Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a landscaping business. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a landscape production manager. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by a Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification, approved by the United States Department of Labor (DOL). The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage beginning on the priority date of the visa petition. The director also determined that the petitioner failed to establish that the beneficiary had three years of experience working in the job offered as required by the labor certification. The director denied the petition accordingly.

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed, timely and makes a specific allegation of error in law or fact. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

As set forth in the director's denial, the first issue in this case is whether the petitioner has the ability to pay the proffered wage as of the priority date and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to other qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

The petitioner must demonstrate the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage beginning on the priority date, which is the date the Form ETA 750 was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the DOL. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d).

Here, the Form ETA 750 was accepted on November 15, 2004. The proffered wage as stated on the Form ETA 750 and in Part 6 of the Form I-140 is $2,600.00 per month ($31,200.00 per year). The Form ETA 750 states that the position requires three years of experience in the job offered.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.<sup>1</sup>

The evidence in the record of proceeding shows that the petitioner is structured as a C corporation. On the petition, the petitioner claimed to have been established on April 5, 2004. The petitioner indicated that it currently employs five workers. According to the tax returns in the record, the petitioner's fiscal year is based on a calendar year. On the Form ETA 750B, signed by the beneficiary on July 28, 2004, the beneficiary does not claim to have been employed by the petitioner.

The petitioner must establish that its job offer to the beneficiary is a realistic one. Because the filing of a Form ETA 750 labor certification application establishes a priority date for any immigrant petition later based on the Form ETA 750, the petitioner must establish that the job offer was realistic as of the priority date and that the offer remained realistic for each year thereafter, until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. The petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is an essential element in evaluating whether a job offer is realistic. See Matter of Great Wall, 16 I&N Dec. 142 (Acting Reg. Comm. 1977); see also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2). In evaluating whether a job offer is realistic, U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) requires the petitioner to demonstrate financial resources sufficient to pay the beneficiary's proffered wages, although the totality of the circumstances affecting the petitioning business will be considered if the evidence warrants such consideration. See Matter of Sonogawa, 12 I&N Dec. 612 (Reg. Comm. 1967).

In determining the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage during a given period, USCIS will first examine whether the petitioner employed and paid the beneficiary during that period. If the petitioner establishes by documentary evidence that it employed the beneficiary at a salary equal to or greater than the proffered wage, the evidence will be considered prima facie proof of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

The petitioner submitted copies of the beneficiary's IRS Forms 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, as shown in the table below.

- In 2004, the wage/salary amount was not determinative.<sup>2</sup>
- In 2005, the Form 1099 stated wages of $54,743.00.
- In 2006, the Form 1099 stated wages of $10,451.34 (a deficiency of $20,748.66).
- In 2007, the Form 1099 stated wages of $24,000.00 (a deficiency of $7,200.00).

If, as in this case, the petitioner does not establish that it employed and paid the beneficiary an amount at least equal to the proffered wage throughout the designated period, then USCIS will next examine the net income figure reflected on the petitioner's federal income tax return, without consideration of depreciation or other expenses. River Street Donuts, LLC v. Napolitano, 558 F.3d 111 (1st Cir. 2009); Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d 873 (E.D. Mich. 2010). Reliance on federal income tax returns as a basis for determining a petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is well established by judicial precedent. Elatos Restaurant Corp. v. Sava, 632 F. Supp. 1049, 1054 (S.D.N.Y. 1986) (citing Tongatapu Woodcraft Hawaii, Ltd. v. Feldman, 736 F.2d 1305 (9th Cir. 1984)); see also Chi-Feng Chang v. Thornburgh, 719 F. Supp. 532 (N.D. Texas 1989); K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. 1080 (S.D.N.Y. 1985); Ubeda v. Palmer, 539 F. Supp. 647 (N.D. Ill. 1982), aff'd, 703 F.2d 571 (7th Cir. 1983). Reliance on the petitioner's gross receipts and wage expense is misplaced. Showing that the petitioner's gross receipts exceeded the proffered wage is insufficient. Similarly showing that the petitioner paid wages in excess of the proffered wage is insufficient.

