DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a garment manufacturer. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a market research analyst. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an ETA Form 9089, Application for Permanent Employment Certification, approved by the United States Department of Labor (DOL). The director determined that the ETA Form 9089 failed to demonstrate that the job requires a professional holding an advanced degree and, therefore, the beneficiary cannot be found qualified for classification as a member of the professions holding an advanced degree. The director denied the petition accordingly.

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed and timely. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.

In pertinent part, section 203(b)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(2), provides immigrant classification to members of the professions holding advanced degrees or their equivalent and whose services are sought by an employer in the United States. An advanced degree is a United States academic or professional degree or a foreign equivalent degree above the baccalaureate level. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(k)(2). The regulation further states: "A United States baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree followed by at least five years of progressive experience in the specialty shall be considered the equivalent of a master's degree. If a doctoral degree is customarily required by the specialty, the alien must have a United States doctorate or a foreign equivalent degree." Id.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(k)(4) states in pertinent part that "[t]he job offer portion of an individual labor certification, Schedule A application, or Pilot Program application must demonstrate that the job requires a professional holding an advanced degree or the equivalent of an alien of exceptional ability."

The ETA Form 9089, section H, items 4 through 14, set forth the minimum education, training, and experience that an applicant must have for the proffered position. Here, section H, items 4 through 14, indicates that the position requires a master's degree, or foreign educational equivalent, in business administration or economics. The petitioner will also accept a bachelor's degree and 5 years of experience or a "[m]aster's equivalent based on any suitable combination of education, training or experience by a qualified evaluation service."

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) must examine "the language of the labor certification job requirements" in order to determine what the job requires. Mandany v. Smith, 696

F.2d 1008, 1015 (D.C. Cir. 1983). The only rational manner by which USCIS can be expected to interpret the meaning of terms used to describe the requirements of a job in a labor certification is to examine the certified job offer exactly as it is completed by the prospective employer. See Rosedale Linden Park Company v. Smith, 595 F. Supp. 829, 833 (D.D.C. 1984) (emphasis added). USCIS's interpretation of the job's requirements, as stated on the labor certification must involve reading and applying the plain language of the alien employment certification application form. See id. at 834. USCIS cannot and should not reasonably be expected to look beyond the plain language of the labor certification that the DOL has formally issued or otherwise attempt to divine the employer's intentions through some sort of reverse engineering of the labor certification.

In evaluating the requirements for the offered position, USCIS must look to the job offer portion of the labor certification. USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Matter of Silver Dragon Chinese Restaurant, 19 I&N Dec. 401, 406 (Comm. 1986). See also, Madany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008; K.R.K. Iwine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006 (9th Cir. 1983); Stewart Infra-Red Commissary of Massachusetts, Inc. v. Coorney, 661 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1981).

The instant Form I-140 was filed on April 22, 2008. On Part 2.d. of the Form I-140, the petitioner indicated that it was filing the petition for a member of the professions holding an advanced degree or an alien of exceptional ability. However, the minimum requirements listed in Part H-4 through H-10B, of the ETA Form 9089, can be satisfied by someone without a degree since the petitioner will accept a "[m]aster's equivalent based on any suitable combination of education, training or experience by a qualified evaluation service."

On appeal, counsel argues that the phrase "[m]aster's equivalent based on any suitable combination of education, training or experience by a qualified evaluation service" was taken out of context by USCIS. Moreover, "[w]hen the two sentences are read together, the only reasonable interpretation is that an advanced degree position was always been the minimum requirement." However, counsel's argument is unpersuasive. When determining whether a beneficiary is eligible for a preference immigrant visa, USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Madany, 696 F.2d at 1015. In this case, the job offer portion of the ETA Form 9089 indicates that the minimum level of education required for the position is "[m]aster's equivalent based on any suitable combination of education, training or experience by a qualified evaluation service."

Counsel also references minutes from an American Immigration Lawyers Association (AILA) teleconference liaison meeting with the Nebraska Service Center on April 12, 2007 and April 19, 2006. The AAO is bound by the Act, agency regulations, precedent decisions of the agency and published decisions from the circuit court of appeals from whatever circuit that the action arose. See N.L.R.B. v. Ashkenazy Property Management Corp., 817 F.2d 74, 75 (9th Cir. 1987) (administrative agencies are not free to refuse to follow precedent in cases originating within the circuit); R.L. Inv. Ltd. Partners v. INS, 86 F. Supp. 2d 1014, 1022 (D. Haw. 2000), aff'd, 273 F.3d 874 (9th Cir. 2001) (unpublished agency decisions and agency legal memoranda are not binding under the APA, even when they are published in private publications or widely circulated). Even USCIS internal memoranda do not establish judicially enforceable rights. See Loa-Herrera v. Trominski, 231 F.3d 984, 989 (5th Cir. 2000) (An agency's internal guidelines "neither confer upon [plaintiffs] substantive rights nor provide procedures upon which [they] may rely.") See also Stephen R. Viña, Legislative Attorney, Congressional Research Service (CRS) Memorandum, to the House Subcommittee on Immigration, Border Security, and Claims regarding "Questions on Internal Policy Memoranda issued by the Immigration and Naturalization Service," dated February 3, 2006. The memorandum addresses, "the specific questions you raised regarding the legal effect of internal policy memoranda issued by the former Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) on current Department of Homeland Security (DHS) practices." The memo states that, "policy memoranda fall under the general category of nonlegislative rules and are, by definition, legally nonbinding because they are designed to 'inform rather than control.'" CRS at p.3 citing to American Trucking Ass'n v. ICC, 659 F.2d 452, 462 (5th Cir. 1981). See also Pacific Gas & Electric Co. v. Federal Power Comm'n, 506 F.2d 33 (D.C. Cir. 1974), "A general statement of policy . . . does not establish a binding norm. It is not finally determinative of the issues or rights to which it is addressed. The agency cannot apply or rely upon a general statement of policy as law because a general statement of policy announces what the agency seeks to establish as policy." The memo notes that "policy memoranda come in a variety of forms, including guidelines, manuals, memoranda, bulletins, opinion letters, and press releases. Legislative rules, on the other hand, have the force of law and are legally binding upon an agency and the public. Legislative rules are the product of an exercise of delegated legislative power." Id. at 3, citing to Robert A. Anthony, Interpretive Rules, Policy Statements, Guidances, Manuals, and the Like – Should Federal Agencies Use them to Bind the Public?, 41 Duke L.J. 1311 (1992).

Since the minimum requirements, as stated on the ETA Form 9089, do not require the beneficiary to have either a master's degree or a bachelor's degree and 5 years of experience, the petitioner has not established that the ETA Form 9089 requires a professional holding an advanced degree; and the appeal must be dismissed.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
