INSTRUCTIONS:

Enclosed please find the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All of the documents related to this matter have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Please be advised that any further inquiry that you might have concerning your case must be made to that office.

Thank you,

Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center. The claimed successor-in-interest filed a motion to reopen, which was subsequently denied by the director for failure to establish that it was an affected party. The Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) rejected a subsequent appeal by the claimed successor-in-interest, as there was no evidence that the petitioner consented to the filing of the appeal, pursuant to 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(2)(v)(A)(1). The matter is now before the AAO on a motion to reopen; however, as a matter of administrative discretion, the AAO will consider the merits of the appeal on certification.<sup>1</sup> The AAO's previous decision will be withdrawn, and a new decision will be entered dismissing the appeal.

The petitioner describes itself as a general dentistry business. It seeks to permanently employ the beneficiary in the United States as a dental esthetics coordinator. The petitioner requests classification of the beneficiary as a professional or skilled worker pursuant to section 203(b)(3)(A) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A). As required by statute, a labor certification approved by the Department of Labor accompanied the petition. The director determined that [REDACTED] DDS had not established that it was a successor-in-interest or that the petitioner had established the ability to pay the proffered wage. In dismissing the Motion to Reopen, the director found that [REDACTED] DDS had not established that it was qualified to file a motion to reopen the director's prior decision regarding the original petitioner. On appeal, the AAO determined that no evidence suggested that the petitioner consented to the filing of the appeal. Therefore, the appeal was not properly filed and rejected.

USCIS has not issued regulations governing immigrant visa petitions filed by a successor-in-interest employer. Instead, such matters are adjudicated in accordance with Matter of Dial Auto Repair Shop, Inc., 19 I&N Dec. 481 (Comm'r 1986) ("Matter of Dial Auto") a binding, legacy Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) decision that was designated as a precedent by the Commissioner in 1986. The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(c) provides that precedent decisions are binding on all immigration officers in the administration of the Act.

The facts of the precedent decision, Matter of Dial Auto, are instructive in this matter. Matter of Dial Auto involved a petition filed by Dial Auto Repair Shop, Inc. on behalf of an alien beneficiary for the position of automotive technician. The beneficiary's former employer, Elvira Auto Body, filed the underlying labor certification. On the petition, Dial Auto claimed to be a successor-in-interest to Elvira Auto Body. The part of the Commissioner's decision relating to the successor-in-interest issue follows:

Additionally, the representations made by the petitioner concerning the relationship between Elvira Auto Body and itself are issues which have not been resolved. In order to determine whether the petitioner was a true successor to Elvira Auto Body, counsel was instructed on appeal to fully explain the manner by which the petitioner took over the business of Elvira Auto Body and to provide the Service with a copy of the contract or agreement between the two entities; however, no response was submitted. If the petitioner's claim of having assumed all of Elvira Auto Body's rights, duties, obligations, etc., is found to be untrue, then grounds would exist for invalidation of the labor certification under 20 C.F.R. § 656.30 (1987). Conversely, if the claim is found to be true, and it is determined that an actual successorship exists, the petition could be approved if eligibility is otherwise shown, including ability of the predecessor enterprise to have paid the certified wage at the time of filing.

<sup>1</sup> Like any USCIS office, the AAO may avail itself of the certification process. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.4(a). As a matter of administrative discretion, the AAO may certify a decision to itself for review. The AAO limits this practice to cases involving exceptional circumstances; it "is not meant to be used as a general cure for filing defects or to otherwise circumvent the regulations . . ." Matter of Jean, 23 I&N Dec. 373, 380 n 9 (AG 2002). The present case, involving the director's violation of procedural regulations, warrants such review. The AAO is suspending the 30-day briefing period and will instead consider the petitioner's appellate brief. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.4(a)(3).

19 I&N Dec. at 482-3 (emphasis added).

A USCIS Service Center Director may strictly interpret Matter of Dial Auto to limit a successor-in-interest finding to cases where the petitioner could show that it assumed “all” of the original employer’s rights, duties, obligations, and assets. The Commissioner’s decision, however, does not require a successor-in-interest to establish that it assumed all rights, duties, and obligations. Instead, in Matter of Dial Auto, the petitioner specifically represented that it had assumed all of the original employer’s rights, duties, and obligations, but failed to submit requested evidence to establish that this claim was, in fact, true. The Commissioner stated that if the petitioner’s claim was untrue, the INS could invalidate the underlying labor certification for fraud or willful misrepresentation. For this reason the Commissioner said: “if the claim is found to be true, and it is determined that an actual successorship exists, the petition could be approved . . . .” Id. (emphasis added).

