PETITION: Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker as a Skilled Worker or Professional Pursuant to Section 203(b)(3) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

Enclosed please find the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All of the documents related to this matter have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Please be advised that any further inquiry that you might have concerning your case must be made to that office.

If you believe the AAO inappropriately applied the law in reaching its decision, or you have additional information that you wish to have considered, you may file a motion to reconsider or a motion to reopen with the field office or service center that originally decided your case by filing a Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, with a fee of $630. The specific requirements for filing such a motion can be found at 8 C.F.R. § 103.5. Do not file any motion directly with the AAO. Please be aware that 8 C.F.R. § 103.5(a)(1)(i) requires any motion to be filed within 30 days of the decision that the motion seeks to reconsider or reopen.

Thank you,

Perry Rhew
Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, Nebraska Service Center (director), denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition. The petitioner appealed the decision to the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO). The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a multiple unit restaurant franchise. It seeks to permanently employ the beneficiary in the United States as an accountant. The petitioner requests classification of the beneficiary as a professional or skilled worker pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A).

The petition is accompanied by a Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification (labor certification), certified by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). The priority date of the petition, which is the date the DOL accepted the labor certification for processing, is April 7, 2004. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d).

The director's decision denying the petition on October 8, 2008, concludes that the beneficiary did not possess a U.S. bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent as required by the terms of the labor certification and for classification as a professional. On December 4, 2008, the director subsequently determined counsel's motion to reopen and reconsider did not overcome the grounds for denial and reaffirmed the denial of the petition. The petitioner appealed this decision to the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO).

The record shows that the appeal is properly filed, timely and makes a specific allegation of error in law or fact. The procedural history in this case is documented by the record and incorporated into the decision. Further elaboration of the procedural history will be made only as necessary.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.<sup>1</sup>

The petition is accompanied by a Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification Form ETA 750 (labor certification), certified by the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL). The priority date of the petition is April 7, 2004, which is the date the labor certification was accepted for <sup>1</sup> The submission of additional evidence on appeal is allowed by the instructions to the Form I-290B, which are incorporated into the regulations by 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(1). The record in the instant case provides no reason to preclude consideration of any of the documents newly submitted on appeal. See Matter of Soriano, 19 I&N Dec. 764 (BIA 1988). It is noted that the AAO issued a request for evidence on January 31, 2012 for inter alia, documentation of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage and the beneficiary's required two years of accounting experience. The AAO will accept the documentation submitted as evidence of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage of $42,078 per year and the beneficiary's accounting experience.

processing by the DOL. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d).<sup>2</sup>

At the outset, it is important to discuss the respective roles of the DOL and U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) in the employment-based immigrant visa process. As noted above, the labor certification in this matter is certified by the DOL. The DOL's role in this process is set forth at section 212(a)(5)(A)(i) of the Act, which provides:

Any alien who seeks to enter the United States for the purpose of performing skilled or unskilled labor is inadmissible, unless the Secretary of Labor has determined and certified to the Secretary of State and the Attorney General that-

(I) there are not sufficient workers who are able, willing, qualified (or equally qualified in the case of an alien described in clause (ii)) and available at the time of application for a visa and admission to the United States and at the place where the alien is to perform such skilled or unskilled labor, and

(II) the employment of such alien will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of workers in the United States similarly employed.

It is significant that none of the above inquiries assigned to the DOL, or the regulations implementing these duties under 20 C.F.R. § 656, involve a determination as to whether the position and the alien are qualified for a specific immigrant classification. This fact has not gone unnoticed by federal circuit courts:

There is no doubt that the authority to make preference classification decisions rests with INS. The language of section 204 cannot be read otherwise. See Castaneda-Gonzalez v. INS, 564 F.2d 417, 429 (D.C. Cir. 1977). In turn, DOL has the authority to make the two determinations listed in section 212(a)(14).<sup>3</sup> Id. at 423. The necessary result of these two grants of authority is that section 212(a)(14) determinations are not subject to review by INS absent fraud or willful misrepresentation, but all matters relating to preference classification eligibility not expressly delegated to DOL remain within INS' authority.

<sup>2</sup> The current DOL regulations concerning labor certifications went into effect on March 28, 2005. The new regulations are referred to by the acronym PERM, for Program Electronic Review Management. See 69 Fed. Reg. 77325, 77326 (Dec. 27, 2004). The PERM regulation was effective as of March 28, 2005, and applies to labor certifications filed on or after that date. However, the instant labor certification was filed prior to March 28, 2005 and is governed by the prior regulations.

