DISCUSSION: The applicant's Temporary Protected Status was withdrawn by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of El Salvador who was granted Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director withdrew TPS because the applicant had been convicted of a felony in the United States and because the applicant was found inadmissible under section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act.

On appeal dated July 7, 2011, the applicant asserts that at the time of his trial his attorney failed to adequately represent him. The applicant states that he was found guilty of the offense and his sentencing is scheduled for September 1, 2011. The applicant states that he will be appealing the conviction based on ineffective assistance of counsel. The applicant requests an abeyance of adjudication until a final ruling on the appeal has been issued.

The director may withdraw the status of an alien granted TPS under section 244 of the Act at any time if it is determined that the alien was not in fact eligible at the time such status was granted, or at any time thereafter becomes ineligible for such status. 8 C.F.R. § 244.14(a)(1).

An alien shall not be eligible for TPS under this section if the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security finds that the alien has been convicted of any felony or two or more misdemeanors committed in the United States. See Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a).

"Felony" means a crime committed in the United States punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term actually served, if any. There is an exception when the offense is defined by the state as a misdemeanor and the sentence actually imposed is one year or less, regardless of the term actually served. Under this exception, for purposes of 8 C.F.R. § 244 of the Act, the crime shall be treated as a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

The term 'conviction' means, with respect to an alien, a formal judgment of guilt of the alien entered by a court or, adjudication of guilt has been withheld, where - (i) a judge or jury has found the alien guilty or the alien has entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere or has admitted sufficient facts to warrant a finding of guilt, and (ii) the judge has ordered some form of punishment, penalty, or restraint on the alien's liberty to be imposed. Section 101(a)(48)(A) of the Act.

An alien is inadmissible if he has been convicted of a crime involving moral turpitude (other than a purely political offense), or if he admits having committed such crime, or if he admits committing an act which constitutes the essential elements of such crime. Section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act.

The record contains court documentation in Case no. [REDACTED] from the [REDACTED] of the Commonwealth of Virginia, which indicates that on April 29, 2011, the applicant was found guilty of violating Virginia Code section 18.2-61, rape, a Class U felony. On September 1, 2011, the applicant was sentenced to serve seven years in prison. On December 29, 2011, the applicant filed a motion to vacate before the circuit court. On January 27, 2012, the motion was denied.

It is noted the appeal process will not be held in abeyance while an applicant is seeking post-conviction relief.

As cited above, a felony is any offense that is punishable by imprisonment for a term of more than one year, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any. U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services may only look to the judicial records to determine whether the person has been convicted of the crime, and may not look behind the conviction to reach an independent determination concerning guilt or innocence. Matter of Roberts, 20 I&N Dec. 294 (BIA 1991).

Under the statutory definition of "conviction" provided at section 101(a)(48)(A) of the INA, no effect is to be given, in immigration proceedings, to a state action which purports to expunge, dismiss, cancel, vacate, discharge, or otherwise remove a guilty plea or other record of guilt or conviction. An alien remains convicted for immigration purposes notwithstanding a subsequent state action purporting to erase the original determination of guilt. Matter of Pickering, 23 I&N Dec. 621 (BIA 2003), Matter of Roldan, 22 I. & N. Dec. 512 (BIA 1999). State rehabilitative actions that do not vacate a conviction on the merits as a result of underlying procedural or constitutional defects are of no effect in determining whether an alien is considered convicted for immigration purposes. Matter of Roldan, id.

The most commonly accepted definition of a crime involving moral turpitude is an act of baseness, vileness or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellow men or to society in general, contrary to the accepted and customary rule of right and duty between man and man. Jordan v. De George, 341 U.S. 223, reh'g denied, 341 U.S. 956 (1951). The crime of rape involves moral turpitude. Matter of B-, 5 I&N Dec. 538 (BIA 1953).

The applicant is ineligible for TPS due to his felony conviction. Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a). The applicant is also inadmissible under section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act due to the rape conviction.¹ There is no waiver available for a felony conviction or for inadmissibility under section 212(a)(2)(A)(i)(I) of the Act. Consequently, the director's decision to withdraw TPS on these grounds will be affirmed.

¹Section 212(a)(2)(A)(ii) of the Act provides for an exception to inadmissibility of an alien convicted of only one crime of moral turpitude, where the maximum penalty possible for the crime did not exceed imprisonment for one year and the alien was not sentenced to a term of imprisonment in excess of six months (regardless of the extent to which the sentence was ultimately executed). The applicant does not qualify under this exception.

The application will be denied for the above stated reasons, with each considered as an independent and alternative basis for denial. An alien applying for TPS has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
