DISCUSSION: The waiver application was denied by the Field Office Director, San Bernadino, California. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of the Philippines who was found to be inadmissible to the United States under section 212(a)(6)(C)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(C)(i), for procuring admission to the United States through fraud or misrepresentation. The applicant seeks a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(i) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(i), to reside in the United States with her U.S. Citizen spouse.

The field office director concluded that the applicant failed to establish that extreme hardship would be imposed on a qualifying relative and denied the Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility (Form I-601) accordingly. See Decision of the Field Office Director, dated August 25, 2009.

On appeal, counsel for the applicant asserts that the waiver application was erroneously denied.

The record reflects that on September 21, 2011, the applicant's spouse forwarded a letter to USCIS, stating that the Form I-130 petitioner for the applicant wished to withdraw his name from any petition for the applicant's green card. This would include the Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative, that the petitioner filed on the applicant's behalf. The letter included a statement and signature from the petitioner attesting to his wish to withdraw the Form I-130. Accordingly, the Form I-130 Petition for Alien Relative is withdrawn. This withdrawal cannot be retracted. 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(6).

The filing of a Form I-601 waiver application is predicated on the necessity to demonstrate admissibility, which in this case is a requirement for adjustment to permanent resident status under section 245 of the Act. Although USCIS allows for the simultaneous filing of Forms I-130 and I-485, the applicant's eligibility to apply for adjustment to permanent resident status is dependent on approval of the Form I-130 petition filed by her spouse.

The purpose of the Form I-130 petition is to establish for immigration purposes the validity of the marriage relationship between the applicant and her spouse. In the absence of an approved I-130 petition, the applicant is not entitled to apply for adjustment of status, and her application for adjustment cannot be approved regardless of whether she is admissible or, if not, whether a waiver is available for any ground of inadmissibility.

In the absence of an underlying approved Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative, the Form I-601, Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility, is moot. The appeal must therefore be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