Given the language of the Act, the totality of the legislative history, and the agencies' own interpretations of their duties under the Act, we must conclude that Congress did not intend DOL to have primary authority to make any determinations other than the two stated in section 212(a)(14). If DOL is to analyze alien qualifications, it is for the purpose of "matching" them with those of corresponding United States workers so that it will then be "in a position to meet the requirement of the law," namely the section 212(a)(14) determinations.

Madany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008, 1012-1013 (D.C. Cir. 1983). Relying in part on Madany, 696 F.2d at 1008, the Ninth Circuit stated:

[I]t appears that the DOL is responsible only for determining the availability of suitable American workers for a job and the impact of alien employment upon the domestic labor market. It does not appear that the DOL's role extends to determining if the alien is qualified for the job for which he seeks sixth preference status. That determination appears to be delegated to the INS under section 204(b), 8 U.S.C. § 1154(b), as one of the determinations incident to the INS's decision whether the alien is entitled to sixth preference status.

K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006, 1008 (9th Cir. 1983). The court relied on an amicus brief from the DOL that stated the following:

The labor certification made by the Secretary of Labor . . . pursuant to section 212(a)(14) of the [Act] is binding as to the findings of whether there are able, willing, qualified, and available United States workers for the job offered to the alien, and whether employment of the alien under the terms set by the employer would adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed United States workers. The labor certification in no way indicates that the alien offered the certified job opportunity is qualified (or not qualified) to perform the duties of that job.

(Emphasis added.) Id. at 1009. The Ninth Circuit, citing K.R.K. Irvine, Inc., 699 F.2d at 1006, revisited this issue, stating:

The Department of Labor (DOL) must certify that insufficient domestic workers are available to perform the job and that the alien's performance of the job will not adversely affect the wages and working conditions of similarly employed domestic workers. Id. § 212(a)(14), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(14). The INS then makes its own determination of the alien's entitlement to sixth preference status. Id. § 204(b), 8 U.S.C. § 1154(b). See generally K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006, 1008 9th Cir.1983).

The INS, therefore, may make a de novo determination of whether the alien is in fact qualified to fill the certified job offer.

Tongatapu Woodcraft Hawaii, Ltd. v. Feldman, 736 F. 2d 1305, 1309 (9th Cir. 1984).

Therefore, it is the DOL's responsibility to determine whether there are qualified U.S. workers available to perform the offered position, and whether the employment of the beneficiary will adversely affect similarly employed U.S. workers. It is the responsibility of USCIS to determine if the beneficiary qualifies for the offered position, and whether the offered position and beneficiary are eligible for the requested employment-based immigrant visa classification.

In the instant case, the petitioner requests classification of the beneficiary as a professional or skilled worker pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A).<sup>4</sup> The AAO will first consider whether the petition may be approved in the professional classification.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(ii), grants preference classification to qualified immigrants who hold baccalaureate degrees and are members of the professions. See also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(2).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) states, in part:

If the petition is for a professional, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the alien holds a United States baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree and by evidence that the alien is a member of the professions. Evidence of a baccalaureate degree shall be in the form of an official college or university record showing the date the baccalaureate degree was awarded and the area of concentration of study.

Section 101(a)(32) of the Act defines the term "profession" to include, but is not limited to, "architects, engineers, lawyers, physicians, surgeons, and teachers in elementary or secondary schools, colleges, academies, or seminaries." If the offered position is not statutorily defined as a profession, "the petitioner must submit evidence showing that the minimum of a baccalaureate degree is required for entry into the occupation.” 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C).

<sup>4</sup> Employment-based immigrant visa petitions are filed on Form I-140, Immigrant Petition for Alien Worker. The petitioner indicates the requested classification by checking a box on the Form I-140. The Form I-140 version in effect when this petition was filed did not have separate boxes for the professional and skilled worker classifications. In the instant case, the petitioner selected Part 2, Box e of Form I-140 for a professional or skilled worker. The petitioner did not specify elsewhere in the record of proceeding whether the petition should be considered under the skilled worker or professional classification. After reviewing the minimum requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification and the standard requirements of the occupational classification assigned to the offered position by the DOL, the AAO will consider the petition under both the professional and skilled worker categories.

In addition, the job offer portion of the labor certification underlying a petition for a professional “must demonstrate that the job requires the minimum of a baccalaureate degree.” 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(i)

The beneficiary must also meet all of the requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification by the priority date of the petition. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(1), (12). See Matter of Wing’s Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158, 159 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977); see also Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Reg. Comm. 1971).