In K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. at 1084, the court held that the Immigration and Naturalization Service, now USCIS, had properly relied on the petitioner's net income figure, as stated on the petitioner's corporate income tax returns, rather than the petitioner's gross income. The court specifically rejected the argument that USCIS should have considered income before expenses were paid rather than net income. See Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d at 881 (gross profits overstate an employer's ability to pay because it ignores other necessary expenses).

With respect to depreciation, the court in River Street Donuts noted:

The AAO recognized that a depreciation deduction is a systematic allocation of the cost of a tangible long-term asset and does not represent a specific cash expenditure during the year claimed. Furthermore, the AAO indicated that the allocation of the depreciation of a long-term asset could be spread out over the years or concentrated into a few depending on the petitioner's choice of accounting and depreciation methods. Nonetheless, the AAO explained that depreciation represents an actual cost of doing business, which could represent either the diminution in value of buildings and equipment or the accumulation of funds necessary to replace perishable equipment and buildings. Accordingly, the AAO stressed that even though amounts deducted for depreciation do not represent current use of cash, neither does it represent amounts available to pay wages.

We find that the AAO has a rational explanation for its policy of not adding depreciation back to net income. Namely, that the amount spent on a long term tangible asset is a "real" expense.

River Street Donuts at 118. "[USCIS] and judicial precedent support the use of tax returns and the net income figures in determining petitioner's ability to pay. Plaintiffs' argument that these figures should be revised by the court by adding back depreciation is without support.” Chi-Feng Chang at 537 (emphasis added).

For a C corporation, USCIS considers net income to be the figure shown on Line 28 of the Form 1120, U.S. Corporation Income Tax Return. The record before the director closed on May 27, 2008 with the receipt by the director of evidence in response to the director’s Request for Evidence (RFE). As of that date, the petitioner’s 2008 federal income tax return was not yet due. The petitioner’s 2007 tax return is the most recent tax return before the director for review.

The proffered wage is $31,200.00 per year. The petitioner’s tax returns demonstrate its net income as shown in the table below.

- In 2004, the Form 1120 stated net income of $37,177.
- In 2006, the Form 1120 stated net income of $29,227.00.
- In 2007, the Form 1120 stated net income of -$10,691.00.

Therefore, for the year 2007, the petitioner did not establish that it had sufficient net income to pay the proffered wage.

As an alternate means of determining the petitioner’s ability to pay the proffered wage, USCIS may review the petitioner’s net current assets. Net current assets are the difference between the petitioner’s current assets and current liabilities.<sup>3</sup> A corporation’s year-end current assets are shown on Schedule L, lines 1 through 6. Its year-end current liabilities are shown on lines 16 through 18. If the total of a corporation’s end-of-year net current assets and the wages paid to the beneficiary (if any) are equal to or greater than the proffered wage, the petitioner is expected to be able to pay the proffered wage using those net current assets.

The petitioner’s tax returns demonstrate its end-of-year net current assets as shown in the table below.

- In 2007, the Form 1120 stated net current assets of -$1,415.00.

The evidence demonstrates that for the year 2007 the petitioner did not have sufficient net current assets to pay the proffered wage.

Therefore, from the date the Form ETA 750 was accepted for processing by the DOL, the petitioner had not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date through an examination of wages paid to the beneficiary, or its net income or net current assets.

<sup>3</sup>According to Barron’s Dictionary of Accounting Terms 117 (3rd ed. 2000), “current assets” consist of items having (in most cases) a life of one year or less, such as cash, marketable securities, inventory and prepaid expenses. “Current liabilities” are obligations payable (in most cases) within one year, such accounts payable, short-term notes payable, and accrued expenses (such as taxes and salaries). Id. at 118.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the director erred in not properly taking into account the totality of circumstances and failing to accurately assess the evidence.