The Commissioner clearly considered the petitioner’s claim that it had assumed all of the original employer’s rights, duties, and obligations to be a separate inquiry from whether or not the petitioner is a successor-in-interest. The Commissioner was most interested in receiving a full explanation as to the “manner by which the petitioner took over the business” and seeing a copy of “the contract or agreement between the two entities” in order to verify the petitioner’s claims. Id.

Accordingly, Matter of Dial Auto does not stand for the proposition that a valid successor relationship may only be established through the assumption of “all” or a totality of a predecessor entity’s rights, duties, and obligations. Instead, the generally accepted definition of a successor-in-interest is broader: “One who follows another in ownership or control of property. A successor in interest retains the same rights as the original owner, with no change in substance.” Black’s Law Dictionary 1570 (9th ed. 2009) (defining “successor in interest”).

With respect to corporations, a successor is generally created when one corporation is vested with the rights and obligations of an earlier corporation through amalgamation, consolidation, or other assumption of interests.<sup>2</sup> Id. at 1569 (defining “successor”). When considering other business

<sup>2</sup> Merger and acquisition transactions, in which the interests of two or more corporations become unified, may be arranged into four general groups. The first group includes “consolidations” that occur when two or more corporations are united to create one new corporation. The second group organizations, such as partnerships or sole proprietorships, even a partial change in ownership may require the petitioner to establish that it is a true successor-in-interest to the employer identified in the labor certification application.<sup>3</sup>

The merger or consolidation of a business organization into another will give rise to a successor-in-interest relationship because the assets and obligations are transferred by operation of law. However, a mere transfer of assets, even one that takes up a predecessor's business activities, does not necessarily create a successor-in-interest. See Holland v. Williams Mountain Coal Co., 496 F.3d 670, 672 (D.C. Cir. 2007). An asset transaction occurs when one business organization sells property – such as real estate, machinery, or intellectual property - to another business organization. The purchase of assets from a predecessor will only result in a successor-in-interest relationship if the parties agree to the transfer and assumption of the essential rights and obligations of the predecessor necessary to carry on the business.<sup>4</sup> See generally 19 Am. Jur. 2d Corporations § 2170 (2010).

Considering Matter of Dial Auto and the generally accepted definition of successor-in-interest, a petitioner may establish a valid successor relationship for immigration purposes if it satisfies three conditions. First, the petitioning successor must fully describe and document the transaction transferring ownership of all, or a relevant part of, the beneficiary's predecessor employer. Second, the petitioning successor must demonstrate that the job opportunity is the same as originally offered on the labor certification. Third, the petitioning successor must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that it is eligible for the immigrant visa in all respects.

Evidence of transfer of ownership must show that the successor not only purchased assets from the predecessor, but also the essential rights and obligations of the predecessor necessary to carry on the includes “mergers,” consisting of a transaction in which one of the constituent companies remains in being, absorbing the other constituent corporation. The third type of combination includes “reorganizations” that occur when the new corporation is the reincarnation or reorganization of one previously existing. The fourth group includes transactions in which a corporation, although continuing to exist as a “shell” legal entity, is in fact merged into another through the acquisition of its assets and business operations. 19 Am. Jur. 2d Corporations § 2165 (2010).

<sup>3</sup> For example, unlike a corporation with its own distinct legal identity, if a general partnership adds a partner after the filing of a labor certification application, a Form I-140 filed by what is essentially a new partnership must contain evidence that this partnership is a successor-in-interest to the filer of the labor certification application. See Matter of United Investment Group, 19 I&N Dec. 248 (Comm'r 1984). Similarly, if the employer identified in a labor certification application is a sole proprietorship, and the petitioner identified in the Form I-140 is a business organization, such as a corporation which happens to be solely owned by the individual who filed the labor certification application, the petitioner must nevertheless establish that it is a bona fide successor-in-interest.

<sup>4</sup> The mere assumption of immigration obligations, or the transfer of immigration benefits derived from approved or pending immigration petitions or applications, will not give rise to a successor-in-interest relationship unless the transfer results from the bona fide acquisition of the essential rights and obligations of the predecessor necessary to carry on the business. See 19 Am. Jur. 2d Corporations § 2170; see also 20 C.F.R. § 656.12(a).

business. To ensure that the job opportunity remains the same as originally certified, the successor must continue to operate the same type of business as the predecessor, in the same metropolitan statistical area and the essential business functions must remain substantially the same as before the ownership transfer. See Matter of Dial Auto, 19 I&N Dec. at 482.

