DISCUSSION: The Director, Nebraska Service Center, denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition, which is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a construction company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a quality process engineer pursuant to sections 203(b)(3)(A)(i) and (ii) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i) and (ii). As required by statute, a labor certification accompanied the petition. Upon reviewing the petition, the director determined that the petitioner failed to demonstrate that the beneficiary satisfied the minimum level of education stated on the labor certification. The educational evaluation in the record relies on a combination of the beneficiary's education and employment experience to be equivalent to a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering. Therefore, the director determined that the beneficiary's credentials could not be accepted as a foreign equivalent degree to a U.S. bachelor's degree in industrial engineering or business administration.

The AAO issued a request for evidence (RFE) on April 4, 2012 concerning the actual minimum educational requirements of the offered position.¹ The AAO explained that the evidence in the record of proceeding as currently constituted did not support a determination that the petitioner intended the actual minimum requirements of the offered position to include alternatives to a bachelor's degree in industrial engineering or business administration, or an associate's degree and four years of experience as a quality process engineer, such as the credentials held by the beneficiary. The AAO solicited additional evidence of the beneficiary's credentials and experience and evidence of how the petitioner expressed its actual minimum educational requirements to the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) during the labor certification process. The AAO also requested evidence of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage for 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, and 2010. Additionally, the RFE solicited information regarding the petitioner's multiple beneficiaries and its ability to pay the proffered wage.

The AAO specifically alerted the petitioner that failure to respond to the RFE would result in dismissal since the AAO could not substantively adjudicate the appeal without the information requested. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14).

Because the petitioner failed to respond to the RFE, the AAO is dismissing the appeal.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
