DISCUSSION: The application was denied by the Director, California Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant claims to be a native and citizen of Haiti who is seeking Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director denied the application because the applicant had been convicted of a felony in the United States.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the applicant's application should be granted as TPS is a blanket form of relief under special conditions and it is temporary since it does not lead to permanent immigration benefits. Counsel asserts that the applicant has not committed any crimes since his release from probation in 1999.

An alien shall not be eligible for TPS under this section if the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security finds that the alien has been convicted of any felony or two or more misdemeanors committed in the United States. See Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a).

"Felony" means a crime committed in the United States punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term actually served, if any. There is an exception when the offense is defined by the state as a misdemeanor and the sentence actually imposed is one year or less, regardless of the term actually served. Under this exception, for purposes of 8 C.F.R. § 244 of the Act, the crime shall be treated as a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude (other than a purely political offense), or if he admits having committed such crime, or if he admits committing an act which constitutes the essential elements of such crime. Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act.

The record reflects that on October 7, 1997, the applicant was arrested by the Margate Police Department in Florida for illegal use of credit cards. The applicant was subsequently charged with grand theft in the third degree, a violation of Florida Statute section 812.014, a felony in the third degree. On May 28, 1998, the applicant pled nolo contendere to the charge. Adjudication of guilt was withheld and the applicant was ordered to pay a fine and placed on probation for one year. Case no. [REDACTED]

The term 'conviction' means, with respect to an alien, a formal judgment of guilt of the alien entered by a court or, if adjudication of guilt has been withheld, where - (i) a judge or jury has found the alien guilty or the alien has entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere or has admitted sufficient facts to warrant a finding of guilt, and (ii) the judge has ordered some form of punishment, penalty, or restraint on the alien's liberty to be imposed. Section 101(a)(48)(A) of the Act.

The court disposition reflects that the applicant pled nolo contendere to the offense and the judge ordered some form of punishment and a restraint on the applicant's liberty to the charge above. Therefore, the applicant has been "convicted" of the offense for immigration purposes.

The applicant is ineligible for TPS due to his felony conviction. Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a). Counsel's statements made on appeal have been considered. Despite the temporary nature of TPS, it is a benefit nonetheless. There is no waiver available, even for humanitarian reasons, of the requirements stated above. Consequently, the director's decision to deny the application for this reason will be affirmed.

An application or petition that fails to comply with the technical requirements of the law may be denied by the AAO even if the Service Center does not identify all of the grounds for denial in the initial decision. See Spencer Enterprises, Inc. v. United States, 229 F. Supp. 2d 1025, 1043 (E.D. Cal. 2001), aff'd, 345 F.3d 683 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Soltane v. DOJ, 381 F.3d 143, 145 (3d Cir. 2004) (noting that the AAO conducts appellate review on a de novo basis).

The most commonly accepted definition of a crime involving moral turpitude is an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. Jordan v. De George, 341 U.S. 223, reh'g denied, 341 U.S. 956 (1951). The crime of grand theft involves moral turpitude. Matter of Chen, 10 I&N Dec. 671 (BIA 1964); Matter of Scarpulla, 15 I&N Dec. 139 (BIA 1974). Therefore, the applicant is inadmissible under section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act due to his felony conviction detailed above, and the application must also be denied for this reason. There is no waiver available for inadmissibility under this section of the Act.

The appeal will be dismissed for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for dismissal. An alien applying for TPS has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

Finally, while not the basis for the dismissal of the appeal, it is noted that the record reflects the applicant filed a Form I-589, Application for Asylum and for Withholding of Removal, on January 13, 1995. An exclusion hearing was held on January 8, 1997, and the applicant's asylum application was denied and he was ordered excluded and deported from the United States. The applicant appealed the immigration judge's (IJ) decision to the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA). On November 25, 1997, the BIA dismissed the appeal.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
