DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center, denied the employment-based immigrant visa petition. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The AAO will reject the appeal and return the petition for further action by the director.

The alien seeks classification as a special immigrant religious worker pursuant to section 203(b)(4) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(4), to perform services as a local church planter and resident pastor for [REDACTED] in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The director determined that the evidence submitted did not establish that the employer qualifies as a bona fide non-profit religious organization in the United States.

Part 1 of the Form I-360 petition identifies [REDACTED] of Oklahoma City as the petitioner. Review of the petition form, however, indicates that the alien is the petitioner. An applicant or petitioner must sign his or her own application or petition. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(a)(2). In this instance, Part 10 of the Form I-360, "Signature," shows the signature not of any official from the church, but of the alien himself. Thus, the alien, and not the church, has taken responsibility for the content of the petition.

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(iii)(B) states that, for purposes of appeals, certifications, and reopening or reconsideration, "affected party" (in addition to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS)) means the person or entity with legal standing in a proceeding. The USCIS regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(2)(v)(A)(1) states that an appeal filed by a person or entity not entitled to file it must be rejected as improperly filed. In such a case, USCIS will not refund any filing fee it has accepted.

Here, the party that filed the appeal was not the petitioner, but rather [REDACTED] an official from [REDACTED] of Oklahoma City. Because [REDACTED] of Oklahoma City did not file the petition, it is not an affected party, and therefore it has no standing to file an appeal on the petitioner's behalf. The AAO must, therefore, reject the appeal as improperly filed.

The AAO notes, at the same time, that the director sent the notice of decision not to the self-petitioning alien, but to the church, presumably because Part 1 of the Form I-360 identified it as the petitioner. Thus, the director has never issued any relevant notices to the petitioner himself.

8 C.F.R. § 103.8(a)(1) defines "routine service" as mailing a copy by ordinary mail addressed to a person at his last known address and states that service by mail is complete upon mailing. Here, because the director never sent any denial notice to the self-petitioning alien, the director has arguably never served the notice of denial. Thus, the self-petitioning alien has never had the opportunity to file a timely appeal. The director must reissue the denial notice in order to give the actual petitioner that opportunity.

The AAO notes that, if the self-petitioning alien chooses to appeal the director's decision, the AAO will duly consider statements from church officials, but as witness statements rather than as the petitioner's own arguments. Because there is, as yet, no valid appeal in the record, the AAO will not examine, here, the basis of the denial. The AAO will duly consider those factors if and when the self-petitioning alien files a proper and timely appeal.

The party that filed the appeal is not an affected party with legal standing in the proceeding. Therefore, the appeal will be rejected as improperly filed. The director must serve a newly dated copy of the decision, properly addressed to the true petitioner.

ORDER: The appeal is rejected. The matter is returned to the director for the limited purpose of the reissuance of the decision.
