DISCUSSION: The service center director denied the nonimmigrant visa petition. The matter is now on appeal before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO). The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The petitioner submitted a Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker (Form I-129) to the Vermont Service Center. On the Form I-129 visa petition, the petitioner describes itself as an enterprise engaged in information technology solutions and services that was established in 1999. In order to employ the beneficiary in what it designates as a computer systems analyst position, the petitioner seeks to classify him as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b).

The director denied the petition, finding that the petitioner failed to establish eligibility for the benefit sought in accordance with the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions. Thereafter, the petitioner's counsel submitted a Notice of Appeal or Motion (Form I-290B). Counsel checked Box B in Part 2 of the form to indicate that the petitioner was filing an appeal and that a brief and/or additional evidence would be submitted to the AAO within 30 days. In Part 3 of the Form I-290B, entitled "Basis for the Appeal or Motion," there is a box bearing the instructions, "Appeal: Provide a statement explaining any erroneous conclusion of law or fact for the decision being appealed." This box was left blank. Along with the Form I-290B, counsel submitted a copy of Form I-797C, Notice of Action, which is a receipt notice for the underlying Form I-129 petition. No other documents or correspondence was provided. To date, the AAO has not received a brief and/or additional evidence.

The regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) states, in pertinent part: "An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal." In the instant case, the petitioner has failed to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or a statement of fact by the director as a basis for the appeal and, therefore, the appeal must be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed.
