Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, Texas Service Center, revoked the approval of the employment-based immigrant visa petition, which is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a restaurant. The petitioner sought to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a food service manager. As required by statute, a labor certification approved by the Department of Labor accompanied the petition. The director revoked the approval of the petition on July 27, 2009. The director's decision concludes there is insufficient evidence in the record to demonstrate that the beneficiary has a U.S. bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent degree as required by the terms of the labor certification. The petitioner appealed this decision to the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO).

On December 3, 2012, this office notified the petitioner in a Request for Evidence (RFE) that additional evidence and information was necessary before the AAO could render a decision. The AAO noted that the record in this case lacked sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the beneficiary has a U.S. bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent degree as required by the terms of the labor certification.

The petitioner was informed in the RFE that if it chose not to respond, the AAO would dismiss the appeal without further discussion. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14). The AAO further stated that it would be unable to substantively adjudicate the appeal without a meaningful response to the line of inquiry set forth in the request for evidence.

This office allowed the petitioner 45 days in which to provide the requested evidence. It is noted that the RFE was sent to the petitioner's and to counsel's last known address. More than 45 days have passed and the petitioner has failed to respond to this office's request for evidence. Thus, the appeal will be dismissed as abandoned. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13)(i).

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
