John F. Grissom

Acting Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The applicant's Temporary Protected Status (TPS) was withdrawn and an application for re-registration was simultaneously denied by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be summarily dismissed.

The applicant claims to be a citizen of El Salvador who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director denied the application because the applicant failed to provide the requested court dispositions for all her arrests. The director also denied the application because the applicant failed to establish qualifying continuous physical presence in the United States during the requisite period.

On appeal, the applicant does not address the basis for the denial of her application or provide any evidence to overcome the director's findings. The applicant requests a copy of the record of proceedings. The applicant asserted that a brief and/or additional evidence would be submitted within 30 days after the receipt of the record of proceedings. The applicant's request was processed on March 24, 2009. More than 60 days later, however, no additional correspondence has been presented by the applicant.

8 C.F.R. § 103.3(a)(1)(v) states, in pertinent part:

Summary dismissal. An officer to whom an appeal is taken shall summarily dismiss any appeal when the party concerned fails to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal.

The applicant has failed to identify specifically any erroneous conclusion of law or statement of fact for the appeal. Nor did the applicant address or submit any evidence, on appeal, to establish eligibility for TPS and to overcome the director's findings. Accordingly, the appeal will be summarily dismissed.

As always in these proceedings, the burden of proof rests solely with the applicant. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
