DISCUSSION: The applicant's Temporary Protected Status was withdrawn by the Director, Vermont Service Center. The matter is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The applicant is a native and citizen of Honduras who was granted Temporary Protected Status (TPS) under section 244 of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1254.

The director withdrew TPS because the applicant had been convicted of two misdemeanors in the United States.

On appeal, counsel asserts that the offense of driving while intoxicated is not a crime as defined under the regulation at 8 C.F.R. § 244.1, as it is merely a traffic offense. Counsel states that because the Virginia Statute does not have the language requiring "intent," the offense cannot be used as a misdemeanor conviction for immigration purposes.

The director may withdraw the status of an alien granted TPS under section 244 of the Act at any time if it is determined that the alien was not in fact eligible at the time such status was granted, or at any time thereafter becomes ineligible for such status. 8 C.F.R. § 244.14(a)(1).

An alien shall not be eligible for TPS under this section if the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security finds that the alien has been convicted of any felony or two or more misdemeanors committed in the United States. See Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a).

"Misdemeanor" means a crime committed in the United States, either (1) punishable by imprisonment for a term of one year or less, regardless of the term such alien actually served, if any, or (2) a crime treated as a misdemeanor under the term "felony" of this section. For purposes of this definition, any crime punishable by imprisonment for a maximum term of five days or less shall not be considered a misdemeanor. 8 C.F.R. § 244.1.

The term 'conviction' means, with respect to an alien, a formal judgment of guilt of the alien entered by a court or, adjudication of guilt has been withheld, where - (i) a judge or jury has found the alien guilty or the alien has entered a plea of guilty or nolo contendere or has admitted sufficient facts to warrant a finding of guilt, and (ii) the judge has ordered some form of punishment, penalty, or restraint on the alien's liberty to be imposed. Section 101(a)(48)(A) of the Act.

The record contains court documentation from the [REDACTED] of the Commonwealth of Virginia, which indicates that on [REDACTED] the applicant pled guilty to violating Virginia Code § 188.2-57, assault and battery, a Class 1 misdemeanor. The applicant was ordered to pay a fine and court costs and attend an anger management program.

The record also contains court documentation from [REDACTED] of the Commonwealth of Virginia, which indicates that on [REDACTED], the applicant pled guilty to violating Virginia Code § 82-1-6/18.2-266, driving while intoxicated with .08 percent or more alcohol in the blood, a Class 1 misdemeanor. The applicant was ordered to pay a fine and was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail which was suspended.

Federal immigration laws should be applied uniformly, without regard to the nuances of state law. See Ye v. INS, 214 F.3d 1128, 1132 (9th Cir. 2000); Burr v. INS, 350 F.2d 87, 90 (9th Cir. 1965). Thus, whether a particular offense under state law constitutes a "misdemeanor" for immigration purposes is strictly a matter of federal law. See Franklin v. INS, 72 F.3d 571 (8th Cir. 1995); Cabral v. INS, 15 F.3d 193, 196 n.5 (1st Cir. 1994). While we must look to relevant state law in order to determine whether the statutory elements of a specific offense satisfy the regulatory definition of "misdemeanor," the legal nomenclature employed by a particular state to classify an offense or the consequences a state chooses to place on an offense in its own courts under its own laws does not control the consequences given to the offense in a federal immigration proceeding. See Yazdchi v. INS, 878 F.2d 166, 167 (5th Cir. 1989); Babouris V. Esperdy, 269 F.2d 621, 623 (2d Cir. 1959); United States v. Flores-Rodriguez, 237 F.2d 405, 409 (2d Cir. 1956). The applicant, in this case, is applying for benefits under the federal law. Therefore, the definition of misdemeanor as stated in 8 C.F.R. § 244.1 applies in this case.

Virginia law specifically states that a violation of section 18.2-266 is a Class 1 misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in jail. See Virginia Code sections 18.2-270 and 18.2-11. The court documentation clearly indicates that the driving while intoxicated offense is a Class 1 misdemeanor.

For immigration purposes, the applicant was convicted of the misdemeanor offense of driving under the influence within the meaning of section 101(a)(48)(A) of the Act, whether the offense is defined a crime or a traffic offense.

The applicant is ineligible for TPS due to his two misdemeanor convictions. Section 244(c)(2)(B)(i) of the Act and 8 C.F.R. § 244.4(a). Consequently, the director's decision to withdraw TPS will be affirmed.

An alien applying for TPS has the burden of proving that he or she meets the requirements enumerated above and is otherwise eligible under the provisions of section 244 of the Act. The applicant has failed to meet this burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