The minimum education, training, experience and other special requirements required to perform the duties of the offered position are set forth at Part A, Items 14 and 15 of the labor certification. In the instant case, the labor certification states that the offered position has the following minimum requirements:

EDUCATION

Grade School: 8 years

High School: 4 years

College: 4 years

College Degree Required: Bachelor’s Degree

Major Field of Study: Accounting

TRAINING: n/a

EXPERIENCE: 2 years in the job offered<sup>5</sup>

OTHER SPECIAL REQUIREMENTS: Knowledge of MS-Office and accounting software systems.

Therefore the labor certification requires an individual with a four-year bachelor’s degree in accounting and 2 years of experience in the job offered.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>5</sup> The petitioner lists that “0” years would be accepted in a related occupation but then states the related occupation as “Accounting.”

<sup>6</sup> The DOL has provided the following field guidance for interpreting labor certification requirements: when the labor certification indicates, for example, that a “bachelor’s degree in computer science” is required, and the beneficiary has a four-year bachelor’s degree in computer science from the University of Florence, “there is no requirement that the employer include ‘or equivalent’ after the degree requirement” on the Form ETA 750 or in its advertisement and recruitment efforts. See Memo. from Anna C. Hall, Acting Regl. Adminstr., U.S. Dep’t. of Labor’s Empl. & Training Administration, to SESA and JTPA Adminstrs., U.S. Dep’t. of Labor’s Empl. & Training Administration, Interpretation of “Equivalent Degree,” 2 (June 13, 1994). Further, where the Form ETA 750 indicates that a “U.S. bachelor’s degree or the equivalent” may qualify an applicant for a position, where no specific terms are set out on the Form ETA 750 or in the employer’s recruitment efforts to define the term “equivalent,” “we understand [equivalent] to mean the employer is willing to accept an equivalent foreign degree.” See Ltr. From Paul R. Nelson,

A petition for a professional must establish that the occupation of the offered position is listed as a profession at section 101(a)(32) of the Act or requires a bachelor's degree as a minimum for entry; the beneficiary possesses a U.S. bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent degree from a college or university; the job offer portion of the labor certification requires at least a bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent degree; and the beneficiary meets all of the requirements of the labor certification.

It is noted that the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) uses a singular description of the degree required for classification as a professional. In 1991, when the final rule for 8 C.F.R. § 204.5 was published in the Federal Register, the Immigration and Naturalization Service (now USCIS or the Service), responded to criticism that the regulation required an alien to have a bachelor's degree as a minimum and that the regulation did not allow for the substitution of experience for education. After reviewing section 121 of the Immigration Act of 1990, Pub. L. 101-649 (1990), and the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference, the Service specifically noted that both the Act and the legislative history indicate that an alien must have at least a bachelor's degree: "[B]oth the Act and its legislative history make clear that, in order to qualify as a professional under the third classification or to have experience equating to an advanced degree under the second, an alien must have at least a bachelor's degree." 56 Fed. Reg. 60897, 60900 (November 29, 1991) (emphasis added).

It is significant that both section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act and the relevant regulations use the word "degree" in relation to professionals. A statute should be construed under the assumption that Congress intended it to have purpose and meaningful effect. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. v. Pueblo of Santa Ana, 472 U.S. 237, 249 (1985); Sutton v. United States, 819 F.2d. 1289, 1295 (5th Cir. 1987). It can be presumed that Congress' requirement of a single "degree" for members of the professions is deliberate.

Certifying Officer, U.S. Dept. of Labor's Empl. & Training Administration, to Joseph Thomas, INS (October 27, 1992). Where the Form ETA 750 indicates, for example, that work experience or a certain combination of lesser diplomas or degrees may be substituted for a bachelor's degree, "the employer must specifically state on the ETA 750, Part A as well as throughout all phases of recruitment exactly what will be considered equivalent or alternative [to the degree] in order to qualify for the job." See Memo. from [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] of "Equivalent Degree," 2 (June 13, 1994). State Employment Security Agencies (SESAs) should "request the employer provide the specifics of what is meant when the word 'equivalent' is used." See Ltr. From [REDACTED] to [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Finally, the DOL's certification of job requirements stating that "a certain amount and kind of experience is the equivalent of a college degree does in no way bind [USCIS] to accept the employer's definition." Id. To our knowledge, the field guidance memoranda referred to here have not been rescinded.