In order to establish eligibility for the immigrant visa in all respects, the petitioner must support its claim with all necessary evidence, including evidence of ability to pay. The petitioning successor must prove the predecessor's ability to pay the proffered wage as of the priority date and until the date of transfer of ownership to the successor. In addition, the petitioner must establish the successor's ability to pay the proffered wage in accordance from the date of transfer of ownership forward. 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2); see also Matter of Dial Auto, 19 I&N Dec. at 482.

Applying the analysis set forth above to the instant petition, the petitioner has not established a valid successor relationship for immigration purposes.

In the instant matter, the director determined that because the original petitioner amended the labor certification after the claimed date of sale to the successor, no successor-in-interest relationship had been established. The record reflects that the instant petition was filed on July 17, 2007, with the petitioner's name as [REDACTED]. Counsel asserts that [REDACTED] was sold to [REDACTED] DDS in August 2006. On June 1, 2009, the director denied the petition, stating that [REDACTED] DDS had failed to establish a successor-in-interest relationship and the petitioner had failed to establish the ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage. On July 7, 2009, [REDACTED] submitted an amended Form I-140, with his name as petitioner, as evidence in support of his claimed successor-in-interest relationship to the petitioner. The submission of a new Form I-140 with a name change does not establish a successor-in-interest relationship.

As previously stated, the petitioning successor must first fully describe and document the transaction transferring ownership of all, or a relevant part of, the beneficiary's predecessor employer. The record contains a copy of a Bill of Sale stating that [REDACTED] was sold to [REDACTED] effective August 1, 2006. The document describes the transfer of business and establishes that [REDACTED] assumes specifically listed assets and property. The Bill of Sale does not indicate that control over employees would be transferred.

The record also includes a letter from [REDACTED] DDS dated June 29, 2009, in which Dr. [REDACTED] states that he agreed to continue sponsorship of the instant labor certification petition and gave Mr. [REDACTED] authority to sign related documents. However, in his brief submitted with the motion to reopen, counsel states that Dr. [REDACTED] owned and operated two other dental practices. The record includes Form 1120S (2006) for [REDACTED] and Form 1120S (2007) for [REDACTED]. Each entity has a different tax identification number. It is unclear as to which entity is the successor and if the claimed successor is a corporation or a sole proprietor. In the response to the director's Request for Evidence (RFE), the petitioner claims that [REDACTED] has the ability to pay the proffered wage, but it submitted Forms 1040 for [REDACTED] indicating that the claimed successor is a sole proprietorship. Based on the above evidence in the record, the petitioning successor has not established that it is a successor-in-interest to the original petitioner.

The petitioner must also demonstrate its continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage beginning on the priority date onwards.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

The petitioner must demonstrate the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage beginning on the priority date, which is the date the Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification, was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the DOL. See 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(d). The petitioner must also demonstrate that, on the priority date, the beneficiary had the qualifications stated on its Form ETA 750, Application for Alien Employment Certification, as certified by the DOL and submitted with the instant petition. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Acting Reg'l Comm'r 1977).

Here, the Form ETA 750 was accepted on March 26, 2005. The proffered wage as stated on the Form ETA 750 is $14.77 per hour ($30,721.60 per year based on 40 hours per week). The Form ETA 750 states that the position requires two years of college in the dental field, and two years of experience or two years of studies in the dental field.

The AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis. See Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004). The AAO considers all pertinent evidence in the record, including new evidence properly submitted upon appeal.<sup>5</sup>

The evidence in the record of proceeding shows that the petitioner is structured as a S corporation. On the petition, the petitioner claimed to have been established in 2002 and to currently employ two workers. According to the tax returns in the record, the petitioner's fiscal year is based on a calendar year. On the Form ETA 750B, signed by the beneficiary on November 6, 2006, the beneficiary did not claim to have worked for the petitioner.