The petitioner submitted copies of its corporate bank statements and infers that the account balances should be considered in determining the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. However, reliance on the balances in the petitioner's bank account is misplaced. First, bank statements are not among the three types of evidence enumerated in 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) required to illustrate a petitioner's ability to pay a proffered wage. While this regulation allows additional material "in appropriate cases," the petitioner in this case has not demonstrated why the documentation specified at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) is inapplicable, unavailable, or otherwise paints an inaccurate financial picture of the petitioner. Second, bank statements show the amount in an account on a given date, and cannot show the sustainable ability to pay a proffered wage. Third, no evidence was submitted to demonstrate that the funds reported on the petitioner's bank statements somehow reflect additional available funds that may not have been reflected on its tax returns.

Also, on appeal, counsel asserts that USCIS should also consider the one-time repayment of a shareholder loan in 2007 in the amount of $19,155 as evidence that, had this loan not been repaid in that year, these funds would have been available to pay wages to the beneficiary. Although the petitioner did not list this liability on its 2007 Schedule L, even though it listed the liability in 2006, the absence of this liability in 2007 does not establish that the petitioner actually repaid these funds to the shareholder or that this repayment was discretionary. The assertions of counsel do not constitute evidence. Matter of Obaigbena, 19 I&N Dec. 533, 534 (BIA 1988); Matter of Ramirez-Sanchez, 17 I&N Dec. 503, 506 (BIA 1980). Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm'r 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg'l Comm'r 1972)). The record is devoid of evidence that the petitioner had $19,155 in cash available to it in 2007 and that these funds were paid to the shareholder. As the petitioner had negative net income in 2007, and only $465 at the beginning of the tax year (as noted in column (b) of the 2007 Schedule L), this action does not appear likely. Furthermore, even if this loan had actually been repaid in 2007, there is no evidence that this repayment was truly discretionary. If the shareholder needed to extract these funds to meet his own financial needs, then the funds would not have been available to pay the proffered wage.

Counsel's assertions and the evidence presented on appeal do not outweigh the evidence of record that demonstrates that the petitioner could not pay the proffered wage from the day the Form ETA 750 was accepted for processing by the DOL. Without documentary evidence to support the claim, the assertions of counsel will not satisfy the petitioner's burden of proof. The assertions of counsel do not constitute evidence. Matter of Obaigbena, 19 I&N Dec. at 534; Matter Of Laureano, 19 I&N Dec. 1 (BIA 1983); Matter of Ramirez-Sanchez, 17 I&N Dec. at 506.

USCIS may consider the overall magnitude of the petitioner's business activities in its determination of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. See Matter of Sonogawa, 12 I&N Dec. 612. The petitioning entity in Sonogawa had been in business for over 11 years and routinely earned a gross annual income of about $100,000. During the year in which the petition was filed in that case, the petitioner changed business locations and paid rent on both the old and new locations for five months. There were large moving costs and also a period of time when the petitioner was unable to do regular business. The Regional Commissioner determined that the petitioner's prospects for a resumption of successful business operations were well established. The petitioner was a fashion designer whose work had been featured in Time and Look magazines. Her clients included Miss Universe, movie actresses, and society matrons. The petitioner's clients had been included in the lists of the best-dressed California women. The petitioner lectured on fashion design at design and fashion shows throughout the United States and at colleges and universities in California. The Regional Commissioner's determination in Sonogawa was based in part on the petitioner's sound business reputation and outstanding reputation as a couturiere. As in Sonogawa, USCIS may, at its discretion, consider evidence relevant to the petitioner's financial ability that falls outside of a petitioner's net income and net current assets. USCIS may consider such factors as the number of years the petitioner has been doing business, the established historical growth of the petitioner's business, the overall number of employees, the occurrence of any uncharacteristic business expenditures or losses, the petitioner's reputation within its industry, whether the beneficiary is replacing a former employee or an outsourced service, or any other evidence that USCIS deems relevant to the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage.

In assessing the totality of the circumstances in this case, it is concluded that the petitioner has not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage. There are no facts paralleling those in Sonogawa that are present in the instant matter to a degree sufficient to establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage. Nor has the petitioner demonstrated the occurrence of any uncharacteristic business expenditures or losses in 2007. The petitioner has not submitted evidence to establish that the beneficiary is replacing a former employee whose primary duties were described in the Form ETA 750. Overall, given the record as a whole, the petitioner has not established that the job offer was credible since the priority date. Accordingly, the evidence submitted does not establish that the petitioner had the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage beginning on the priority date.

