitioner's field that are original, but more importantly the contributions in these letters are not the same contributions in the petitioner's field that he asserts on appeal. Achievements and ability in one's field are not necessarily indicative of original contributions of major significance in the dancesport field. The reference letters do not provide specific examples of how the petitioner's work has significantly impacted the field at large or otherwise constitutes original contributions of major significance.

The Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) has stated that testimony should not be disregarded simply because it is "self-serving." See, e.g., Matter of S-A-, 22 I&N Dec. 1328, 1332 (BIA 2000) (citing Matter of M-D-, 21 I&N Dec. 1180 (BIA 1998); Matter of Y-B-, 21 I&N Dec. 1136 (BIA 1998); Matter of Dass, 20 I&N Dec. 120 (BIA 1989); see also Matter of Acosta, 19 I&N Dec. 211, 218 (BIA 1985)). The Board clarified, however: "We not only encourage, but require the introduction of corroborative testimonial and documentary evidence, where available." Matter of S-A-, 22 I&N Dec. at 1332. If testimonial evidence lacks specificity, detail, or credibility, there is a greater need for the petitioner to submit corroborative evidence. Matter of Y-B-, 21 I&N Dec. 1136 (BIA 1998).

Solicited letters from local colleagues that do not specifically identify contributions or provide specific examples of how those contributions influenced the field are insufficient. Kazarian v. USCIS, 580 F.3d 1030, 1036 (9th Cir. 2009) aff'd in part 596 F.3d 1115 (9th Cir. 2010). In 2010, the Kazarian court reiterated that the AAO's conclusion that "letters from physics professors attesting to [the alien's] contributions in the field" was insufficient was "consistent with the relevant regulatory language." 596 F.3d at 1122. The opinions of experts in the field are not without weight and have been considered above. While such letters can provide important details about the petitioner's skills, they cannot form the cornerstone of a successful extraordinary ability claim. USCIS may, in its discretion, use as advisory opinions statements submitted as expert testimony. See Matter of Caron International, 19 I&N Dec. 791, 795 (Comm'r 1988). However, USCIS is ultimately responsible for making the final determination regarding an alien's eligibility for the benefit sought. Id. The submission of letters from experts supporting the petition is not presumptive evidence of eligibility; USCIS may evaluate the content of those letters as to whether they support the alien's eligibility. See id. at 795; see also Matter of V-K-, 24 I&N Dec. 500, n.2 (BIA 2008) (noting that expert opinion testimony does not purport to be evidence as to "fact" but rather is admissible only if it will assist the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue). Even when written by independent experts, letters solicited by an alien in support of an immigration petition are of less weight than preexisting, independent evidence of original contributions of major significance.

Furthermore, on appeal the petitioner only claims the manual related to American-style dance as his contribution in his field. The plain language of the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(v) requires evidence of "contributions" in the plural, consistent with the statutory requirement for extensive documentation. See section 203(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Act.

Based on the foregoing, the petitioner has not submitted evidence that satisfies this criterion's requirements.

Evidence of the display of the alien's work in the field at artistic exhibitions or showcases.

This criterion contains multiple evidentiary elements the petitioner must satisfy. The plain language requirements of this criterion requires that the work in the field is directly attributable to the alien.

Generally, the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(vii) is limited to the visual arts. This interpretation is longstanding and has been upheld by a federal district court in Negro-Plumpe v. Okin, 2:07-CV-820-ECR-RJJ at *7 (D. Nev. Sept. 8, 2008) (upholding an interpretation that performances by a performing artist do not fall under 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(vii)). The alien's work also must have been displayed at artistic exhibitions or showcases (in the plural). While neither the regulation nor existing precedent speak to what constitutes an exhibition or a showcase, Merriam-Webster's online dictionary defines exhibition as, "a public showing (as of works of art)."[3] Merriam-Webster's online dictionary also defines showcase as, "a setting, occasion, or medium for exhibiting something or someone especially in an attractive or favorable aspect."[4] Dictionaries are not of themselves evidence, but they may be referred to as aids to the memory and understanding of the court. Nix v. Hedden, 149 U.S. 304, 306 (1893). Therefore, it is the petitioner's burden to demonstrate that the display of his work in the field claimed under this criterion occurred at artistic exhibitions or at artistic showcases. The petitioner must satisfy all of these elements to meet the plain language requirements of this criterion.

