Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The Director, California Service Center, denied the employment-based nonimmigrant visa petition. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is a "missions agency." It seeks classification of the beneficiary as a nonimmigrant religious worker pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(R)(1) of the Act to perform services as a missionary. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it qualifies as a bona fide nonprofit religious organization exempt from taxation under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC).

On appeal, the petitioner asserts that as a church it "is not required to apply for tax exempt status from the IRS." The petitioner submits a statement and additional documentation in support of the appeal.

Section 101(a)(15)(R) of the Act pertains to an alien who:

- (i) for the 2 years immediately preceding the time of application for admission, has been a member of a religious denomination having a bona fide nonprofit, religious organization in the United States; and
- (ii) seeks to enter the United States for a period not to exceed 5 years to perform the work described in subclause (I), (II), or (III) of paragraph (27)(C)(ii).

Section 101(a)(27)(C)(ii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(27)(C)(ii), pertains to a nonimmigrant who seeks to enter the United States:

- (I) solely for the purpose of carrying on the vocation of a minister of that religious denomination,
- (II) . . . in order to work for the organization at the request of the organization in a professional capacity in a religious vocation or occupation, or
- (III) . . . in order to work for the organization (or for a bona fide organization which is affiliated with the religious denomination and is exempt from taxation as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986) at the request of the organization in a religious vocation or occupation.

The issue presented is whether the petitioner has established that it is a bona fide nonprofit tax-exempt religious organization.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(r)(3) defines a tax-exempt organization as "an organization that has received a determination letter from the IRS [Internal Revenue Service] establishing that it, or a group it belongs to, is exempt from taxation in accordance with section[] 501(c)(3) of the [IRC]." The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(r)(9) provides:

Evidence relating to the petitioning organization. A petition shall include the following initial evidence relating to the petitioning organization:

- (i) A currently valid determination letter from the IRS showing that the organization is a tax-exempt organization; or
- (ii) For a religious organization that is recognized as tax-exempt under a group tax-exemption, a currently valid determination letter from the IRS establishing that the group is tax-exempt; or
- (iii) For a bona fide organization that is affiliated with the religious denomination, if the organization was granted tax-exempt status under section 501(c)(3), or subsequent amendment or equivalent sections of prior enactments, of the [IRC], as something other than a religious organization:
  - (A) A currently valid determination letter from the IRS establishing that the organization is a tax-exempt organization;
  - (B) Documentation that establishes the religious nature and purpose of the organization, such as a copy of the organizing instrument of the organization that specifies the purposes of the organization;
  - (C) Organizational literature, such as books, articles, brochures, calendars, flyers, and other literature describing the religious purpose and nature of the activities of the organization; and
  - (D) A religious denomination certification. The religious organization must complete, sign and date a statement certifying that the petitioning organization is affiliated with the religious denomination. The statement must be submitted by the petitioner along with the petition.

With the petition, filed on January 5, 2012, the petitioner submitted a January 4, 2012 letter from [REDACTED] its director of operations, who stated:

This letter serves as notice that [the petitioning organization] is both a legal and operational subsidiary of [REDACTED] [REDACTED] is a not-for-profit church organization that is tax exempt under compliance of section 501(c)(3) of the [IRC].

The petitioner submitted a copy of the April 2000 articles of incorporation filed with the Indiana Secretary of State and flyers regarding the organization. The petitioner failed to submit a currently valid letter from the IRS to establish it or its parent organization is a bona fide nonprofit religious organization. In an April 24, 2012 request for evidence (RFE), the director instructed the petitioner to submit documentation in accordance with the above-cited regulation to establish that it is a bona fide nonprofit religious organization. The petitioner submitted no documentation responsive to the director's request.

On appeal, petitioner, citing to IRS Publication 1828, asserts, "As a church that meets IRS's requirements First Baptist Church is 'automatically considered tax exempt and are not required to apply for and obtain a recognition of tax-exempt status from the IRS.'" In a June 25, 2013 letter, [REDACTED] states, [REDACTED] and its associated ministries are recognized by the IRS as a tax exempt organization. Churches are not required to obtain a letter of determination from the IRS." [REDACTED] then provides an excerpt from IRS Publication 1828 to support her statement. [REDACTED] identified the petitioning organization as one of the associated ministries of [REDACTED]

The regulations governing immigration under the purview of the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) and those governing federal taxation under the purview of the IRS serve two different purposes. While the IRS regulations may automatically exempt churches as nonprofit organizations for the purpose of determining whether such an organization is required to file a federal tax return and pay taxes, the USCIS regulation offers no such exemption for those organizations who seek benefits under immigration laws. The AAO notes that the IRS guidance to churches includes the following advisory:

Although there is no requirement to do so, many churches seek recognition of tax-exempt status from the IRS because such recognition assures church leaders, members, and contributors that the church is recognized as exempt and qualifies for related tax benefits.

