DISCUSSION: The service center director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition. The matter is now on appeal before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO). The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner submitted a Petition for Nonimmigrant Worker (Form I-129) to the Vermont Service Center. On the Form I-129 visa petition, the petitioner describes itself as an enterprise engaged in green consulting services that was established in 2009. In order to employ the beneficiary in what it designates as an environmental services director position, the petitioner seeks to classify her as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b).

The director denied the petition, finding that the petitioner failed to establish eligibility for the benefit sought.

The petitioner submitted a Notice of Appeal or Motion (Form I-290B) on October 16, 2012. The AAO conducted a preliminary review of the record of proceeding and found that the petitioner was incorporated in the State of Delaware, but according to the Form I-129 and the Labor Condition Application, it appeared that the petitioner was conducting business in the State of Tennessee. Further, upon search of the petitioner's address and the designated work site for the beneficiary, the AAO found that both locations were residential homes. The AAO issued a Request for Evidence on April 19, 2013, requesting evidence to establish that the business entity is in good standing and has the requisite permits and licenses to conduct business. The petitioner failed to respond to the AAO's request.

A petition may be summarily denied as abandoned, denied based on the record, or denied for both reasons if a petitioner fails to respond to a request for evidence or a notice of intent to deny by the required date. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(13)(i). In the RFE, the AAO specifically alerted the petitioner that failure to respond to the RFE would result in dismissal since the AAO could not substantively adjudicate the appeal without the information requested. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14).

Because the petitioner failed to respond to the RFE, the AAO is dismissing the appeal and summarily denying the petition as abandoned. The remaining issues in this proceeding are thereby moot.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed as abandoned.
