IN RE: Applicant:

APPLICATION: Application for Status as a Temporary Resident pursuant to Section 245A of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended, 8 U.S.C. § 1255a

ON BEHALF OF APPLICANT:

SELF-REPRESENTED

INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. The file has been returned to the office that originally decided your case. If your appeal was sustained, or if your case was remanded for further action, you will be contacted. If your appeal was dismissed, you no longer have a case pending before this office, and you are not entitled to file a motion to reopen or reconsider your case.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status was denied by the Director, New York District Office, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because she found the applicant statutorily ineligible for temporary resident status. Specifically, the applicant stated under oath and in writing that he first entered the United States in 1982.

On appeal, the applicant asked for more time to gather additional evidence in support of his application. The applicant also explained that during his early years in the United States all his transactions were done in cash. The applicant also indicated he is trying to locate people he knows, including his landlord, to provide affidavits. The applicant provided no additional evidence or explanation to overcome the reasons for denial of his application. Specifically, the applicant failed to explain his oral and written statement that indicated he is statutorily ineligible for temporary resident status because he did not enter the United States prior to January 1, 1982.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed.

A review of the decision reveals the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has he addressed the grounds stated for denial. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
