Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application for permanent resident status under the Legal Immigration Family Equity (LIFE) Act was denied by the director in New York City. The decision is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The applicant, a native of Pakistan who claims to have lived in the United States since September 1981, filed his application for legal permanent resident status under the LIFE Act (Form I-485) on May 23, 2002. The director denied the application on March 7, 2008, on the grounds that the applicant failed to submit sufficient credible evidence to establish that he entered the United States before January 1, 1982 and resided continuously in the country in an unlawful status through May 4, 1988. In particular, the director cited numerous inconsistencies and fraud in the documentation of record concerning the applicant's continuous residence in the United States during the 1980s as well as his initial date of entry into the United States, which undermined the credibility of all the applicant's evidence. The applicant timely appealed the decision to the AAO.

On his Form I-290B, Notice of Appeal, and an accompanying letter, the applicant asserts that the director failed to properly evaluate and give due weight to the evidence in the record. The applicant requests that the director "review my case sympathetically and also on humanitarian grounds as I am suffering from Ischemic Cardiomyopathy and need a heart transplant." The applicant evades the evidentiary conflicts discussed by the director, however, offering no explanation for the numerous discrepancies and fraud set forth in the decision. The applicant does not allege any legal or factual error in the director's decision and has submitted no new evidence bearing on the grounds for denial discussed in the decision. Humanitarian grounds are not a legal basis for granting permanent resident status under the LIFE Act. As of the date of this decision, no additional evidence has been submitted, and the record will be deemed complete.

Any appeal that fails to state the reason for appeal, or is patently frivolous, will be summarily dismissed. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(3)(iv),

A review of the decision reveals that the director accurately set forth a legitimate basis for denial of the application. On appeal, the applicant has not presented additional evidence. Nor has he addressed the fundamental bases for the denial – i.e., the conflicting and fraudulent documentation in the record.

The appeal must therefore be summarily dismissed.

ORDER: The appeal is summarily dismissed. This decision constitutes a final notice of ineligibility.