The petitioner must establish that its job offer to the beneficiary is a realistic one. Because the filing of an ETA 750 labor certification application establishes a priority date for any immigrant petition later based on the ETA 750, the petitioner must establish that the job offer was realistic as of the priority date and that the offer remained realistic for each year thereafter, until the beneficiary obtains lawful <sup>5</sup> The submission of additional evidence on appeal is allowed by the instructions to the Form I-290B, which are incorporated into the regulations by the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(1). The record in the instant case provides no reason to preclude consideration of any of the documents newly submitted on appeal. See Matter of Soriano, 19 I&N Dec. 764 (BIA 1988).

permanent residence. The petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is an essential element in evaluating whether a job offer is realistic. See Matter of Great Wall, 16 I&N Dec. 142 (Acting Reg'l Comm'r 1977); see also 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2). In evaluating whether a job offer is realistic, United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) requires the petitioner to demonstrate financial resources sufficient to pay the beneficiary's proffered wages, although the totality of the circumstances affecting the petitioning business will be considered if the evidence warrants such consideration. See Matter of Sonegawa, 12 I&N Dec. 612 (Reg'l Comm'r 1967).

In determining the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage during a given period, USCIS will first examine whether the petitioner employed and paid the beneficiary during that period. If the petitioner establishes by documentary evidence that it employed the beneficiary at a salary equal to or greater than the proffered wage, the evidence will be considered prima facie proof of the petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage. In the instant case, the petitioner has not established that it employed and paid the beneficiary the full proffered wage during any relevant timeframe including the period from the priority date in 2005 or subsequently.

If the petitioner does not establish that it employed and paid the beneficiary an amount at least equal to the proffered wage during that period, USCIS will next examine the net income figure reflected on the petitioner's federal income tax return, without consideration of depreciation or other expenses. River Street Donuts, LLC v. Napolitano, 558 F.3d 111 (1st Cir. 2009); Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d 873 (E.D. Mich. 2010), aff'd, No. 10-1517 (6th Cir. filed Nov. 10, 2011). Reliance on federal income tax returns as a basis for determining a petitioner's ability to pay the proffered wage is well established by judicial precedent. Elatos Restaurant Corp. v. Sava, 632 F. Supp. 1049, 1054 (S.D.N.Y. 1986) (citing Tongatapu Woodcraft Hawaii, Ltd. v. Feldman, 736 F.2d 1305 (9th Cir. 1984)); see also Chi-Feng Chang v. Thornburgh, 719 F. Supp. 532 (N.D. Texas 1989); K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. 1080 (S.D.N.Y. 1985); Ubeda v. Palmer, 539 F. Supp. 647 (N.D. Ill. 1982), aff'd, 703 F.2d 571 (7th Cir. 1983). Reliance on the petitioner's gross receipts and wage expense is misplaced. Showing that the petitioner's gross receipts exceeded the proffered wage is insufficient. Similarly, showing that the petitioner paid wages in excess of the proffered wage is insufficient.

In K.C.P. Food Co., Inc. v. Sava, 623 F. Supp. at 1084, the court held that the Immigration and Naturalization Service, now USCIS, had properly relied on the petitioner's net income figure, as stated on the petitioner's corporate income tax returns, rather than the petitioner's gross income. The court specifically rejected the argument that USCIS should have considered income before expenses were paid rather than net income. See Taco Especial v. Napolitano, 696 F. Supp. 2d at 881 (gross profits overstate an employer's ability to pay because it ignores other necessary expenses).

With respect to depreciation, the court in River Street Donuts noted:

The AAO recognized that a depreciation deduction is a systematic allocation of the cost of a tangible long-term asset and does not represent a specific cash expenditure during the year claimed. Furthermore, the AAO indicated that the allocation of the depreciation of a long-term asset could be spread out over the years or concentrated into a few depending on the petitioner's choice of accounting and depreciation methods. Nonetheless, the AAO explained that depreciation represents an actual cost of doing business, which could represent either the diminution in value of buildings and equipment or the accumulation of funds necessary to replace perishable equipment and buildings. Accordingly, the AAO stressed that even though amounts deducted for depreciation do not represent current use of cash, neither does it represent amounts available to pay wages.

We find that the AAO has a rational explanation for its policy of not adding depreciation back to net income. Namely, that the amount spent on a long term tangible asset is a "real" expense.

River Street Donuts at 118. “[USCIS] and judicial precedent support the use of tax returns and the net income figures in determining petitioner’s ability to pay. Plaintiffs’ argument that these figures should be revised by the court by adding back depreciation is without support.” Chi-Feng Chang at 537 (emphasis added).

The record before the director closed on July 6, 2009 with the receipt by the director of the petitioner’s submissions with its Motion to Reopen. As of that date, the petitioner’s 2009 federal income tax return was not yet due. Therefore, the petitioner’s income tax return for 2008 was the most recent return available.

