Perry Rhew
Chief, Administrative Appeals Office

DISCUSSION: The applicant's Temporary Protected Status was withdrawn by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director withdrew TPS because the applicant had been convicted of at least two misdemeanors in the United States.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the contempt of court conviction should not be considered a misdemeanor because it arose from noncompliance with the sentence imposed in the first conviction.

The director may withdraw the status of an alien granted TPS under section 244 of the Act at any time if it is determined that the alien was not in fact eligible at the time such status was granted, or at any time thereafter becomes ineligible for such status. 8 C.F.R. § 244.14(a)(1).

An alien shall not be eligible for temporary protected status under this section if the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security finds that the alien has been convicted of any felony or two or more misdemeanors committed in the United States. See Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a).

"Misdemeanor" means a crime committed in the United States, either (1) punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, or (2) a crime treated as a misdemeanor under the term "felony" of this section. For purposes of this definition, any crime punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

In response to the notice dated March 13, 2009, the applicant submitted court documentation from the Benton County District Court of Arkansas, which reflects that on April 13, 2003, the applicant was arrested and subsequently charged with domestic assault in the third degree, a Class A misdemeanor. On September 5, 2003, the applicant pled guilty to the charge. The applicant was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail and ordered to pay a fine and attend a domestic abuse class. [REDACTED] On March 5, 2004, the applicant was arrested and subsequently charged with contempt of court. On May 5, 2008, the applicant pled guilty to the charge and was ordered to pay a fine and attend an anger management program. [REDACTED]

According to Arkansas Code Annotated section 16-10-108(b)(1), punishment for contempt of court is a Class C misdemeanor. A Class C misdemeanor is punishable by up to 30 days in jail and a fine not exceeding $100.00. See Arkansas Code Annotated sections 5-4-201 and 5-4-401.

Federal immigration laws should be applied uniformly, without regard to the nuances of state law. See Ye v. INS, 214 F.3d 1128, 1132 (9th Cir. 2000); Burr v. INS, 350 F.2d 87, 90 (9th Cir. 1965). Thus, whether a particular offense under state law constitutes a “misdemeanor” for immigration purposes is strictly a matter of federal law. See Franklin v. INS, 72 F.3d 571 (8th Cir. 1995); Cabral v. INS, 15 F.3d 193, 196 n.5 (1st Cir. 1994). While we must look to relevant state law in order to determine whether the statutory elements of a specific offense satisfy the regulatory definition of “misdemeanor,” the legal nomenclature employed by a particular state to classify an offense or the consequences a state chooses to place on an offense in its own courts under its own laws does not control the consequences given to the offense in a federal immigration proceeding. See Yazdchi v. INS, 878 F.2d 166, 167 (5th Cir. 1989); Babouris V. Esperdy, 269 F.2d 621, 623 (2d Cir. 1959); United States v. Flores-Rodriguez, 237 F.2d 405, 409 (2d Cir. 1956). The applicant, in this case, is applying for benefits under the federal law. Therefore, the applicant’s conviction qualifies as a “misdemeanor” as defined for immigration purposes in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

The applicant is ineligible for TPS due to his two misdemeanor convictions. Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a). Consequently, the director’s decision to withdraw TPS will be affirmed.

An alien applying for temporary protected status has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
