IN RE: Petitioner: [REDACTED]
Beneficiary: [REDACTED]

PETITION: Immigrant Petition for Special Immigrant Religious Worker Pursuant to Section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), as described at Section 101(a)(27)(C) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C)

ON BEHALF OF PETITIONER:

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. All documents have been returned to the office that originally decided your case. Any further inquiry must be made to that office.

Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center, initially approved the employment-based immigrant visa petition. Upon further review, the director determined that the petition had been approved in error. The director properly served the petitioner with a notice of intent to revoke, and subsequently revoked the approval of the petition. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be sustained and the approval of the petition will be reinstated.

The petitioner is the mother church of the Church of Scientology. It seeks to classify the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as a member of the Sea Organization (Sea Org), a religious order of the Church of Scientology. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that the beneficiary's position qualifies as either a religious occupation or a religious vocation

Section 205 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1155, states: "The Secretary of Homeland Security may, at any time, for what he deems to be good and sufficient cause, revoke the approval of any petition approved by him under section 204."

Regarding the revocation on notice of an immigrant petition under section 205 of the Act, the Board of Immigration Appeals has stated:

In Matter of Estime, . . . this Board stated that a notice of intention to revoke a visa petition is properly issued for "good and sufficient cause" where the evidence of record at the time the notice is issued, if unexplained and un rebutted, would warrant a denial of the visa petition based upon the petitioner's failure to meet his burden of proof. The decision to revoke will be sustained where the evidence of record at the time the decision is rendered, including any evidence or explanation submitted by the petitioner in rebuttal to the notice of intention to revoke, would warrant such denial.

Matter of Ho, 19 I&N Dec. 582, 590 (BIA 1988) (citing Matter of Estime, 19 I&N 450 (BIA 1987)).

By itself, the director's realization that a petition was incorrectly approved is good and sufficient cause for the issuance of a notice of intent to revoke an immigrant petition. Matter of Ho. The approval of a visa petition vests no rights in the beneficiary of the petition, as approval of a visa petition is but a preliminary step in the visa application process. The beneficiary is not, by mere approval of the petition, entitled to an immigrant visa. Id. at 582.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 204.5(m)(2) offers the following pertinent definitions:

Religious occupation means an activity which relates to a traditional religious function. Examples of individuals in religious occupations include, but are not limited to, liturgical workers, religious instructors, religious counselors, cantors, catechists, workers in religious hospitals or religious health care facilities, missionaries, religious translators, or religious broadcasters. This group does not include janitors, maintenance workers, clerks, fund raisers, or persons solely involved in the solicitation of donations.

Religious vocation means a calling to religious life evidenced by the demonstration of commitment practiced in the religious denomination, such as the taking of vows. Examples of individuals with a religious vocation include, but are not limited to, nuns, monks, and religious brothers and sisters.

The regulation reflects that positions whose duties are primarily administrative or secular in nature do not qualify as religious occupations. Citizenship and Immigration Services therefore interprets the term “traditional religious function” to require a demonstration that the duties of the position are directly related to the religious creed of the denomination, that the position is defined and recognized by the governing body of the denomination, and that the position is traditionally a permanent, full-time, salaried occupation within the denomination.

In an affidavit dated February 29, 2000, [REDACTED] one of the petitioner’s personnel officers, describes the beneficiary’s work:

In 1990 [the beneficiary] took vows with the Church of Scientology’s religious order, the Sea Organization. In early 1991, [the beneficiary] also completed his basic training as a member of the Sea Organization in the principles of Scientology and the Order. . . .

[The beneficiary’s] high ethics level, qualifications and skills [qualified him] for a special position [with the petitioner] responsible for the security of the confidential advanced Religious Scriptures, the safety of parishioners and staff and ensuring the Religious Services and spiritual counseling are not disturbed on Church premises. . . .

[O]nly Scientologists and members of . . . the Sea Organization, are qualified for such [a] position of utmost trust. . . .

It is Church policy that the scriptures, parishioners and Church premises’ security be entrusted to members of the Sea Organization and not to any private security force. . . .

Sea Organization members devote their lives to their religion; they live in community with other Sea Organization members and wear specific uniforms. Their meals, housing, clothes, medical and dental care are provided by the Church. Each member additionally receives a small weekly allowance, currently $50.00 per week and occasional small bonuses.

The director revoked the approval of the petition, stating that the beneficiary’s duties providing security for the petitioner are largely secular in nature. The director also concluded that that the petitioner has failed “to show that the Sea Organization has a governing structure, a formal legal organizing instrument, set theological education standards, or operates with its own budget and assets.” The director did not explain the source of these requirements. The director acknowledged the members’ “life-long commitment to their faith,” but determined that there is insufficient evidence to conclude that the Sea Org is a religious order, whose members qualify as workers in a religious vocation.

The Church of Scientology has provided various documents and affidavits discussing the Sea Org. Upon careful consideration of these materials, the AAO is satisfied that the Sea Org qualifies as a religious order, and that its members practice a religious vocation. Because a discussion of specific duties is germane to religious occupations, but not religious vocations, we need not analyze the beneficiary's exact duties in any detail.

Having concluded that the Sea Org is a religious order, we must now determine whether or not the beneficiary has been a full member of that order since at least two years prior to the petition's March 2, 2000 filing date, as required by section 101(a)(27)(C)(iii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C)(iii), and 8 C.F.R. §§ 204.5(m)(1) and (3)(ii)(A).

The record contains copies of several certificates, including a "Sea Organization Contract of Employment," which reads, in part, "I contract myself to the Sea Organization for the next billion years," signed by the beneficiary and dated December 16, 1990.

The director, in denying the petition, observed that the Sea Org "Contract of Employment" is not a decisive instrument of membership in the Sea Org, and that "[t]he petitioner submitted no documentary evidence to show that the beneficiary is in fact a full member" of the Sea Org.

On appeal, the petitioner submits materials concerning the various steps required to join the Sea Org, such as completion of the Estates Project Force (EPF) and review by a Fitness Board. From materials made available to us, we have concluded that an individual who has successfully passed review by the Fitness Board can be considered a member of the Sea Org (as opposed to a recruit, who is not a full member). Therefore, the petitioner can establish that the beneficiary possesses the relevant experience by submitting church records showing that the beneficiary passed the Fitness Board at least two years before March 2, 2000 and continuously engaged in the vocation during that time.

In a supplement to the appeal, the petitioner submits copies of church documents, including a document indicating that the beneficiary passed the Fitness Board on January 30, 1991, the same day he completed "Product Zero." This indicates that the beneficiary was a full member of the Sea Org for more than nine years prior to the petition's March 2000 filing date. One document is a new reconstruction, but other documents reproduced in the record are contemporaneous documents from the 1990s. The director cites no contradictory evidence that would cast doubt on the information shown on the documents submitted on appeal, or show that the beneficiary engaged in disqualifying outside employment during the relevant two-year period.

Pursuant to the above discussion, the petitioner has overcome the stated grounds for revocation. Upon review of the record, we see no readily apparent obstacle to the approval of the petition. The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has sustained that burden. Accordingly, the decision of the director denying the petition will be withdrawn and the approval of the petition will be reinstated.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained and the petition is approved.