The regulation also requires the submission of “an official college or university record showing the date the baccalaureate degree was awarded and the area of concentration of study.” 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(C) (emphasis added). In another context, Congress has broadly referenced “the possession of a degree, diploma, certificate, or similar award from a college, university, school, or other institution of learning.” Section 203(b)(2)(C) of the Act (relating to aliens of exceptional ability). However, for the professional category, it is clear that the degree must be from a college or university.

In Snapnames.com, Inc. v. Michael Chertoff, 2006 WL 3491005 (D. Or. Nov. 30, 2006), the court held that, in professional and advanced degree professional cases, where the beneficiary is statutorily required to hold a baccalaureate degree, USCIS properly concluded that a single foreign degree or its equivalent is required. See also Maramjaya v. USCIS, Civ. Act No. 06-2158 (D.D.C. Mar. 26, 2008)(for professional classification, USCIS regulations require the beneficiary to possess a single four-year U.S. bachelor’s degree or foreign equivalent degree).

Thus, the plain meaning of the Act and the regulations is that the beneficiary of a petition for a professional must possess a degree from a college or university that is at least a U.S. baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree.

In the instant case, Part B, item 11 of the Form ETA 750 labor certification states that the beneficiary possesses a Bachelor’s degree in Accounting from the Maharaja Sayuajirao University of Baroda, India, received in March 1986. The record contains a copy of the beneficiary’s three-year Bachelor of Commerce and corresponding transcripts from the [REDACTED] University of Baroda, India.

The record also contains a credentials evaluation prepared by [REDACTED] of Hofstra University. The evaluation concludes that the beneficiary’s degree from India is the U.S. equivalent of three years of academic studies leading to a Bachelor of Business Administration degree. Citing a formula of three years of experience equaling one year of college, [REDACTED] then concludes that the beneficiary’s combination of three years academic studies and eight years of work experience is the U.S. equivalent of a Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration with a concentration in Accounting. [REDACTED] evaluation relies partially on experience undocumented in the record and that the beneficiary did not list on the Form ETA 750. See Matter of Leung, 16 I&N 12, Interim Dec. 2530 (BIA 1976)(decided on other grounds; Court noted that applicant testimony concerning employment omitted from the labor certification deemed not credible.) The letters upon which he relies are not attached to his evaluation, or in the record. Additionally, the evaluation cites to the beneficiary’s experience from September 1999 to January 2002. The petitioner also seeks to rely on this experience to establish that the beneficiary meets the two years in the job offered. The petitioner may not rely upon the same experience to show that the beneficiary has both the education and experience for the position offered.

[REDACTED] evaluation additionally used the rule to equate three years of experience for one year of education, but that equivalence applies to non-immigrant H-1B petitions, not to immigrant petitions. See 8 CFR § 214.2(h)(4)(iii)(D)(5). The beneficiary was required to have four years of college culminating in a bachelor's degree on the Form ETA 750. The petitioner did not state any allowed equivalency on Form ETA 750.<sup>7</sup> A bachelor's degree is generally found to require four years of education. Matter of Shah, 17 I&N Dec. 244, 245 (Comm'r 1977). Therefore, the beneficiary's degree from Maharaja Sayajirao University cannot be considered a foreign equivalent degree. Moreover, the Form ETA 750 specifically requires four years of college education. The beneficiary's three years of undergraduate studies falls short of the four-year requirement.

The petitioner also submitted evaluations from [REDACTED] and the "European-American University," and [REDACTED] of [REDACTED]

<sup>7</sup> USCIS must look to the job offer portion of the labor certification to determine the required qualifications for the position. USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Matter of Silver Dragon Chinese Restaurant, 19 I&N Dec. 401, 406 (Comm. 1986). See also, Mandany v. Smith, 696 F.2d 1008, (D.C. Cir. 1983); K.R.K. Irvine, Inc. v. Landon, 699 F.2d 1006 (9th Cir. 1983); Stewart Infra-Red Commissary of Massachusetts, Inc. v. Coomey, 661 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1981). The AAO's RFE requested documentation of the petitioner's recruitment efforts if it sought to rely on any alternative to a four-year bachelor's degree. The petitioner did not indicate in its response that it sought to rely on an alternate combination of education and experience and the petitioner did not respond to the request for its recruitment material or send this documentation. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14).