The petitioner's field is dancesport. Within the initial filing statement, former counsel stated: "Dancesport is on its way to become part of the Olympics, as the federation that governs dancesport has been qualified by the International Olympic Committee." Thus, the petitioner choreographed and directed an athletic display, rather than an artistic display. As the petitioner has not created tangible pieces of art that were on display at artistic exhibitions or showcases, he has not submitted qualifying evidence that meets the plain language requirements of the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(h)(3)(vii).

Evidence that the alien has performed in a leading or critical role for organizations or establishments that have a distinguished reputation.

The director discussed the evidence submitted for this criterion and found that the petitioner failed to establish his eligibility. On appeal, the petitioner does not contest the director's findings for this criterion or offer additional arguments. The AAO, therefore, considers this issue to be abandoned. Sepulveda 401 F.3d at 1228 n.2; Hristov, 2011 WL 4711885, at *9. Accordingly, the petitioner has not submitted qualifying evidence under this criterion.

Evidence that the alien has commanded a high salary or other significantly high remuneration for services, in relation to others in the field.

The director discussed the evidence submitted for this criterion and found that the petitioner failed to establish his eligibility. On appeal, the petitioner does not contest the director's findings for this criterion or offer additional arguments. The AAO, therefore, considers this issue to be abandoned. Sepulveda 401 F.3d at 1228 n.2; Hristov, 2011 WL 4711885, at *9. Accordingly, the petitioner has not submitted qualifying evidence under this criterion.

D. Summary

The petitioner has failed to satisfy the antecedent regulatory requirement of three types of evidence.

III. CONCLUSION

The documentation submitted in support of a claim of extraordinary ability must clearly demonstrate that the alien has achieved sustained national or international acclaim and is one of the small percentage who have risen to the very top of the field of endeavor.

Had the petitioner submitted the requisite evidence under at least three evidentiary categories, in accordance with the Kazarian opinion, the next step would be a final merits determination that considers all of the evidence in the context of whether or not the petitioner has demonstrated: (1) a "level of expertise indicating that the individual is one of that small percentage who have risen to the very top of the[ir] field of endeavor" and (2) "that the alien has sustained national or international acclaim and that his or her achievements have been recognized in the field of expertise." 8 C.F.R. §§ 204.5(h)(2) and (3); see also Kazarian, 596 F.3d at 1119-20. While the AAO concludes that the evidence is not indicative of a level of expertise consistent with the small percentage at the very top of the field or sustained national or international acclaim, the AAO need not explain that conclusion in a final merits determination.[5] Rather, the proper conclusion is that the petitioner has failed to satisfy the antecedent regulatory requirement of three types of evidence. Id. at 1122.

The petitioner has not established eligibility pursuant to section 203(b)(1)(A) of the Act and the petition may not be approved.

The burden of proof in visa petition proceedings remains entirely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361; Matter of Soriano, 19 I&N Dec. 764, 766 (BIA 1988) (citing Matter of [5] The AAO maintains de novo review of all questions of fact and law. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). In any future proceeding, the AAO maintains the jurisdiction to conduct a final merits determination as the office that made the last decision in this matter. 8 C.F.R. § 103.5(a)(1)(ii). See also section 103(a)(1) of the Act; section 204(b) of the Act; DHS Delegation Number 0150.1 (effective March 1, 2003); 8 C.F.R. § 2.1 (2003); 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii) (2003); Matter of Aurelio, 19 I&N Dec. 458, 460 (BIA 1987) (holding that legacy INS, now USCIS, is the sole authority with the jurisdiction to decide visa petitions).

Brantigan, 11 I&N Dec. 493 (BIA 1966)). Here, the petitioner has not sustained that burden. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