A second issue in this case is whether the petitioner has submitted sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the beneficiary had three years of experience as a landscape production manager as of the priority date in the instant matter, November 15, 2004. In determining whether the beneficiary is qualified to perform the duties of the proffered position, the petitioner must demonstrate that, on the priority date, the beneficiary had the qualifications stated on its labor certification application, as certified by the DOL and submitted with the instant petition. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977).

To determine whether a beneficiary is eligible for an employment based immigrant visa, USCIS must examine whether the alien's credentials meet the requirements set forth in the labor certification. In evaluating the beneficiary's qualifications, USCIS must look to the job offer portion of the labor certification to determine the required qualifications for the position. USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Matter of Silver Dragon Chinese Restaurant, 19 I&N Dec. 401, 406 (Comm. 1986). See also, Madany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008 (D.C. Cir. 1983); K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006 (9th Cir. 1983); and Stewart Infra-Red Commissary of Massachusetts, Inc. v. Coomey, 661 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1981).

The beneficiary set forth her credentials on the labor certification. On the section of the labor certification eliciting information of the beneficiary's three years of experience as a landscape production manager, she represented that she was employed by [REDACTED] as its president from January 1998 through 2004; that she was employed by [REDACTED] as a manager/director from January 1992 through January 1996; and was employed by [REDACTED] as a sales representative from January 1989 through January 1991. The petitioner did not submit any employment letters from either [REDACTED] to substantiate the beneficiary's claim.

The petitioner submitted a letter of employment dated May 12, 2008, that was written and signed by the beneficiary as president of [REDACTED] in which she stated that she acquired experience as a landscape production manager from 1998 through 2004. The beneficiary's employment statement is self-serving and does not provide independent, objective evidence of her prior work experience. See Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. 582, 591-592 (BIA 1988)(states that the petitioner must resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent, objective evidence). Going on record without supporting documentary evidence is not sufficient for purposes of meeting the burden of proof in these proceedings. Matter of Soffici, 22 I&N Dec. 158, 165 (Comm'r 1998) (citing Matter of Treasure Craft of California, 14 I&N Dec. 190 (Reg'l Comm'r 1972)). The petitioner submitted a letter from [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] in which the declarants stated that their company worked with the beneficiary on various landscape projects since 1999. The director determined that based upon the lack of specificity, it could not be established that the beneficiary had the requisite three years of experience.

On appeal, the petitioner submits a letter dated October 16, 2008 from the staff management of [REDACTED] who stated that the company employed the beneficiary as president/general manager from 1998 to the present, 2008. The letter fails to provide specific dates of employment. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(1) and (1)(3)(ii)(A). A petitioner must establish the elements for the approval of the petition at the time of filing. A petition may not be approved if the beneficiary was not qualified at the priority date, but expects to become eligible at a subsequent time. Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Comm'r 1971). On appeal, a petitioner cannot offer a new position to the beneficiary, or materially change a position's title, its level of authority within the organizational hierarchy, or the associated job responsibilities. The petitioner must establish that the position offered to the beneficiary when the petition was filed merits classification. See Matter of Michelin Tire Corporation, 17 I&N Dec. 248, 249 (Reg'l Comm'r 1978). A petitioner may not make material changes to a petition in an effort to make a deficient petition conform to USCIS requirements. See Matter of Izummi, 22 I&N Dec. 169, 176 (Assoc. Comm'r 1988).

The vague employment statement casts doubt on the petitioner's proof. Doubt cast on any aspect of the petitioner's proof may lead to a reevaluation of the reliability and sufficiency of the remaining evidence offered in support of the petition. It is incumbent upon the petitioner to resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent objective evidence, and attempts to explain or reconcile such inconsistencies, absent competent objective evidence pointing to where the truth lies, will not suffice. Matter of Ho at 582. Accordingly, it has not been established that the beneficiary has the requisite three years of experience and is thus qualified to perform the duties of the proffered position. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(1) and (1)(3)(ii)(A). For this additional reason, the petition will be denied.