<sup>8</sup> The European-American University was founded by [REDACTED] who initially formed it as the University of Self-Empowerment, which became Marquess College, which became St. Simon's College before being adopted as the European-American University. Kersey acknowledged that the European-American degrees would not be accepted in the United States and asserted that they may appeal to "those whose pursuit of a degree is purely for interest or to validate what they have achieved for personal satisfaction." (According to www.thedegree.org/interview.html (originally accessed on November 5, 2009, but this specific web address is not currently operational). Current information available on its website at <http://www.thedegree.org/legal.html> (accessed September 14, 2010, but not currently operational) indicates that this entity operates chiefly through the internet with the adjunct faculty and administration located in various countries with degrees conferred as may be permitted in different jurisdictions where permitted by law. It further states that the European-American University has certificates of incorporation and good standing from the "Commonwealth of Dominica" but does not offer educational activities within Dominica itself. It does not operate or is accredited by any federal or state government in the U.S. It is also not accredited by a United Kingdom Royal Charter or Act of Parliament and does not issue United Kingdom degrees. Id. Like [REDACTED] has claimed in other cases that he has a doctorate from the San Juan De La Cruz University, Costa Rica. (See the following footnote.)

[REDACTED] states that she is a member of the American Evaluation Association (AEA), the Association of International Educators, and the European Association for International Education (EAIE). The record does not indicate what these organizations require for membership, and their websites do not indicate that anything other than the payment of dues for membership is required. For example, the bylaws for the AEA at <http://www.eval.org/about/us/bylaws.asp>, states: "Any Career Consulting International. In response to the AAO's request for evidence, counsel emphasizes that the beneficiary's "contact" hours within his degree course of study were similar in complexity and length to a course of study to a U.S. bachelor's degree. The [REDACTED] evaluations present similar arguments. It is noted that both are affiliated with each other and with the [REDACTED]. According to [REDACTED] (accessed May 14, 2012), it awards degrees based on experience.

[REDACTED] goes on at length about Carnegie Units and Indian degrees in general, concluding that the beneficiary's three-year degree is equivalent to a four-year U.S. baccalaureate but makes no attempt to assign credits for individual courses. Ultimately, the record contains no evidence that the Carnegie Unit is a useful way to evaluate Indian degrees.

individual interested in the purposes of the Association shall be eligible for membership. Members are defined as those who have completed an application form, received acknowledgment of membership from the Association, and paid the currently stipulated membership dues." Membership in organizations that only require the payment of dues does not confer any expertise. [REDACTED] indicates that she is a professor at the European-American University, which appears to be connected to [REDACTED] and has a Master's degree from the Institute of Transpersonal Psychology. [REDACTED] has previously indicated that she has a doctorate from [REDACTED] but has not indicated the field in which she obtained her doctorate. According to its website, www.sorbon.fr/index1.html, Ecole Superieure Robert de Sorbon awards degrees based on past experience. In other cases, [REDACTED] has omitted her doctorate from the Ecole Superieure Robert de Sorbon and states that she has a doctorate from the Universidad San Juan de la Cruz, Costa Rica and is currently a professor at that institution. We note that the current website of San Juan De La Cruz University at http://www.sjdlc.cr/index.php?option=com\_content&view=article&id fails to mention that it offers doctorates and only lists bachelor's and master's programs.

In 2004, [REDACTED] acknowledged having financial ties to St. Regis University, a diploma mill selling fake degrees online and run out of the state of Washington by two individuals that were subsequently convicted. The U.S. government shut the operation down in 2005. The operation was based in Liberia, but appeared to be run in the United States. In May 2004, [REDACTED] reversed her position and indicated that she would no longer rate the St. Regis degrees as equivalent to U.S. degrees, but was criticized by "others in the credential evaluation field" who said that "those ties constituted a breach of professionalism and a conflict of interest." [REDACTED]

Further, the evaluation from Marquess Educational Consultants references excerpts from the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) regarding recognition of foreign educational qualifications. These items do not establish that the beneficiary's degree is equivalent to a U.S. bachelor's degree. UNESCO has six regional conventions on the recognition of qualifications, and one interregional convention. A UNESCO convention on the recognition of qualifications is a legal agreement between countries agreeing to recognize academic qualifications issued by other countries that have ratified the same agreement. In an effort to move toward a single universal convention, the UNESCO General Conference adopted a Recommendation on the Recognition of Studies and Qualifications in Higher Education in 1993. It is noted that the United States was not a member of UNESCO between 1984 and 2002. Moreover the Recommendation on the Recognition of Studies and Qualifications in Higher Education does not compel the United States to recognize the beneficiary's three-year degree as a foreign equivalent to a U. S. baccalaureate. The 1979 Convention (to which the United States was a signatory), for example, provided provisions related to "recognition" of qualifications awarded in higher education. Article I defines recognition as follows:

