DISCUSSION: The waiver application was denied by the Field Office Director, Ciudad, Juarez. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Mexico. She was found to be inadmissible to the United States pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(i)(II) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(i)(II), for having been unlawfully present in the United States for one year or more and seeking admission within ten years of her last departure. She is married to a United States citizen. She seeks a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(v).

The field office director concluded that the applicant had failed to establish that the bar to her admission would impose extreme hardship on a qualifying relative, her U.S. citizen spouse, and denied the Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility (Form I-601) on January 27, 2009.

On appeal, counsel for the applicant states that the applicant's spouse will experience extreme hardship. Form I-290B, received on February 26, 2009.

United States Citizenship and Immigration (USCIS) records indicate that the applicant entered the United States without inspection in January 2001 and remained until February 2002, entered without inspection again in April 2002 and remained until June 2002, and entered again without inspection in November 2003 and remained until January 2007. The applicant therefore accrued unlawful presence from January 2001 to February 2002, April 2002 until June 2002 and November 2003 until January 2007. Her re-entry into the United States in April 2002 after a year of previous unlawful presence rendered her inadmissible pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(C)(i)(I).

Section 212(a)(9) of the Act states in pertinent part:

(C) Aliens unlawfully present after previous immigration violations

(i) In general.-Any alien who-

(I) has been unlawfully present in the United States for an aggregate period of more than 1 year, or

(II) has been ordered removed under section 235(b)(1), section 240, or any other provision of law and who enters or attempts to reenter the United States without being admitted is inadmissible.

(ii) Exception.- Clause (i) shall not apply to an alien seeking admission more than 10 years after the date of the alien's last departure from the United States if, prior to the alien's reembarkation at a place outside the United States or attempt to be readmitted from a foreign contiguous territory, the Secretary has consented to the alien's reapplying for admission.

As the applicant accrued a previous period of unlawful presence, from January 2001 to February 2002, and then re-entered the United States without inspection in April 2002, she is inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(C)(i)(I) of the Act.

An alien who is inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(C) of the Act may not apply for consent to reapply unless the alien has been outside the United States for more than 10 years since the date of the alien's last departure from the United States. See Matter of Torres-Garcia, 23 I&N Dec. 866 (BIA 2006). Thus, to avoid inadmissibility under section 212(a)(9)(C) of the Act, it must be the case that the applicant's last departure was at least ten years ago, the applicant has remained outside the United States and USCIS has consented to the applicant's reapplying for admission. In the present matter, the applicant's last departure from the United States occurred less than ten years ago. She is currently statutorily ineligible to apply for permission to reapply for admission. As such, no purpose would be served in adjudicating her waiver under section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act.

As the applicant is statutorily ineligible to file a waiver application, the appeal will be dismissed as a matter of law.'

In proceedings for application for waiver of grounds of inadmissibility under section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act, the burden of proving eligibility rests with the applicant. See section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. Here, the applicant has not met that burden. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
