INSTRUCTIONS:

This is the decision of the Administrative Appeals Office in your case. The file has been returned to the office that originally decided your case. If your appeal was sustained, or if your case was remanded for further action, you will be contacted. If your appeal was dismissed, you no longer have a case pending before this office, and you are not entitled to file a motion to reopen or reconsider your case.

Robert P. Wiemann, Chief
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for temporary resident status was denied by the Director, National Benefits Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The director denied the application because he found the applicant had failed to submit credible documents that would constitute a preponderance of evidence as to his residence in the United States during the statutory period.

On appeal, the applicant stated that the copy he had provided of his I-94 card showed that he had entered the United States on August 18, 1987. He also reiterated that he resided continuously in the United States throughout the requisite period. The applicant provided no additional evidence or explanation to overcome the reasons for denial of his application.

The applicant indicated he would submit a brief in support of his appeal within 30 days. More than two months has passed since the appeal was filed. Multiple attempts were made to contact the applicant's attorney to request that a brief be submitted, but these attempts were unsuccessful. As a result, the record will be considered complete.

As stated in 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv), any appeal which is filed that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed.

A review of the decision reveals the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has he addressed the grounds stated for denial. The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