As previously noted, the record is unclear as to which entity is the successor and if the claimed successor is a corporation or a sole proprietor. Even if the AAO were to accept that the successor is Dr. [REDACTED]’s sole proprietorship, no list of personal expenses was submitted. The petitioner is a sole proprietorship, a business in which one person operates the business in his or her personal capacity. Black’s Law Dictionary 1398 (7th Ed. 1999). Unlike a corporation, a sole proprietorship does not exist as an entity apart from the individual owner. See Matter of United Investment Group, 19 I&N Dec. 248, 250 (Comm’r 1984). Therefore the sole proprietor’s adjusted gross income, assets and personal liabilities are also considered as part of the petitioner’s ability to pay. Sole proprietors report income and expenses from their businesses on their individual (Form 1040) federal tax return each year. The business-related income and expenses are reported on Schedule C and are carried forward to the first page of the tax return. Sole proprietors must show that they can cover their existing business expenses as well as pay the proffered wage out of their adjusted gross income or other available funds. In addition, sole proprietors must show that they can sustain themselves and their dependents. See Ubeda v. Palmer, 539 F. Supp. 647 (N.D. Ill. 1982), aff’d, 703 F.2d 571 (7th Cir. 1983).

The petitioner’s tax returns for 2005 through 2006 and the successor-in-interest’s tax returns for 2007 through 2009 demonstrate its net income as shown in the table below.

- In 2005, the petitioner’s Form 1120S stated a net income<sup>6</sup> of $31,232.

<sup>6</sup> Where an S corporation’s income is exclusively from a trade or business, USCIS considers net income to be the figure for ordinary income, shown on line 21 of page one of the petitioner’s IRS Form 1120S.

- In 2006, the petitioner's Form 1120S stated a net income of $79,943.
- In 2007, the Dr. [REDACTED] Form 1040 stated an adjusted gross income<sup>7</sup> of $189,247.
- In 2008, the Dr. [REDACTED] Form 1040 stated an adjusted gross income of $122,742.
- In 2009, the Dr. [REDACTED] Form 1040 stated an adjusted gross income of $130,429.

Thus, for the years 2005 through 2006, the petitioner did have sufficient net income to pay the proffered wage. Although Dr. [REDACTED] adjusted gross income is more than the proffered wage, no annual expenses were provided. Thus, the AAO cannot properly analyze Dr. [REDACTED] ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage.

Therefore, from the date the Form ETA 750 was accepted for processing by the DOL, the petitioner has not established that it had the continuing ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date through an examination of its net income.

The evidence submitted does not establish that the petitioner had the continuing ability to pay the proffered wage beginning on the priority date.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The previous AAO decision is withdrawn. The appeal is dismissed. The petition remains denied.

However, where an S corporation has income, credits, deductions or other adjustments from sources other than a trade or business, they are reported on Schedule K. If the Schedule K has relevant entries for additional income, credits, deductions or other adjustments, net income is found on line 17e (2004-2005) or line 18 (2006-2011) of Schedule K. See Instructions for Form 1120S, at <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/i1120s.pdf> (accessed May 13, 2013) (indicating that Schedule K is a summary schedule of all shareholders' shares of the corporation's income, deductions, credits, etc.). Because the petitioner had additional income, credits, deductions, or other adjustments shown on its Schedule K for 2006, the petitioner's net income is found on Schedule K of its tax return.

<sup>7</sup> The petitioner is a sole proprietorship, a business in which one person operates the business in his or her personal capacity. Black's Law Dictionary 1398 (7th Ed. 1999). Unlike a corporation, a sole proprietorship does not exist as an entity apart from the individual owner. See Matter of United Investment Group, 19 I&N Dec. 248, 250 (Comm'r 1984). Therefore the sole proprietor's adjusted gross income, assets and personal liabilities are also considered as part of the petitioner's ability to pay. Sole proprietors report income and expenses from their businesses on their individual (Form 1040) federal tax return each year. The business-related income and expenses are reported on Schedule C and are carried forward to the first page of the tax return. Sole proprietors must show that they can cover their existing business expenses as well as pay the proffered wage out of their adjusted gross income or other available funds. In addition, sole proprietors must show that they can sustain themselves and their dependents. See Ubeda v. Palmer, 539 F. Supp. 647 (N.D. Ill. 1982), aff'd, 703 F.2d 571 (7th Cir. 1983).