IRS Publication 1828, Tax Guide for Churches and Religious Organizations.

Thus, the IRS recognizes that there may be reasons why a church may want to obtain official IRS recognition as a tax-exempt organization although under IRS regulations, the church is not required to do so. The IRS provides detailed guidance on how to obtain a determination letter that applies equally to churches as to other religious organizations. Id.

According to IRS Publication 557, the IRS does not automatically accept that a particular organization is a church simply because the organization states that it is. The organization must meet the requirements of section 501(c)(3) to be automatically exempt, and one of the reasons for choosing to file the IRS Form 1023, Application for Recognition of Exemption Under Section

501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code, is to receive IRS recognition of the organization as a church.<sup>1</sup>

Further, while the Act and its implementing regulations do not require an organization to establish that it is a church to qualify as a bona fide nonprofit religious organization, the organization must establish that its tax-exemption is based on its religious nature. As discussed earlier, the IRS and USCIS regulations serve different purposes, and while a currently valid letter from the IRS recognizing an organization as a church is required under USCIS regulation, the IRS automatic exemption of a church as nonprofit is unrelated to the USCIS requirements that the organization establish itself as both a religious organization and as a nonprofit organization for immigration purposes.

Furthermore, IRS Publication advises churches:

A church with a parent organization may wish to contact the parent to see if it has a group ruling. If the parent holds a group ruling, then the IRS may already recognize the church as tax exempt. Under the group exemption process, the parent organization becomes the holder of a group ruling that identifies other affiliated churches or other affiliated organizations. A church is recognized as tax exempt if it is included in a list provided by the parent organization. If the church or other affiliated organization is included on such a list, it does not need to take further action to obtain recognition of tax-exempt status.

The petitioner has failed to provide a letter from the IRS recognizing it as tax-exempt under section 501(c)(3) of the IRC. The petitioner also failed to provide a letter establishing that its parent organization has received a group ruling from the IRS and therefore that the petitioner is covered under a group exemption granted to [REDACTED]

The petitioner has failed to establish that it is a bona fide nonprofit religious organization exempt as defined by the regulation.

Beyond the director's decision, the petitioner has failed to establish how it will compensate the beneficiary.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 214.2(r)(11) provides:

Evidence relating to compensation. Initial evidence must state how the petitioner intends to compensate the alien, including specific monetary or in-kind compensation, or whether the alien intends to be self-supporting. In either case, the petitioner must submit verifiable evidence explaining how the petitioner will compensate the alien or how the alien will be self-supporting. Compensation may include:

(i) Salaried or non-salaried compensation. Evidence of compensation may include past evidence of compensation for similar positions; budgets showing monies set aside for salaries, leases, etc.; verifiable documentation that room and board will be provided; or other evidence acceptable to USCIS. IRS documentation, such as IRS Form W-2 [Wage and Tax Statement] or certified tax returns, must be submitted, if available. If IRS documentation is unavailable, the petitioner must submit an explanation for the absence of IRS documentation, along with comparable, verifiable documentation.

(ii) Self support.

(A) If the alien will be self-supporting, the petitioner must submit documentation establishing that the position the alien will hold is part of an established program for temporary, uncompensated missionary work, which is part of a broader international program of missionary work sponsored by the denomination.

(B) An established program for temporary, uncompensated work is defined to be a missionary program in which:

- (1) Foreign workers, whether compensated or uncompensated, have previously participated in R-1 status;
- (2) Missionary workers are traditionally uncompensated;
- (3) The organization provides formal training for missionaries; and
- (4) Participation in such missionary work is an established element of religious development in that denomination.

(C) The petitioner must submit evidence demonstrating:

- (1) That the organization has an established program for temporary, uncompensated missionary work;
- (2) That the denomination maintains missionary programs both in the United States and abroad;
- (3) The religious worker's acceptance into the missionary program;
- (4) The religious duties and responsibilities associated with the traditionally uncompensated missionary work; and
- (5) Copies of the alien's bank records, budgets documenting the sources of self-support (including personal or family savings, room and board with host families in the United States, donations from the denomination's churches), or other verifiable evidence acceptable to USCIS.

In Part 5, question 9 of the Form I-129, Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker, the petitioner stated that the beneficiary's wages will vary. In Section 1, question 5d, the petitioner stated that the beneficiary's salary would "be based on an honorarium basis and will vary. The average income will be ~$18,000.00 per year." The petitioner submitted none of the documentation outlined by the above-cited regulation. The petitioner has therefore failed to establish how it will compensate the beneficiary.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004) (noting that the AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis).

The petition will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. In visa petition proceedings, the burden of proving eligibility for the benefit sought remains entirely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, that burden has not been met. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
