Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The waiver application was denied by the Field Office Director, Accra, Ghana, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The record reflects that the applicant is a native and citizen of Senegal who was found to be inadmissible to the United States pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(i)(II) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(i)(II), for having been unlawfully present in the United States for more than one year and seeking readmission within ten years of her last departure from the United States; and section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(6)(B), for failing to attend a removal proceeding. The applicant also was found inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(A)(i) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. §1182(a)(9)(A)(i), for being ordered removed from the United States. The record indicates that the applicant is married to a U.S. citizen and the mother of a U.S. citizen child. She is the beneficiary of an approved Petition for Alien Relative (Form I-130). The applicant seeks a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(v), in order to reside in the United States with her spouse and child.

The Field Office Director found that the applicant had failed to establish reasonable cause for failure to attend her removal proceeding and that no waiver was available for the applicant's inadmissibility under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act. He denied the Application for Waiver of Grounds of Inadmissibility (Form I-601) accordingly. Decision of the Field Office Director, dated August 23, 2012. The AAO notes that the Field Office Director also denied the applicant's Application for Permission to Reapply for Admission After Deportation or Removal (Form I-212) in the same decision.

On appeal the applicant, through counsel, asserts that the Field Office Director erred in finding that the applicant "had not shown reasonable cause for failure to attend her removal proceeding." Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal or Motion, dated September 15, 2012. Counsel claims that the applicant failed to appear at her removal proceeding because former counsel "maliciously prevented her" from attending the hearing by advising her to not attend. Id. Additionally, counsel claims that former counsel caused other aliens to be ordered removed in absentia and her behavior cannot be attributed to the applicant. Id.

Section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act states:

> Failure to attend removal proceeding.-Any alien who without reasonable cause fails or refuses to attend or remain in attendance at a proceeding to determine the alien's inadmissibility or deportability and who seeks admission to the United States within 5 years of such alien's subsequent departure or removal is inadmissible.

The record reflects that on September 22, 2001, the applicant entered the United States on a B-2 nonimmigrant visa. The applicant's first husband filed a Form I-130 on behalf of the applicant, which was denied on December 9, 2005, for failure to appear. Additionally, the applicant's Form I-485, Application to Register Permanent Residence or Adjust Status was denied the same day. On January 20, 2006, the applicant was served a Form I-862, Notice to Appear (NTA), before an immigration judge. On April 20, 2006, the immigration court sent the applicant a notice of hearing set for June 21, 2006, to the address the applicant provided. When she did not appear on June 21, 2006, an immigration judge ordered the applicant removed in absentia from the United States. On July 17, 2010, the applicant departed the United States. The applicant has not contested these facts. Rather, the applicant has argued that she had "reasonable cause" for failing to attend her removal proceeding, and that she is not inadmissible under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act as a consequence.

Counsel asserts that the applicant has demonstrated reasonable cause for her failure to attend removal proceedings. However, the instant appeal relates to a Form I-601 application for a waiver of inadmissibility arising under sections 212(g), (h), (i) or (a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act. Inadmissibility under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act and the "reasonable cause" exception thereto, is not the subject of the Form I-601 and is not within the subject matter jurisdiction of the AAO to adjudicate with this appeal.

The AAO's appellate authority in this case is limited to those matters that are within the scope of the Form I-601 waiver application. The authority to adjudicate appeals is delegated to the AAO by the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) pursuant to the authority vested in her through the Homeland Security Act of 2002, Pub. L. 107-296. See DHS Delegation Number 0150.1 (effective March 1, 2003); see also 8 C.F.R. § 2.1 (2003). The AAO exercises appellate jurisdiction over the matters described at 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii) (as in effect on February 28, 2003).[1] The AAO cannot exercise appellate jurisdiction over additional matters on its own volition, or at the request of an applicant or petitioner. As a "statement of general . . . applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy," the creation of appeal rights for adjustment application denials meets the definition of an agency "rule" under section 551 of the Administrative Procedure Act. The granting of appeal rights has a "substantive legal effect" because it is creating a new administrative "right," and it involves an economic interest (the fee). "If a rule creates rights, assigns duties, or imposes obligations, the basic tenor of which is not already outlined in the law itself, then it is substantive." La Casa Del Convaleciente v. Sullivan, 965 F.2d 1175, 1178 (1st Cir. 1992). All substantive or legislative rule making requires notice and comment in the Federal Register.

Under 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii)(F) (as in effect on February 28, 2003), the AAO has authority to adjudicate "[a]pplications for waiver of certain grounds of excludability [now inadmissibility] under § 212.7(a) of this chapter." 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a)(1) currently provides that an alien who is inadmissible and eligible for a waiver may apply for a waiver on a form designated by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) in accordance with the form instructions. A waiver, if granted, applies to those grounds of inadmissibility and "to those crimes, events or incidents specified in the application for waiver." 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a). The form instructions for the Form I-601,[2] to which 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a) refers, further defines the classes of aliens who may file a Form I-601, and the form itself provides a list of each ground of inadmissibility that can be waived, allowing the applicant to check a box next to those [1] Although 8 C.F.R. § 103(f)(3)(iii), as in effect on February 28, 2003, was subsequently omitted from the Code of Federal Regulations, courts have recognized that DHS continues to delegate appellate authority to the AAO consistent with that regulation. See U.S. v. Gonzalez & Gonzalez Bonds and Insurance Agency, Inc., 728 F.Supp.2d 1077, 1082- 1083 (N.D. Cal. 2010); see also Rahman v. Napolitano, 814 F.Supp.2d 1098, 1103 (W.D. Washington 2011).

grounds for which the applicant seeks a waiver. As there is no statutory basis to waive inadmissibility under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act, neither the Form I-601 nor the instructions for Form I-601 list this ground of inadmissibility.

The object of the Form I-601 waiver application, in the context of an application for an immigrant visa filed at a consulate or embassy abroad, is to remove inadmissibility as a basis of ineligibility for that visa. An alien is not required to file a separate waiver application for each ground of inadmissibility, but rather one application that, if approved, extends to all inadmissibilities specified in the application. However, where an alien is subject to an inadmissibility that cannot be waived, approval of the waiver application would not have the intended effect. Thus, no purpose is served in adjudicating such a waiver application, and USCIS may deny it for that reason as a matter of discretion. Cf. Matter of J- F- D-, 10 I&N Dec. 694 (Reg. Comm. 1963).

Counsel addresses the decision of the Field Office Director and asserts that the applicant has shown a reasonable cause for her failure to attend her removal proceeding. As the AAO lacks jurisdiction to review the "reasonable cause" issue, we will not evaluate the facts as presented and find that no purpose is served in adjudicating the applicant's application for a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act.

The AAO notes that the Field Office Director denied the applicant's Form I-212 in the same decision. Matter of Martinez-Torres, 10 I&N Dec. 776 (reg. Comm. 1964) held that an application for permission to reapply for admission is denied, in the exercise of discretion, to an alien who is mandatorily inadmissible to the United States under another section of the Act, and no purpose would be served in granting the application. As the applicant is inadmissible under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act no purpose would be served in granting the applicant's Form I-212.

Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361, provides that the burden of proof is on the applicant to establish eligibility for the benefit sought. The applicant has failed to overcome the basis of denial of her Form I-601 waiver application.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