- (a) Recognition of a certificate, diploma or degree with a view to undertaking or pursuing studies at the higher level shall enable the holder to be considered for entry to the higher educational and research institutions of any Contracting State as if he were the holder of a comparable certificate, diploma or degree issued in the Contracting State concerned. Such recognition does not exempt the holder of the foreign certificate, diploma or degree from complying with the conditions (other than those relating to the holding of a diploma) which may be required for admission to the higher educational research institution concerned of the receiving State.
- (b) Recognition of a foreign certificate, diploma or degree with a view to the practice of a profession is recognition of the professional preparation of the holder for the practice of the profession concerned, without prejudice, however, to the legal and professional rules or procedures in force in the Contracting States concerned. Such recognition does not exempt the holder of the foreign certificate, diploma or degree from complying with any other conditions for the practice of the profession concerned which may be laid down by the competent governmental or professional authorities.

These UNESCO recommendations relate to admission to graduate school and training programs and eligibility to practice in a profession. Nowhere does it suggest that a three-year degree must be deemed equivalent to a four-year degree for purposes of qualifying for inclusion in a class of individuals defined by statute and regulation that would be eligible for immigration benefits. More significantly, these recommendations do not define "comparable qualification." At the heart of this matter is whether the beneficiary's three-year degree is, in fact, the foreign equivalent of a four-year U.S. baccalaureate. The UNESCO recommendation does not address this issue.

Ms. Danzig breaks down the beneficiary's subjects into courses and awards credits for each course, concluding that the beneficiary achieved 120 "contact hours using the Carnegie Unit." The evaluations base this equivalency formula on the claim that the U.S. semester credit hour is a variant of the "Carnegie Unit." The Carnegie Unit was adopted by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching in the early 1900s as a measure of the amount of classroom time that a high school student studied a subject. For example, 120 hours of classroom time was determined to be equal to one "unit" of high school credit, and 14 "units" were deemed to constitute the minimum amount of classroom time equivalent to four years of high school.<sup>10</sup> This unit system was adopted at a time when high schools lacked uniformity in the courses they taught and the number of hours students spent in class.<sup>11</sup> Although disputed by Kersey, according to the foundation's website, the "Carnegie Unit" relates to the number of classroom hours a high school student should have with a teacher, and "does not apply to higher education."<sup>12</sup> does not explain how she determined the individual course credit numbers, which are all "7.5." Specifically, the beneficiary's transcript does not provide any information as to classroom hours or credits.

The AAO has reviewed the Electronic Database for Global Education (EDGE) created by the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO). According to its website, AACRAO is "a nonprofit, voluntary, professional association of more than 11,000 higher education admissions and registration professionals who represent more than 2,600 institutions and agencies in the United States and in over 40 countries around the world." See <http://www.aacrao.org/About-AACRAO.aspx>. According to EDGE, a three-year Bachelor of Commerce degree from India is comparable to “two or three years of university study in the United States.” The beneficiary’s statement of marks shows that his program of study was based on three years.

Therefore, based on the conclusions of EDGE, the evidence in the record on appeal is not sufficient to establish that the beneficiary possesses the foreign equivalent of a U.S. bachelor’s degree in Accounting, specifically a four-year bachelor’s degree in Accounting as required by the terms of the labor certification.

After reviewing all of the evidence in the record, it is concluded that the petitioner has failed to establish that the beneficiary has a U.S. baccalaureate degree or a foreign equivalent degree from a college or university. The petitioner has failed to overcome the conclusions of EDGE with reliable, peer-reviewed information. As set forth above, the evaluations from [REDACTED] are insufficient to establish that the beneficiary’s three-year degree is equivalent to the required four-year degree. Additionally, the petitioner fails to address the discrepancy between the two evaluations submitted, and the third evaluation that the petitioner submitted from [REDACTED] which similarly agrees with the conclusions of EDGE, that the beneficiary’s bachelor’s degree is only equivalent to three years of U.S. university study and not a U.S. four-year bachelor’s degree. The petitioner has failed to resolve the inconsistencies in the documentation that it submitted. It is incumbent on the petitioner to resolve any inconsistencies in the record by independent objective evidence, and attempts to explain or reconcile such inconsistencies, absent competent objective evidence pointing to where the truth, in fact, lies, will not suffice. See Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. 582, 591-592 (BIA 1988). Therefore, the beneficiary does not qualify for classification as a professional under section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act.

