DISCUSSION: The employment-based visa petition was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center (director). The director also invalidated the labor certification after concluding that the petitioner had misrepresented the details of the proffered position. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The director's decision will be affirmed, in part, and withdrawn, in part. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner describes itself as an IT services company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a software developer, applications, pursuant to section 203(b)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. §1153(b)(3). As required by statute, a labor certification approved by the Department of Labor (DOL) accompanied the petition. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had a valid job offer for the beneficiary. The director cited numerous inconsistent statements made by the petitioner on the Form I-140 petition and the Form ETA 9089 labor certification application and concluded that the petitioner had attempted to "obtain a benefit under the Immigration and Nationality Act through fraud and misrepresentation of a material fact" involving the labor certification. Therefore, the director denied the petition and invalidated the labor certification.

We maintain plenary power to review each appeal on a de novo basis. 5 U.S.C. § 557(b) ("On appeal from or review of the initial decision, the agency has all the powers which it would have in making the initial decision except as it may limit the issues on notice or by rule."); see also, Janka v. U.S. Dept. of Transp., NTSB, 925 F.2d 1147, 1149 (9th Cir. 1991). Our de novo authority has been long recognized by the federal courts. See, e.g. Dor v. INS, 891 F.2d 997, 1002 n. 9 (2d Cir. 1989).

The labor certification is evidence of an individual alien's admissibility under section 212(a)(5)(A)(i) of the Act, which provides:

> In general.-Any alien who seeks to enter the United States for the purpose of performing skilled or unskilled labor is inadmissible, unless the Secretary of Labor has determined and certified to the Secretary of State and the Attorney General that-
> (I) there are not sufficient workers who are able, willing, qualified (or equally qualified in the case of an alien described in clause (ii)) and available at the time of application for a visa and admission to the United States and at the place where the alien is to perform such skilled or unskilled labor, and
> (II) the employment of such alien will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

The regulation at 20 C.F.R. § 656.30(c)(2) provides:

> A labor certification involving a specific job offer is valid only for the particular job opportunity, the alien for whom certification was granted, and for the area of intended employment stated on the Application for Alien Employment Certification form.

In this case, the petitioner indicated on the labor certification application that the offered job would be performed at However, on the Form I-140 petition the petitioner indicated that the worksite would be at

The labor certification on which the underlying petition is based does not match the job offer described on the petition. The petitioner explains on appeal that the address listed on the petition was its mailing address and was not intended to be considered the location where the beneficiary would be employed. However, the petition requested the petitioner to indicate at Part 6, Line 4, the "[a]ddress where the person will work if different from address in Part 1." The petitioner left Part 6, Line 4, blank, thus indicating that the work would be performed at the Pennsylvania, address listed in Part 1. A petitioner may not make material changes to a petition in an effort to make a deficient petition conform to USCIS requirements. See Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169, 176 (Assoc. Comm'r 1988). Counsel provides no legal authority, and we know of none, that would allow USCIS to rely on a labor certification that does not support the petition. Therefore, the director's decision to deny the petition will be affirmed.

The AAO will next address the director's finding that the petitioner engaged in fraud and/or material misrepresentation. On appeal, counsel contends that the DOL's approval of the labor certification application indicates that there was no fraud or irregularity in the labor certification process.

As immigration officers, USCIS Appeals Officers and Center Adjudications Officers possess the full scope of authority accorded to officers by the relevant statutes, regulations, and the Secretary of Homeland Security's delegation of authority. See sections 101(a)(18), 103(a), and 287(b) of the Act; 8 C.F.R. §§ 103.1(b), 287.5(a); DHS Delegation Number 0150.1 (effective March 1, 2003).

With regard to immigration fraud, the Act provides immigration officers with the authority to administer oaths, consider evidence, and further provides that any person who knowingly or willfully gives false evidence or swears to any false statement shall be guilty of perjury. Section 287(b) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1357(b). Additionally, the Secretary of Homeland Security has delegated to USCIS the authority to investigate alleged civil and criminal violations of the immigration laws, including application fraud, make recommendations for prosecution, and take other "appropriate action." DHS Delegation Number 0150.1 at para. (2)(I).

The administrative findings in an immigration proceeding must include specific findings of fraud or material misrepresentation for any issue of fact that is material to eligibility for the requested immigration benefit. Within the adjudication of the visa petition, a finding of fraud or material misrepresentation will undermine the probative value of the evidence and lead to a reevaluation of the reliability and sufficiency of the remaining evidence. Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. at 591-592.

Outside of the basic adjudication of visa eligibility, there are many critical functions of the Department of Homeland Security that hinge on a finding of fraud or material misrepresentation. For example, the Act provides that an alien is inadmissible to the United States if that alien seeks to procure, has sought to procure, or has procured a visa, admission, or other immigration benefits by fraud or willfully misrepresenting a material fact. Section 212(a)(6)(C) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182.

