DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center, denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition, and it is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner is a church. It seeks to classify the beneficiary as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as an instructor and engineer. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that the position qualifies as that of a religious occupation or vocation and that it is a bona fide nonprofit religious organization.

The petitioner timely filed a Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, on which it requested “a reasonable time [to] prepare all the necessary evidence we are about to gather so that we may sustain this motion” The petitioner indicated on the Form I-290B that it would submit a brief and/or additional evidence to the AAO within 30 days. As of the date of this decision, however, more than twenty months after the appeal was filed, no further documentation has been received by the AAO. Therefore, the record will be considered complete as presently constituted.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) states, in pertinent part:

An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.

The petitioner has failed to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or a statement of fact in this proceeding; therefore, the appeal must be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
