Robert P. Wiemann, Director
Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, Texas Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director denied the application because the applicant failed to establish that she was eligible for late registration.

On appeal, the applicant submits a statement and additional evidence.

Section 244(c) of the Act, and the related regulations in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2, provide that an applicant who is a national of a foreign state designated by the Attorney General is eligible for temporary protected status only if such alien establishes that he or she:

- (a) Is a national, as defined in section 101(a)(21) of the Act, of a foreign state designated under section 244(b) of the Act;
- (b) Has been continuously physically present in the United States since the effective date of the most recent designation of that foreign state;
- (c) Has continuously resided in the United States since such date as the Attorney General may designate;
- (d) Is admissible as an immigrant except as provided under section 244.3;
- (e) Is not ineligible under 8 C.F.R. § 244.4; and
- (f)
  - (1) Registers for TPS during the initial registration period announced by public notice in the Federal Register, or
  - (2) During any subsequent extension of such designation if at the time of the initial registration period:
    - (i) The applicant is a nonimmigrant or has been granted voluntary departure status or any relief from removal;
    - (ii) The applicant has an application for change of status, adjustment of status, asylum, voluntary departure, or any relief from removal which is pending or subject to further review or appeal;
    - (iii) The applicant is a parolee or has a pending request for reparole; or
    - (iv) The applicant is a spouse or child of an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant.

- (g) Has filed an application for late registration with the appropriate Service director within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of conditions described in paragraph (f)(2) of this section.

The phrase continuously physically present, as defined in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, means actual physical presence in the United States for the entire period specified in the regulations. An alien shall not be considered to have failed to maintain continuous physical presence in the United States by virtue of brief, casual, and innocent absences as defined within this section.

The phrase continuously resided, as defined in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, means residing in the United States for the entire period specified in the regulations. An alien shall not be considered to have failed to maintain continuous residence in the United States by reason of a brief, casual and innocent absence as defined within this section or due merely to a brief temporary trip abroad required by emergency or extenuating circumstances outside the control of the alien.

The phrase brief, casual, and innocent absence, as defined in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, means a departure from the United States that satisfies the following criteria:

- (1) Each such absence was of short duration and reasonably calculated to accomplish the purpose(s) for the absence;
- (2) The absence was not the result of an order of deportation, an order of voluntary departure, or an administrative grant of voluntary departure without the institution of deportation proceedings; and
- (3) The purposes for the absence from the United States or actions while outside of the United States were not contrary to law.

Persons applying for TPS offered to El Salvadorans must demonstrate that they have continuously resided in the United States since February 13, 2001, and that they have been continuously physically present since March 9, 2001. On July 9, 2002, the Attorney General announced an extension of the TPS designation until September 9, 2003. Subsequent extensions of the TPS designation have been granted, with the latest extension valid through September 9, 2006, upon the applicant's re-registration during the requisite time period.

The initial registration period for El Salvadorans was from March 9, 2001, through September 9, 2002. The record reveals that the applicant filed her initial TPS application with Citizenship and Immigration Services (CIS), on September 17, 2003, while still considered a minor child, for immigration purposes.

The burden of proof is upon the applicant to establish that she meets the above requirements. Applicants shall submit all documentation as required in the instructions or requested by CIS. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(a). The sufficiency of all evidence will be judged according to its relevancy, consistency, credibility, and probative value. To meet her burden of proof the applicant must provide supporting documentary evidence of eligibility apart from her own statements. 8 C.F.R. § 244.9(b).

To qualify for late registration, the applicant must provide evidence that during the initial registration period she fell within the provisions described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2) (listed above). If the qualifying condition or application has expired or been terminated, the individual must file within a 60-day period immediately following the expiration or termination of the qualifying condition in order to be considered for late initial registration. 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(g).

On January 6, 2004, the applicant was requested to submit evidence establishing her eligibility for late registration as set forth in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). The applicant was also requested to submit evidence establishing her continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite periods. In addition, the applicant was requested to submit photo identification or a national identity document bearing a photograph and/or fingerprint. The applicant, in response, provided photocopies of documentation relating to her identity, nationality, and her residence and physical presence in the United States.

The director determined that the applicant had failed to establish she was eligible for late registration and denied the application on February 10, 2004.

On appeal, the applicant states that she would like to work and be legal in this country. She states that her family is still living here because "[her] father is resident [sic]." In support of the appeal, the applicant submits photocopies of the following documentation:

1. The biographic page of her El Salvadoran passport issued on October 20, 2003, by the Consulate General, Dallas, Texas;
2. Another copy of her El Salvadoran birth certificate;
3. Receipts in her name dated between "12-01-00" and "12-01-03;"
4. A letter addressed to the applicant, dated September 21, 2000, from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), assigning an Individual Taxpayer Number (ITN) to the applicant;
5. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Forms 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, for 2001 and 2002, in the name of the applicant's father, listing the applicant, with her assigned ITN, as a dependent on the tax returns (earlier submission of the tax forms included the father's corresponding IRS Forms W-2, Wage and Tax Statement, from his employers);
6. A receipt notice for the applicant's September 2003 TPS application; and,
7. A lease document in the name of [REDACTED] and their minor children, for 2000-2001; and,
8. A letter dated "03-02-04" from the Hispanic Ministry, Church of the Immaculate Conception, Fort Smith, Arkansas, stating that the applicant is a member.

The applicant submitted evidence in an attempt to establish her qualifying continuous residence and continuous physical presence in the United States. However, this evidence does not mitigate the applicant's failure to file her Form I-821, Application for Temporary Protected Status, within the initial registration period. The applicant has not submitted any evidence to establish that either of her parents is an alien currently eligible to be a TPS registrant. The applicant's record also does not contain evidence pertaining to her father's status in the United States.

A review of the record of the applicant's father (file [REDACTED]) reflects that he filed a Form I-589, Application for Asylum and Withholding of Deportation, on May 3, 1995. On Part B, Question 2, of the Form I-589, Mr. [REDACTED] did not include any information about his unmarried children under the age of 21. The record also contains a Form I-881, NACARA application, filed by [REDACTED] on March 19, 2001. Part 6, Question 1 of the Form I-881, asks if the applicant has any children and requests information about the children regardless of their age. On his Form I-881, [REDACTED] checked the box indicating that he did not have any children, and did not list the applicant. Further, the father's record fails to conclusively establish that he was, himself, a TPS registrant, a requisite for the applicant to be considered eligible for late registration under the TPS program.

The applicant has not submitted sufficient evidence to establish that she has met any of the criteria for late registration described in 8 C.F.R. § 244.2(f)(2). Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for temporary protected status will be affirmed.

An alien applying for temporary protected status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
