DISCUSSION: The waiver application was denied by the District Director, New York, New York, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Yemen who has resided in the United States since August 1999, when he used another person's passport and visa to gain admission into the United States. He was found to be inadmissible to the United States under section 212(a)(6)(C)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(C)(i), for having procured admission to the United States through fraud or misrepresentation. The applicant seeks a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(i) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(i), in order to remain in the United States.

The District Director concluded that the applicant failed to show extreme hardship to a qualifying relative and denied the application accordingly. See Decision of District Director dated October 2, 2009.

On appeal, counsel for the applicant indicates the District Director's decision was incorrect as a matter of law because the applicant was 13 years old at the time of his entry, and as such cannot be found liable for a misrepresentation. Counsel adds that even if the applicant is found to be inadmissible under section 212(a)(6)(C)(i), the applicant has demonstrated that his spouse will experience extreme hardship.

The record reflects that on January 26, 2012, counsel for the applicant's spouse forwarded a letter to USCIS, stating that the Form I-130 petitioner for the applicant wished to withdraw any petitions she submitted on the applicant's behalf, including the Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative. The letter included a statement and signature from the petitioner attesting to her wish to withdraw the Form I-130 as well as any subsequent petitions filed on behalf of the applicant. Accordingly, the Form I-130 Petition for Alien Relative is withdrawn. This withdrawal cannot be retracted. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(6).

The filing of a Form I-601 waiver application is predicated on the necessity to demonstrate admissibility, which in this case is a requirement for adjustment to permanent resident status under section 245 of the Act. Although USCIS allows for the simultaneous filing of Forms I-130 and I-485, the applicant's eligibility to apply for adjustment to permanent resident status is dependent on approval of the Form I-130 petition filed by his spouse.

The purpose of the Form I-130 petition is to establish for immigration purposes the validity of the marriage relationship between the applicant and his spouse. In the absence of an approved I-130 petition, the applicant is not entitled to apply for adjustment of status, and his application for adjustment cannot be approved regardless of whether he is admissible or, if not, whether a waiver is available for any ground of inadmissibility.

In the absence of an underlying approved Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative, the Form I-601, Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility, is moot. The appeal of the denial of the waiver must therefore be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