<sup>14</sup> In Confluence Intern., Inc. v. Holder, 2009 WL 825793 (D.Minn. March 27, 2009), the court determined that the AAO provided a rational explanation for its reliance on information provided by AACRAO to support its decision. In Tisco Group, Inc. v. Napolitano, 2010 WL 3464314 (E.D.Mich. August 30, 2010), the court found that USCIS had properly weighed the evaluations submitted and the information obtained from EDGE to conclude that the alien’s three-year foreign “baccalaureate” and foreign “Master’s” degree were only comparable to a U.S. bachelor’s degree. In Sunshine Rehab Services, Inc., 2010 WL 3325442 (E.D.Mich. August 20, 2010), the court upheld a USCIS determination that the alien’s three-year bachelor’s degree was not a foreign equivalent degree to a U.S. bachelor’s degree. Specifically, the court concluded that USCIS was entitled to prefer the information in EDGE and did not abuse its discretion in reaching its conclusion. The court also noted that the labor certification itself required a degree and did not allow for the combination of education and experience.

The AAO will also consider whether the petition may be approved in the skilled worker classification. Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States. See also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(1)(2).

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(l)(3)(ii)(B) states:

If the petition is for a skilled worker, the petition must be accompanied by evidence that the alien meets the educational, training or experience, and any other requirements of the [labor certification]. The minimum requirements for this classification are at least two years of training or experience.

The determination of whether a petition may be approved for a skilled worker is based on the requirements of the job offered as set forth on the labor certification. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(1)(4). The labor certification must require at least two years of training and/or experience. Relevant post-secondary education may be considered as training. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(1)(2).

Accordingly, a petition for a skilled worker must establish that the job offer portion of the labor certification requires at least two years of training and/or experience, and the beneficiary meets all of the requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification.

In evaluating the job offer portion of the labor certification to determine the required qualifications for the position, USCIS may not ignore a term of the labor certification, nor may it impose additional requirements. See Matter of Silver Dragon Chinese Restaurant, 19 I&N Dec. 401, 406 (Comm. 1986). See also Madany, 696 F.2d at 1008; K.R.K. Irvine, Inc., 699 F.2d at 1006; Stewart Infra-Red Commissary of Massachusetts, Inc. v. Coomey, 661 F.2d 1 (1st Cir. 1981).

Where the job requirements in a labor certification are not otherwise unambiguously prescribed, e.g., by regulation, USCIS must examine “the language of the labor certification job requirements” in order to determine what the petitioner must demonstrate about the beneficiary’s qualifications. Madany, 696 F.2d at 1015. The only rational manner by which USCIS can be expected to interpret the meaning of terms used to describe the requirements of a job in a labor certification is to “examine the certified job offer exactly as it is completed by the prospective employer.” Rosedale Linden Park Company v. Smith, 595 F. Supp. 829, 833 (D.D.C. 1984)(emphasis added). USCIS’s interpretation of the job’s requirements, as stated on the labor certification must involve “reading and applying the plain language of the [labor certification].” Id. at 834 (emphasis added). USCIS cannot and should not reasonably be expected to look beyond the plain language of the labor certification or otherwise attempt to divine the employer’s intentions through some sort of reverse engineering of the labor certification.

The labor certification states the position’s requirements as a four-year Bachelor’s degree in Accounting. The labor certification does not permit a lesser degree, a combination of lesser degrees, and/or a quantifiable amount of work experience, such as that possessed by the beneficiary. Nonetheless, the AAO RFE permitted the petitioner to submit any evidence that it intended the labor certification to require an alternative to a U.S. bachelor's degree or a single foreign equivalent degree, as that intent was explicitly and specifically expressed during the labor certification process to the DOL and to potentially qualified U.S. workers.<sup>15</sup> Specifically, the AAO requested that the petitioner provide a copy of the signed recruitment report required by 20 C.F.R. § 656, together with copies of the prevailing wage determination, all recruitment conducted for the position, the posted notice of the filing of the labor certification, and all resumes received in response to the recruitment efforts.

In response, counsel asserts that the petitioner does not contend that the terms of the labor certification required an alternative to a U.S. bachelor's degree or a single foreign equivalent degree, so submitting recruitment materials would be irrelevant. Rather, as discussed above, the petitioner asserts that the beneficiary's degree was comprised of a similarly complex course of study to a U.S. baccalaureate and was therefore equivalent to such a degree.

The petitioner failed to establish that that the terms of the labor certification are ambiguous and that the petitioner intended the labor certification to require less than a four-year U.S. bachelor's or foreign equivalent degree, as that intent was expressed during the labor certification process to the DOL and potentially qualified U.S. workers.

