DISCUSSION: The nonimmigrant visa petition was revoked by the service center director and the matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed as the matter is now moot.

The petitioner submitted a Petition for a Nonimmigrant Worker (Form I-129) to the California Service Center on September 28, 2011. In the Form I-129 visa petition, the petitioner describes itself as a business engaged in computer and software consultancy established in 1994. In order to employ the beneficiary in what it designates as a manager position, the petitioner sought to classify him as a nonimmigrant worker in a specialty occupation pursuant to section 101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1101(a)(15)(H)(i)(b).

The petition was initially approved; however, the director subsequently issued a Notice of Intent to Revoke (NOIR) the approval of the petition. After reviewing the petitioner's response to the NOIR, the director determined that the petitioner had not overcome the grounds for revocation and revoked the approval of the petition. On appeal, counsel asserts that the director's bases for revocation of the approval of the petition were erroneous.

A review of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) records indicates that on a date subsequent to the revocation, another employer filed a Form I-129 petition seeking nonimmigrant H-1B classification on behalf of the beneficiary. USCIS records further indicate that this other employer's petition was approved. Because the beneficiary in the instant petition has been approved for H-1B employment with another petitioner, further pursuit of the matter at hand is moot.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