Further, the failure to disclose the beneficiary's family relationship in the labor certification process to any owner could constitute willful misrepresentation. Willful misrepresentation of a material fact in these proceedings may render the beneficiary inadmissible to the United States. See Section 212(a)(6)(C) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(C), regarding misrepresentation, "(i) in general – any alien, who by fraud or willfully misrepresenting a material fact, seeks (or has sought to procure, or who has procured) a visa, other documentation, or admission to the United States or other benefit provided under the Act is inadmissible."

A third issue in this case is whether the petitioning entity disclosed any family relationship or close or financial relationship between the petitioning entity and the beneficiary. Failure to notify the DOL amounts to a willful effort to procure a benefit ultimately leading to permanent residence under the Act. See Kungys v. U.S., 485 U.S. 759 (1988), ("materiality is a legal question of whether "misrepresentation or concealment was predictably capable of affecting, i.e., had a natural tendency to affect the official decision.") Here, the omission of the beneficiary's status as a relative in a small corporation, if any, could have been a willful misrepresentation that adversely impacted the DOL's adjudication of the Form ETA 750.

Furthermore, a finding of misrepresentation may lead to invalidation of the Form ETA 750. See 20 C.F.R. § 656.31(d) regarding labor certification applications involving fraud or willful misrepresentation:

Finding of fraud or willful misrepresentation. If as referenced in Sec. 656.30(d), a court, the DHS or the Department of State determines there was fraud or willful misrepresentation involving a labor certification application, the application will be considered to be invalidated, processing is terminated, a notice of the termination and the reason therefore is sent by the Certifying Officer to the employer, attorney/agent as appropriate.

By failing to identify any potential familial relationship, the beneficiary would seek to procure a benefit provided under the Act through fraud and willful misrepresentation of a material fact.

Counsel indicated that the company was not owned by the beneficiary's sister, [REDACTED], but was owned by [REDACTED]. Contrary to counsel's claim, the record of proceeding contains a letter dated April 10, 2007 that was written by [REDACTED] "Owner/President" in which she confirmed the petitioner's intent to employ the beneficiary. The record also contains a letter dated April 7, 2004 addressed to [REDACTED] from the Florida Department of State concerning [REDACTED] Articles of Incorporation dated April 5, 2004 naming [REDACTED] as the sole director/officer and [REDACTED] as the petitioner's registered agent, not president/owner. The occupation Licenses for the petitioner from 2004 through 2008 name [REDACTED] as president of the petitioning company. The petitioner's corporate income tax returns are signed by [REDACTED], not by the president/owner. Finally, an internet search of the petitioner's corporate status via the Florida Department of State, Division of Corporations website <http://ccfcorp.dos.state.fl.us/> indicates that in 2007 and 2008 [REDACTED] was its director and [REDACTED] the beneficiary was its secretary. Further search of the state's website revealed that the beneficiary's business [REDACTED] was active and, as of 2011, the For Profit Corporate Annual Report indicates that the beneficiary is the president, [REDACTED] is the vice president, and [REDACTED] is the secretary of the corporation. Without documentary evidence to support the claim, the assertions of counsel will not satisfy the petitioner's burden of proof. The assertions of counsel do not constitute evidence. Matter of Obaigbena, 19 I&N Dec. 533, 534 (BIA 1988); Matter Of Laureano, 19 I&N Dec. 1 (BIA 1983); Matter of Ramirez-Sanchez, 17 I&N Dec. 503, 506 (BIA 1980). Any finding of fraud as a result shall be considered in any future proceeding where admissibility is an issue.

The petitioner failed to address the issue raised by the director concerning the co-location of the petitioner's address [REDACTED] and the beneficiary's business address [REDACTED], the evidence in the record shows that the physical address and location is the same for both businesses. As noted above, the two business establishments are located at the same physical address. The inconsistencies found in the record casts doubt on the petitioner's proof.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d at 145.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
