Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The waiver application was denied by the Field Office Director, San Salvador, El Salvador. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador. She was found to be inadmissible to the United States pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(i)(II) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(i)(II), for having been unlawfully present in the United States in excess of one year and seeking readmission within ten years of her last departure from the United States. The applicant was also found to be inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(A)(ii) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(A)(ii) as an alien previously removed. The applicant's father is a United States citizen and she seeks a waiver of inadmissibility in order to reside in the United States. The applicant seeks a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1182(a)(9)(B)(v), in order to remain in the United States with her U.S. citizen father and children.

When considering the applicant's request for waiver of this ground of inadmissibility, the Field Office Director determined that the applicant was also inadmissible to the United States pursuant to section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act for failing to attend removal proceedings and seeking admission to the United States within five years of her subsequent removal. See Decision of Field Office Director, dated September 22, 2011. The application was accordingly denied.

On appeal, the applicant asserts that the applicant has demonstrated reasonable cause for her failure to attend removal proceedings. The applicant additionally contends that the five year bar to admission under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act can be waived. Form I-290B (Notice of Appeal or Motion), dated April 16, 2012.

Section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act states:

Failure to attend removal proceeding. -Any alien who without reasonable cause fails or refuses to attend or remain in attendance at a proceeding to determine the alien's inadmissibility or deportability and who seeks admission to the United States within 5 years of such alien's subsequent departure or removal is inadmissible.

The record reflects that the applicant entered the United States on July 25, 2002 without inspection and was placed into removal proceedings and issued a Notice to Appear. The applicant did not attend the removal proceedings scheduled for November 2, 2002 and was subsequently ordered removed in absentia by the Immigration Judge. The applicant stated during an interview for an immigrant visa that she voluntarily departed the United States on June 12, 2011. The applicant was determined to have accrued unlawful presence in excess of one year and found inadmissible pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(i)(II) of the Act from her entry on July 25, 2002 until her departure in June of 2011. The AAO concurs in this finding and the applicant upon appeal does not contest inadmissibility under this section of the Act.

The applicant was also found inadmissible based on sections 212(a)(6)(B)(i), and 212(a)(9)(A)(ii) of the Act, based on her failure to attend a removal proceeding without reasonable cause and seeking admission to the United States within five years of such alien's departure. On appeal the applicant asserts that she had "reasonable cause" for failing to attend her removal proceeding, and that she is therefore not inadmissible under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act as a consequence.

Despite the applicant's request for a review of the denial, there is no statutory waiver available for inadmissibility arising under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act. However, an alien is not inadmissible under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act if the alien can establish that there was a "reasonable cause" for failure to attend his or her removal proceeding.

The applicant states that she has demonstrated reasonable cause for her failure to attend removal proceedings. However, the instant appeal relates to a Form I-601 application for a waiver of inadmissibility arising under sections 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act. Inadmissibility under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act and the "reasonable cause" exception thereto, is not the subject of the Form I-601 and is not within the subject matter jurisdiction of the AAO to adjudicate with this appeal.

The AAO's appellate authority in this case is limited to those matters that are within the scope of the Form I-601 waiver application. The authority to adjudicate appeals is delegated to the AAO by the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) pursuant to the authority vested in her through the Homeland Security Act of 2002, Pub. L. 107-296. See DHS Delegation Number 0150.1 (effective March 1, 2003); see also 8 C.F.R. § 2.1 (2003). The AAO exercises appellate jurisdiction over the matters described at 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii) (as in effect on February 28, 2003).¹ The AAO cannot exercise appellate jurisdiction over additional matters on its own volition, or at the request of an applicant or petitioner. As a "statement of general . . . applicability and future effect designed to implement, interpret, or prescribe law or policy," the creation of appeal rights for adjustment application denials meets the definition of an agency "rule" under section 551 of the Administrative Procedure Act. The granting of appeal rights has a "substantive legal effect" because it is creating a new administrative "right," and it involves an economic interest (the fee). "If a rule creates rights, assigns duties, or imposes obligations, the basic tenor of which is not already outlined in the law itself, then it is substantive." La Casa Del Convaleciente v. Sullivan, 965 F.2d 1175, 1178 (1st Cir. 1992). All substantive or legislative rule making requires notice and comment in the Federal Register.

Under 8 C.F.R. § 103.1(f)(3)(iii)(F) (as in effect on February 28, 2003), the AAO has authority to adjudicate "[a]pplications for waiver of certain grounds of excludability [now inadmissibility] under § 212.7(a) of this chapter." 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a)(1) currently provides that an alien who is inadmissible and eligible for a waiver may apply for a waiver on a form designated by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) in accordance with the form instructions. A waiver, if granted, applies to those grounds of inadmissibility and "to those crimes, events or incidents specified in the application for waiver.” 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a). The form instructions for the Form I-601,² to which 8 C.F.R. § 212.7(a) refers, further defines the classes of aliens who may file a Form I-601, and the form itself provides a list of each ground of inadmissibility that can be waived, allowing the applicant to check a box next to those grounds for which the applicant seeks a waiver. As there is no statutory basis to waive inadmissibility under section 212(a)(6)(B) of the Act, neither the Form I-601 nor the instructions for Form I-601 list this ground of inadmissibility.

The object of the Form I-601 waiver application, in the context of an application for an immigrant visa filed at a consulate or embassy abroad, is to remove inadmissibility as a basis of ineligibility for that visa. An alien is not required to file a separate waiver application for each ground of inadmissibility, but rather one application that, if approved, extends to all inadmissibilities specified in the application. However, where an alien is subject to an inadmissibility that cannot be waived, approval of the waiver application would not have the intended effect. Thus, no purpose is served in adjudicating such a waiver application, and USCIS may deny it for that reason as a matter of discretion. Cf. Matter of J- F- D-, 10 I&N Dec. 694 (Reg. Comm. 1963).

The applicant addresses the decision of the Field Office Director and asserts that she has shown a reasonable cause for her failure to attend her removal proceeding. As the AAO lacks jurisdiction to review the “reasonable cause” issue, we will not evaluate the facts as presented and find that no purpose is served in adjudicating the applicant’s application for a waiver of inadmissibility pursuant to section 212(a)(9)(B)(v) of the Act.

The AAO notes that the field office director denied the applicant’s Form I-212 Application for Permission to Reapply for Admission into the United States After Deportation or Removal (Form I-212) in the same decision. Matter of Martinez-Torres, 10 I&N Dec. 776 (reg. Comm. 1964) held that an application for permission to reapply for admission is denied, in the exercise of discretion, to an alien who is mandatorily inadmissible to the United States under another section of the Act, and no purpose would be served in granting the application. As the applicant is inadmissible under section 212(a)(9)(B)(i)(II) of the Act no purpose would be served in granting the applicant’s Form I-212.

Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361, provides that the burden of proof is on the applicant to establish eligibility for the benefit sought. The applicant has failed to overcome the basis of denial of her Form I-601 waiver application. Accordingly, the appeal will be dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