Additionally, the regulations state that the willful failure to provide full and truthful information requested by USCIS constitutes a failure to maintain nonimmigrant status. 8 C.F.R. § 214.1(f). For these provisions to be effective, USCIS is required to enter a factual finding of fraud or material misrepresentation into the administrative record.

Section 204(b) of the Act states, in pertinent part, that:

> After an investigation of the facts in each case . . . the [Secretary of Homeland Security] shall, if he determines that the facts stated in the petition are true and that the alien . . . in behalf of whom the petition is made is an immediate relative specified in section 201(b) or is eligible for preference under subsection (a) or (b) of section 203, approve the petition . . . .

Pursuant to section 204(b) of the Act, USCIS has the authority to issue a determination regarding whether the facts stated in a petition filed pursuant to section 203(b) of the Act are true.

Section 212(a)(6)(C) of the Act governs misrepresentation and states the following:

> "Misrepresentation. – (i) In general. – Any alien who, by fraud or willfully misrepresenting a material fact, seeks to procure (or has sought to procure or has procured) a visa, other documentation, or admission into the United States or other benefit provided under this Act is inadmissible."

The Attorney General has held that a misrepresentation made in connection with an application for a visa or other document, or with entry into the United States, is material if either:

> (1) the alien is excludable on the true facts, or (2) the misrepresentation tends to shut off a line of inquiry which is relevant to the alien's eligibility and which might well have resulted in a proper determination that he be excluded.

Matter of S & B-C-, 9 I&N Dec. 436, 447 (A.G. 1961). Accordingly, the materiality test has three parts. First, if the record shows that the alien is inadmissible on the true facts, then the misrepresentation is material. Id. at 448. If the foreign national would not be inadmissible on the true facts, then the second and third questions must be addressed. The second question is whether the misrepresentation shut off a line of inquiry relevant to the alien's admissibility. Id. Third, if the relevant line of inquiry has been cut off, then it must be determined whether the inquiry might have resulted in a proper determination that the foreign national should have been excluded. Id. at 449.

Furthermore, a finding of misrepresentation may lead to invalidation of the Form ETA 750. See 20 C.F.R. § 656.31(d) regarding labor certification applications involving fraud or willful misrepresentation:

> Finding of fraud or willful misrepresentation. If as referenced in Sec. 656.30(d), a court, the DHS or the Department of State determines there was fraud or willful misrepresentation involving a labor certification application, the application will be considered to be invalidated, processing is terminated, a notice of the termination and the reason therefore is sent by the Certifying Officer to the employer, attorney/agent as appropriate.

Upon de novo review, we find that the evidence of record does not support the director's conclusion that there was fraud or willful misrepresentation involving the labor certification. There has been an insufficient development of the facts upon which the director can make a determination of fraud or willful misrepresentation in connection with the documentation submitted to support the beneficiary's qualifications based on the criteria of Matter of S & B-C-, 9 I&N Dec. at 447 (A.G. 1961). The director's decision invalidating the labor certification is withdrawn. The validity of the labor certification is reinstated.

Beyond the decision of the director, the petitioner has also not established that the beneficiary is qualified for the offered position. The petitioner must establish that the beneficiary possessed all the education, training, and experience specified on the labor certification as of the priority date. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(l), (12). See Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158, 159 (Acting Reg'l Comm'r 1977); see also Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Reg'l Comm'r 1971). In evaluating the beneficiary's qualifications, USCIS must look to the job offer portion of the labor certification to determine the required qualifications for the position. USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Madany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008 (D.C. Cir. 1983); K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006 (9th Cir. 1983); Stewart Infra-Red Commissary of Massachusetts, Inc. v. Coomey, 661 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1981).

In the instant case, the labor certification states that the offered position requires a Master's Degree in Computer Science, Engineering, Math, Business Administration or related. On the labor certification, the beneficiary claims to qualify for the offered position based on a Master's degree in Computer Science from India, completed in 1997. The record does not contain a copy of the beneficiary's diploma and transcripts or statement of marks and certificate of examination from in 1997.

The petitioner submits a credential evaluation report from dated November 15, 2013 and signed by . The evaluator reviewed the beneficiary's credentials from and concluded that the beneficiary has the educational equivalent of a Master's in Computer Information Systems from a regionally accredited college or university in the United States. The record, however, does not contain copies of these credentials. The regulation requires that a petition for an advanced degree professional must be accompanied by an official academic record. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(k)(3)(i). Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm'r 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg'l Comm'r 1972)).

The evidence in the record does not establish that the beneficiary possessed the required education set forth on the labor certification by the priority date. Therefore, the petitioner has also failed to establish that the beneficiary is qualified for the offered position.

The petition will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. In visa petition proceedings, the burden of proving eligibility for the benefit sought remains entirely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, that burden has not been met.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed and the petition remains denied.

FURTHER ORDER: The director's finding of fraud and misrepresentation against the petitioner is withdrawn. The director's action invalidating the labor certification is withdrawn.