Therefore it is concluded based on the express terms of the Form ETA 750 that the terms of the labor certification require a four-year U.S. Bachelor's degree in Accounting or a foreign equivalent degree. The beneficiary does not possess such a degree. The petitioner failed to establish that the beneficiary met the minimum educational requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification by the priority date. Therefore, the beneficiary does not qualify for classification as a skilled worker.<sup>16</sup>

<sup>15</sup> In limited circumstances, USCIS may consider a petitioner's intent to determine the meaning of an unclear or ambiguous term in the labor certification. However, an employer's subjective intent may not be dispositive of the meaning of the actual minimum requirements of the offered position. See Maramjaya v. USCIS, Civ. Act No. 06-2158 (D.D.C. Mar. 26, 2008). The best evidence of the petitioner's intent concerning the actual minimum educational requirements of the offered position is evidence of how it expressed those requirements to the DOL during the labor certification process and not afterwards to USCIS. The timing of such evidence ensures that the stated requirements of the offered position as set forth on the labor certification are not incorrectly expanded in an effort to fit the beneficiary's credentials. Such a result would undermine Congress' intent to limit the issuance of immigrant visas in the professional and skilled worker classifications to when there are no qualified U.S. workers available to perform the offered position. See Id., at 14.

<sup>16</sup> For classification as a skilled worker, the beneficiary must also meet all of the requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(1), (12). See Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158, 159 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977); see also Matter of Katigbak, 14 I&N Dec. 45, 49 (Reg. Comm. 1971).

We note the decision in Snapnames.com, Inc. v. Michael Chertoff, 2006 WL 3491005 (D. Or. Nov. 30, 2006). In that case, the labor certification specified an educational requirement of four years of college and a “B.S. or foreign equivalent.” The district court determined that “B.S. or foreign equivalent” relates solely to the alien’s educational background, precluding consideration of the alien’s combined education and work experience. Snapnames.com, Inc., at *11-13. Additionally, the court determined that the word “equivalent” in the employer’s educational requirements was ambiguous and that in the context of skilled worker petitions (where there is no statutory educational requirement), deference must be given to the employer’s intent. Snapnames.com, Inc., at *14.<sup>17</sup> In addition, the court in Snapnames.com, Inc. recognized that even though the labor certification may be prepared with the alien in mind, USCIS has an independent role in determining whether the alien meets the labor certification requirements. Id., at *7. Thus, the court concluded that where the plain language of those requirements does not support the petitioner’s asserted intent, USCIS “does not err in applying the requirements as written.” Id. See also Maramjaya v. USCIS, Civ. Act No. 06-2158 (D.D.C. Mar. 26, 2008)(upholding USCIS interpretation that the term “bachelor’s or equivalent” on the labor certification necessitated a single four-year degree).

In the instant case, unlike the labor certifications in Snapnames.com, Inc. and Grace Korean, the required education is clearly and unambiguously stated on the labor certification and does not include the language “or equivalent” or any other alternatives to the required four-year bachelor’s degree.

In summary, the petitioner has failed to establish that the beneficiary possessed a U.S. bachelor’s degree or the foreign equivalent thereof from a college or university as of the priority date. The petitioner also failed to establish that the beneficiary met the minimum educational requirements of the offered position set forth on the labor certification as of the priority date. Therefore, the beneficiary does not qualify for classification as a professional under section 203(b)(3)(A)(ii) of the Act or as a skilled worker under section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Act.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.

<sup>17</sup> In Grace Korean United Methodist Church v. Michael Chertoff, 437 F. Supp. 2d 1174 (D. Or. 2005), the court concluded that USCIS “does not have the authority or expertise to impose its strained definition of ‘B.A. or equivalent’ on that term as set forth in the labor certification.” However, the court in Grace Korean makes no attempt to distinguish its holding from the federal circuit court decisions cited above. Instead, as legal support for its determination, the court cites to Tovar v. U.S. Postal Service, 3 F.3d 1271, 1276 (9th Cir. 1993)(the U.S. Postal Service has no expertise or special competence in immigration matters). Id. at 1179. Tovar is easily distinguishable from the present matter since USCIS, through the authority delegated by the Secretary of Homeland Security, is charged by statute with the enforcement of the United States immigration laws. See section 103(a) of the Act. Here, the petitioner did not state “or equivalent,” but instead stated only a four-year Bachelor’s degree in Accounting was the requirement.
